Khrushchev Arrives For Summit, Attempt To Split Allies Indicated

PARIS (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev arrived Saturday for a showdown summit meeting on world tensions and tartly — but cautiously — accused unnamed influential circles of trying to preserve a cold war atmosphere.

Western officials at once detected signs of an attempt by the Soviet Premier to drive a wedge between the United States and its Western allies.

Khrushchev's tone was cautious in an airport address. One highly placed Westerner said it seemed Khrushchev, while anxious not to wreck the summit meeting in advance by playing too heavily on the U2 plane incident, still was under severe pressure from his own politicians at home to continue talking tough.

At the same time Westerners regarded as highly significant Khrushchev's prompt move to arrange a meeting with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who arrives Sunday morning, two hours after President Eisenhower. A Khrushchev meeting with President Charles de Gaulle of France already had been arranged.

Both these meetings were arranged upon Khrushchev's initiative, and observers found in this an indication that Khrushchev was attempting to divide the Western allies. There was no Khrushchev request for a meeting with President Eisenhower, and there was no indication that any such request was going to be made.

Eisenhower, Macmillan and De Gaulle are scheduled to meet with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany Sunday afternoon for a Western summit huddle. By that time De Gaulle will have had his meeting with Khrushchev and will be able to fill in his colleagues on what took place.

In his airport speech, Khrushchev appeared to choose his words with caution. It was a moment when an ill-chosen phrase might wreck in advance the meeting Khrushchev anxiously sought for more than two years.

There was some indication that Khrushchev originally had intended not to use any harsh accusation at all in his airport speech and that he inserted it as an afterthought in a prepared text. Informed sources said the official Soviet news agency Tass was required to substitute the amended version later.

'MISS JACKSONVILLE OF 1960

Miss Ingrid Hellwig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hellwig of Crystal Lake, receives the "Miss Jacksonville" crown from Miss Beverly Ann Bray, holder of the title last year after being selected from a field of twelve contestants last night at the Miss Jacksonville Pageant. The annual pageant is sponsored by the Jacksonville Jaycees. The contest was held at Jacksonville high school auditorium.

First runner-up was Miss Ann Barbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barbee; second runner-up was Miss Carol Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Abbott; and third runner-up, Miss Nancy Lee Ricks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Ricks, Jr.

Winner of the Miss Congeniality trophy was Miss Carol Kleihauer and Miss Hellwig captured the trophy for the best talent. Miss Hellwig is a junior at MacMurray College.

The new "Miss Jacksonville" will be the Jacksonville Jaycee entry in the Miss Illinois Pageant at Mt. Vernon in June.

Leaves For Summit Hoping To Convert Spy Incident Into Asset

Eisenhower smiled broadly and waved a cheery farewell as he stepped aboard the military jetliner carrying him on the nine-hour trip to Paris.

The orange-and-silver presidential craft took off from Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, D. C. The craft was due to arrive in Paris Sunday morning after a refueling stop at Goose Bay, Labrador.

Eisenhower's pilot, Col. William Draper, advanced the scheduled departure time by 35 minutes and shifted the planned refueling point from Newfoundland to Labrador because of weather conditions.

The weather was chilly and the skies were gray—there was a smattering of rain—as the chief executive left for the historic Paris conference between East-West heads of state slated to get under way Monday.

The President flew to the base from the White House by helicopter.

There was an absolute minimum of ceremony at the departure and only a few officials were on hand to bid Eisenhower farewell. Church bells pealed in Washington to wish him Godspeed, but at the airfield only a few onlookers attended although earlier thousands had been at the sprawling base to watch Armed Forces Day demonstration.

The top administration official to wave Eisenhower off was Asst. Secretary of State Loy Henderson. Also on hand was Eisenhower's aide, Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons.

In a surprise move Friday, the President abandoned plans to give the nation a farewell message. This seemed to be part of an administration policy of silence in advance of his long-awaited meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the leaders of Britain and France.

Accompanied by a handful of aides, Eisenhower was due to arrive in the French capital Sunday morning for last-minute strategy

Kennedy's Support Strong In 13 States, Demo Leaders Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders across the country Saturday credited Sen. John F. Kennedy with strong support in 13 states which will cast over half the votes needed to nominate the party's 1960 presidential candidate.

These 13, embracing the Massachusetts senator's solid New England but also including New York, Ohio and others as far away from home as Arizona, will have a total of 394 votes at the national convention. It will take 761 to nominate.

In addition, Kennedy was considered by the party leaders to have less than outright support, ranging from slight to considerable, in 17 other states with 58 convention votes.

He shared these 17 with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, whom the front-running Kennedy describes as his chief opponent; Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and others.

The Associated Press polled Democratic state chairmen, members of the Democratic National Committee, and other party chiefs with two questions:

1. Which candidate will your state support at Los Angeles?
2. Who'll be nominated?

Many were ready with opinions on No. 1, but there was a considerable hesitancy at the idea of predicting a candidate eight weeks ahead of convention time.

Still, Democratic leaders in 17 states were willing to guess it would be Kennedy. In four Johnson got the nod. In four others the choice was Symington.

There was scattered mention—usually in tandem with some other possibility—of Adlai E. Stevenson, whom the Democrats nominated in 1952 and 1956 but who has stayed out of the 1960 campaigning.

On the question of which states are strongly for whom, the politicians figured Johnson could count on at least five, with 193 votes.

In 10 other states, with 241 votes, Johnson was credited with support in a widely ranging degree. Also, some politicians said Johnson has additional backing in a considerable number of states uncommitteed as of now.

New York, of course, would be the big prize with its 114 votes. Its state chairman and committeemen are not making predictions

Moscow Airs Interrogation Of U.S. Pilot

LONDON (AP)—Radio Moscow broadcast Saturday extracts of what it called an interrogation of Francis G. Powers, American pilot of the U2 plane shot down May 1 over the Soviet Union.

The text as received in London by the British Broadcasting Corp:

Q. Is the accusation brought against you clear?

A. Yes it is.

Q. Do you plead guilty?

A. I plead guilty to the fact that I have flown over Soviet territory and over the points indicated on the chart, turned on and off the necessary controls of the special equipment mounted aboard my plane that I consider was being done with the aim of collecting intelligence information about the U.S.S.R.

Q. Tell us with more details what you plead guilty to.

A. In accordance with the contract which was signed by me with the CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) of the U.S.A., I am pilot of the special air detachment of the U.S.A., dealing with the collection of information about operational radio stations and radar on the territory of the U.S.S.R. and, as I suppose, about locations of rockets. Our air detachment is permanently located at the U.S. Turkish air base, Incirlik, near Adana City, Turkey. I have been serving in this detachment since August, 1956, and each year for several times flew in special high altitude plane U2 along the borders of the U.S.S.R. with Turkey, Iran and Afghanistan. Besides, in 1956-57 I performed three or four flights over the Black Sea without crossing the state borders of the U.S.S.R. It is difficult for me to recollect the numbers of such flights, but I flew repeatedly.

Honor Lincoln's Grandmother

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton will dedicate a memorial to the grandmother of Abraham Lincoln, Bathsheba Lincoln, in ceremonies at Fort Knox, Ky., Wednesday.

A new granite marker will replace her original tombstone, which has been practically destroyed by souvenir hunters.

Bathsheba Lincoln was the wife of Abraham Lincoln, the 16th president's grandfather, who was killed by Indians while plowing his Kentucky corn field in 1786. One of his five children was Thomas Lincoln, who was to become the Emancipator's father.

Bathsheba Lincoln lived with her children and grandchildren until her death some 50 years after the Civil War president was assassinated.

When she died she was buried in the cemetery of the Mill Creek Baptist Church, which for years has been a part of the Fort Knox reservation.

The new tombstone has as its base a stone, presented by the state of Illinois, from the Lincoln tomb in Springfield.

Nixon, Johnson Get Compliments From Kennedy

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), winding up his Maryland campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, said some nice things Saturday about two men blocking his path to the White House—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex).

Kennedy complimented Nixon, who is expected to be the Republican presidential nominee, for running in party primaries.

And for the first time in Maryland, he excepted Johnson, a major rival for the Democratic nomination, from his sharp criticism of primary-shy aspirants.

Both expressions involved Kennedy's basic contention that, as one who has been successful in all five of his primary battles to date, he has a stronger claim to the nomination than candidates who have skirted state contests.

Nixon, he noted in a speech to about 200 at the Elkton Courthouse, has submitted to such tests.

"I say that in fairness," he added. "And if the Democrats nominate someone who hasn't been willing to run in the primaries, Nixon will be able to say 'I ran and won the support of the people in my party, but the Democratic candidate was handpicked by the political leaders'."

Rockefeller Rejects G O P Nomination For Vice President

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller again rejected Saturday the vice presidential nomination and said he would not attend the Republican National Convention in any capacity.

The New York governor said his mere attendance at the convention could be misconstrued by delegates that he would be willing to accept the vice presidential nomination.

"Frankly," he said in a letter to Sen. Thruston B. Morton (R-Ky), Republican national chairman, "I could not justify leaving the governorship of the State of New York to become vice president."

The governor also turned down Morton's suggestion that he serve at the convention either as keynoter or permanent chairman.

Rockefeller's letter was considered a bold move to squelch once and for all any possibility that he serve as running mate to Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The vice president appears certain to receive the top spot on the Republican slate.

Rockefeller, however, has not endorsed Nixon thus far.

By taking himself out of convention activities, Rockefeller — technically at least—remains a possibility for the presidential nomination.

Traditionally, candidates for the nomination take no public part in the convention.

However, after a disappointing tour of the country last fall to sound out support for himself, Rockefeller bowed out of the presidential race, leaving the way clear for Nixon.

The governor has insisted repeatedly he would not accept the vice presidential nomination, even after Nixon himself made overtures to Rockefeller.

In his letter to Morton, Rockefeller said even his continued rejection of the second place suggestions "has not deterred various members of the Republican party from publicly expressing—in blunt disregard of my own convictions—their purely personal opinion that I would or I should accept a vice presidential nomination."

He continued:

"Their voices have been so persistent that I can only conclude realistically that my mere attendance at the convention could be misconstrued by the delegates. For this reason, I have concluded that I would not attend the convention in any capacity."

BULLETIN

LONDON, (Sunday) (AP)— Moscow radio reported that the Soviet Union Sunday launched a space ship into orbit around the earth.

The Tass announcement said:

"The Soviet Union orbited a space ship around the earth.

"According to the available information, the satellite ship was put into a precalculated orbit, which is close to circular and some 320 kilometers above the surface of the earth, where it separated from the carrier rocket's last stage.

"Its inclination to the equatorial plane is 65 degrees.

"The satellite ship weighs 4 tons 540 kilograms without the last stage of the carrier rocket.

"The ship has a pressurized cabin on board, which contains a dummy spaceman, all the necessary equipment for a future manned flight and, moreover, various instrumentation weighing 1,477 kilograms."

Matador Missile Gets Away; Shot Down By Falcon

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (AP)—A big Matador missile got away Saturday while an Armed Forces Day crowd watched and had to be shot down.

Maj. J. D. Fowler, flying an F106 jet fighter, caught up with the jet-powered guided missile and bagged it with a Falcon rocket.

The Matador, which is supposed to have a system to destroy itself if it goes wild, went into the desert about eight miles northwest of Belen. The town is roughly 125 miles north of the Air Force Missile Development Center, where the Matador was launched.

The Matador launching was not part of the program, but the visitors' attention was called to it since the launch site was in view.

The big Matador, the size of a jet fighter, was to be tested over huge White Sands Missile Range. A program to check out the missiles has been under way there many months.

A pilot in an F100 "chase" plane was flying near the missile when it went wild. Although the Matador is built to blow itself up if something goes wrong, chase planes are sent along to shoot them down if the built-in system doesn't work.

But the chase plane couldn't catch the Matador. So the pilot radioed to Holloman Air Force Base, where the missile center is located, for help.

Invasion Jitters

Castro Says Coast Guard Used Gunfire To Drive Off U.S. Sub

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro gave Cuba a new case of invasion jitters Saturday with his dramatic announcement that one of his coast guard cutters had used gunfire to drive off a U. S. submarine operating without lights near the Cuban coast.

Castro's Friday the 13th television speech to the nation spelled bad luck for the slim hopes of relaxing tension between Washington and Havana.

As usual, he ran on past midnight. He restrained himself from shouting, but he reeled off half a dozen naval, air and diplomatic incidents and blamed them all on the United States.

The 2½-hour speech seemed to give the green light to an anti-American campaign raging in Cuba all week.

The Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union, whose leaders are among the most extreme and most powerful in Cuba, demanded Saturday the expulsion of U. S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal. He was accused of ties to counterrevolutionary groups. It was the strongest direct attack on him recently.

Castro put his stamp of approval on charges that the United States is plotting an armed attack on Cuba. Ignoring previous assurances by U.S. officials, he called on Washington to issue a nonaggression statement.

Citing a navy report, Castro said the coast guard cutter Oriente had spotted a U.S. submarine five miles off the coast of Matanzas on May 6, chased it about 30 miles and taken several shots at the undersea craft until it gave an identifying signal CrC1.

He added that two U.S. warplanes and a destroyer marked USN42 were spotted off the coast on May 7; the destroyer the Sullivans, another submarine and

U.S. Protests Cuba's Attack On Sub While On High Seas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States protested to Cuba Saturday against what it termed an unprovoked attack on a U. S. submarine while on the high seas.

This government demanded an explanation of the incident, while at the same time vigorously disputing accusations by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro that the United States has aggressive designs against Cuba.

The U.S. view was conveyed to Cuba by Lester D. Mallory, deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs. He called in the highest ranking Cuban diplomat in Washington and delivered the dressing-down in person.

A State Department announcement said Mallory had demanded an explanation of why "an armed vessel of the Cuban navy fired, without provocation, on the USS Sea Poacher while the latter was pursuing a peaceful passage on the high seas."

The Navy earlier had displayed ship logs and navigation charts to refute Castro's charges that U.S. warships violated Cuban waters. The navigation track of the Sea Poacher at the time of the disputed incident indicated she was more than five miles from the nearest rock or point of land ever claimed by Cuba.

The incident occurred May 6 and until Castro made his charges about it Friday night, the U.S. Navy apparently had been unaware that its sub had been fired upon. Both the Navy and the State Department disputed Castro's contention that the craft had been chased from the area by the Cuban firing.

The government obviously had shown no previous concern over the incident, but officials were obviously disturbed about the overall situation as it has developed through Castro's drum beating.

Claim Frisco Riots Staged By Professionals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police Chief Thomas Cahill went to barricaded City Hall Saturday and told a House subcommittee on Un-American Activities that Friday's riot by 250 demonstrators was the work of professional agitators.

"The group of students here had been infiltrated by some older individual agitators who whipped the group into mob frenzy," said Cahill in explanation of disorders which injured 12 and brought 66 arrests.

One of Cahill's inspectors, Michael J. Maguire, told the committee that two of these agitators were Merrill Brodsky, an unemployed tile setter, and Archie Brown, a longshoreman.

Brown was dragged, red-faced and shouting, from the hearing room Saturday when he balked at questions about Communist affiliation and tried to read a statement. This was his third ejection. Brodsky twice was ejected as a hostile witness Thursday.

Assembly To Resume Fight Over Police Reform Monday

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The battle for political advantage over Chicago police reform legislation resumes Monday in the Illinois special session.

The end may come Thursday without the Republican-Democrat truce needed for passage of a reform bill.

Work may spill over into a fourth week. Sen. George Drach (R-Springfield), Republican majority whip, said it would be "practically a miracle" if the Assembly races through remaining work this week.

Gov. William G. Stratton, who called the session, has the power of making another call for police reform or for a poor relief appropriation if one of doubtful constitutionality is passed.

Stratton has said a reform program could come only through bipartisan agreement. Each party co[illegible]s a house.

Fireworks start in the House with Chicago Democrats calling Monday for passage of a bill intended to legalize the police board and superintendent installed after the Chicago police scandal broke.

Republicans undertake amendment of their substitute proposal for a five-man board with staggered terms and for a merit system for police. The amendments would allow Chicago to put off adoption of the program for as much as five months after the usual July 1 effective date. Even with amendments, Democrats said, the program is unacceptable.

Some Senate Republicans will try to amend the 35 million dollar poor relief appropriation already passed by the House. The House refused to amend the bill because of a contention amendments went beyond the scope of the call.

The amendments would: require poor relief recipients to work on government projects; make ineligible those jobless sent to Illinois at the expense of other states; and, require Illino's Public Aid Commission officials to reexamine poor relief rolls for genuine eligibility.

The House will take up Senate-approved justice of the peace bills, including one to nominate JPs [illegible] caucus instead of by primary election.

The Senate will take final action on the $330,000 appropriation for flood relief in 13 counties and send it to the House.

So far, the governor has been sent only bills to insure continued election of auditors in counties of less than 500,000; to pay for land for an out-patient tuberculosis clinic in Chicago Medical Center; and to pay for expenses of part of the special meetings of the Assembly.

Sinatra, John Wayne Stage Hassle, Neither Lands Blow

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wispy Frank Sinatra and movie he-man John Wayne had a night-club hassle in the best Hollywood tradition early Saturday. Neither landed a blow.

The Herald-Express said friends quickly separated the slender crooner and the husky actor after they had shoved each other. The principals later denied there was any shoving.

But later, police said, Sinatra got involved in a scuffle with two parking lot attendants. One of the attendants told police he was battered by an unidentified Negro bodyguard of Sinatra's.

The shoving match and the scuffle followed a $100-a-plate share foundation benefit dinner attended by Sinatra, Wayne, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., Gary Cooper, Milton Berle and other stars. The $125,000 collected will go to help mentally retarded children.

Sinatra, about 5 feet 7 and weighing 150 pounds, came dressed as an Indian squaw; Wayne, about 6 feet 4 and 225 pounds, wore cowboy clothes to the benefit at the Moulin Rouge night club on Sunset Boulevard.

The Herald-Express said that as the partygoers left for home early Saturday, Sinatra confronted Wayne and snapped: "You seem to disagree with me."

Wayne had publicly criticized Sinatra's hiring of writer Albert Maltz to do a screenplay for Sinatra's film company. Sinatra later yielded to public protests and fired Maltz, who was jailed in 1951 for contempt after refusing to tell a congressional committee whether he had been a Communist.

Wayne told Sinatra: "We can discuss this somewhere else." Sinatra launched a tirade against Wayne and moved in on the towering star, but friends separated them.

Then, police said Sinatra and three unidentified companions walked onto the parking lot. An attendant, Clarence English, brought a car to a screaming halt in front of the group.

Witnesses said Sinatra yelled: "Hey, Charley You almost hit me! You know what I'm insured for?"

English shook his head, witnesses said, and Sinatra raced around to the driver's side of the car and said: "Can you fight? You'd better be able to."

As he reached for English, another attendant, Edward J. Moran, remonstrated with Sinatra: "Aw Frank, he wasn't trying to hit you with the car. He's only trying to make a living."

Sinatra retorted: "Who the - - - are you?" and pushed Moran. Moran struck back, police said, and a Negro identified only as Sam, about 6 feet and 220 pounds, started pummeling Moran.

Routt Girls' Chorus To Practice Sunday

The Routt High School Girls' Chorus is called to a special Spring Concert rehearsal Sunday afternoon, May 15, from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. in Formaz Hall in place of the formerly approved Monday afternoon rehearsal which would now, however, conflict with an assembly that is planned for that time.

This is an urgent call from director Wayne Combes to both chorus members and their parents to arrange attendance of members at this very important rehearsal, as two thirds of the Chorus are freshmen and totally inexperienced, chorus-wise. The average of only one and a half rehearsals per week has been insufficient for public appearance.

WHITE HALL POST AUXILIARY MAKES 200 FAVORS FOR PATIENTS

WHITE HALL — Members of American Legion Auxiliary to Post No. 70 met at the Legion Home on Tuesday and made 200 tray favors, in the shape of a musical note, with packages of Life Savers attached, which will be sent to the Veterans at the Jacksonville hospital for party tray favors. Mrs. Roscoe Orten was in charge of the work. A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed at noon with the prayer of grace given by Chaplain Ella Mosebey, who also gave a special prayer for President Meda Hayes who underwent major surgery on Tuesday at Our Saviour's hospital.

Professor Reviews Conviction—

Does Court Decision Threaten Academic Freedom In Alabama?

By John B. Martin

Editor's Note—The question of guilt or innocence will no doubt be decided, from a legal standpoint, by either higher courts in the State of Alabama or the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary. The moral issue of right or wrong when such a controversial question as integration or segregation appears is, in a large part, a matter of personal opinion. The "right" to discuss or inquire about public issues in an orderly manner is considered by most citizens to be a basic freedom and should be preserved at all costs. This article was written following an interview with Dr. Richard Nesmith Friday.

"Any teacher worth his salt would have done the same thing," Dr. Richard Nesmith, professor of sociology and dean of men at MacMurray College, commented Friday concerning his conviction on a charge of disorderly conduct by a Montgomery, Alabama, court. Nesmith indicated that bond has already been posted for his appeal in the case and should come up in the Alabama Court of Appeals sometime in October or November.

When asked if he will take his appeal to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, Dr. Nesmith quickly answered, "Yes, if I can afford it!

"This conviction is a violation of my academic freedom as a teacher and citizen.

"The Alabama conviction is a violation of constitutional freedom," he further stated. "My right of inquiry as a teacher and citizen is at stake in this case!"

Second Court Tangle

Dr. Nesmith, his wife and ten students at MacMurray College attracted nation-wide publicity on March 31 when the Illinois group, another white student from Boston University and seven Alabama Negroes were arrested and hustled off to jail in paddy wagons on charges of disorderly conduct, "calculated to provoke a breach of the peace." The mixed group was having lunch in a Negro cafe in Montgomery at the time.

Breach of Peace?

Court testimony revealed that the chief of police received word of the mixed crowd at the restaurant about 30 minutes in advance of their arrival. Also, after arriving at the restaurant, he waited between 30 and 45 minutes before entering the cafe and making an arrest. By that time a crowd had gathered around the police and firemen who had assembled.

Further testimony indicated that the luncheon group could not see the crowd, nor could the crowd view the interior of the cafe.

Three members of the crowd summoned as witnesses said they didn't know what was going on but were curious why so many policemen were gathered around.

All arrested were convicted on April 1. MacMurray College Board of Trustees posted bonds for all of the Illinois group involved in the field trip and asked for another trial.

An all-white jury deliberated more than three hours before returning its verdict. Dr. Nesmith was convicted and fined $100 and $58 costs; Mrs. Nesmith and all of the students were acquitted.

Very Regretful

When asked of his reaction to the verdict of the jury, Nesmith said, "very regretful, but understandable with the jury under very obvious pressures from the position of the city of Montgomery and their responsibility to the administration of justice."

Why Montgomery?

After reading various wire service accounts of the Montgomery trials and examining some of the actions on both sides, the question found on the lips of most Jacksonville citizens has been, "what were they doing in Alabama, in the first place, studying race relations?"

Dr. Nesmith provided lengthy background in support of the field trip. The trip was without formal sanction by the college because it was not a requirement of the course of study. The trip was paid by the students but guided by Dr. Nesmith.

Other field trips have been taken to areas of the southwestern United States—one has already been scheduled for next year. The group has already completed a study of Negro housing and other aspects of race relations in Jacksonville. Earlier this spring, the same group also made a trip to Chicago for the purpose of studying race relations.

Advance appointments had been secured with 5 integrationists and 3 segregationists. Appointments with other segregationists, including Governor Orville Faubus of Arkansas, Montgomery Superintendent of Schools, chairman of the White Citizens' Council and others had been declined by letter. The Montgomery Chamber of Commerce knew of the group's purpose and intention—to observe—and issued a letter of invitation without reservation or warning.

Trouble-Makers

Prosecutor David Crosland contended the Illinois group "deliberately came down to Alabama to cause trouble."

Nesmith's contention was that as social scientists, they were trying to isolate and understand the problems involved. The group sought to study both sides of the issues involved, as evidenced by the number of appointments confirmed in advance. "Even if we had been observing only one side of the issue," Nesmith said, "we ought to have the right to inquire."

Night In Jail

The jury returned their verdict about 5:30 in the afternoon. Judge Eugene Carter quickly adjourned court and left the premises. The clerk computed the court costs within five minutes but the judge could not be found to pass on the bail for Nesmith. The sheriff quickly led Dr. Nesmith to the Montgomery jail for the night. The judge was contacted at his home but declined to approve bail, a matter that took less than ten minutes the next morning.

Nesmith described his stint behind bars as very cordial. "They made every effort to make my stay comfortable," he said.

Vivid Experience

David Gibson, one of the students on the field trip, described his experiences as "the most vivid text book I have ever read."

Gibson felt everyone was most cordial to the Illinois group except the prosecutor, who seemed to more than enjoy the opportunity to "badger and insult" the northern group.

"We don't feel completely free," he said, "as long as Dr. Nesmith remains convicted on the same evidence."

Private Homes

Plan Repeat Trip

Dr. Nesmith said he would sponsor a trip to the southwest next year and another southern trip the following year.

Asked whether he would steer clear of the City of Montgomery next time, Dr. Nesmith said, "I can't say at this early date. We plan the field trips to include the areas where the greatest race problems exist—and from the looks of things, we'll go back to Montgomery."

Daughters Guests Of Hardin Woman's Club

HARDIN—Mrs. William Flippo of Alton was the featured speaker at Tuesday night's meeting of the Hardin Woman's Club in the school cafeteria.

Mrs. Flippo's subject was "Charm," and special guests were teenage daughters of club members. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Walter Holzwarth, who with Mrs. Henry Shaw, had planned the program.

Mrs. Paul R. Durr, club president, gave a report of the recent district meeting in Waverly, the annual report of the treasurer was given by Mrs. E. C. Baker, and the club history for 1959-60 was read by Mrs. Ray H. Johnson, Jr., historian. Mrs. Durr presented a certificate of award to Mrs. Ralph Leeds, who as press and publicity chairman of the club, had won a district award with her press book.

It was decided to retain, for next year, the same groups of hostesses as have served this year. Mrs. Paul Aderton, chairman of the club's June meeting, announced that there will be a dinner meeting on the regular meeting data, and asked that members contact her or members of her committee for reservations.

Refreshments were served, at the close of the evening, from a beautifully decorated refreshment table. Hostesses were Mrs. Jerry Corbett, Mrs. James Campbell and Mrs. Chrissie Ledder.

Home Bureau Meetings

Home Bureau meetings in Calhoun county this month will be in the form of district meetings, and will take place next week. The major lesson at the session will be, "Your Emotions and Y.... Health," and will be given by Mrs. Peter W. Simon, Calhoun County Home adviser. All meetings will be at 3 p.m.

On Monday night, the Hamburg unit will entertain the Gilead unit at the home of Mrs. Paul Ringhausen. Mrs. Harold Kraut of the Gilead unit will give the minor lesson, "What is Your Friendliness Score?"

The Richwoods unit will be hostess to the Hardin and Meppen units on Thursday night, at the home of Mrs. Pearl Wright in Batchtown. Mrs. Loyal Linthicm, of the Hardin unit, will present the minor lesson.

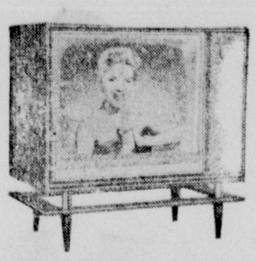

Friday night the Belleview unit will entertain the Point unit at the home of Mrs. Avery L. Jennings. The minor lesson will be given by Mrs. Blanche Suhling.

Brief News Notes

L. V. Kinser, chairman of the Calhoun County Heart Committee, held a meeting of the committee in the high school in Hardin. Kenneth Grubb, of the field office in Alton, attended the meeting, and a report of the recent fund campaign was given by Mrs. George Pohlman, fund drive chairman.

Members of the American Auxiliary unit in Hardin met at the home of Mrs. Paul Aderton to complete annual report forms for the unit's various standing committees.

BUSY PEOPLE USE
ELLIOTT BUDGET CHECKING ACCOUNTS

Busy, energetic people like this fellow here have to make every minute count.

He saves precious time by eating lunch on the job . . . and by using an Elliott Budget Checking Account.

This young man doesn't write a large number of checks . . . but when he does, he's mighty grateful for the speed and convenience of his Elliott Budget Checking Account.

Here's how it works: For a book of 20 checks — with your name printed on each one — you pay only $2. That's all there is to it — no minimum balance, no hidden charges.

It's mighty thrifty, too. As our friend says, "Why, I'd spend more than that in time and gas running around to pay my bills. With a check, it's done in a few seconds, I have a record in my checkbook, and legal proof of payment too.

If time is vital to you, as it is to all busy people these days, drop by Elliott and open a handy Budget Checking Account today!

Two Vacancies In New Berlin School Filled

NEW BERLIN — The two vacancies which had been open in the school faculty for the coming year, have now been filled: John Hurley, of Springfield will teach High School Sciences. He is a graduate of Illinois State Normal University.

Donald Bare, of Carbondale, and a graduate of Southern Illinois University has been hired by the board to teach Junior Hi Science.

The office position of secretary to the superintendent, which was vacated by the resignation of Mrs. Ruth Knust after eight years service, has been filled by the hiring of Mrs. Wanda Huffaker. Mrs. Huffaker will start her duties Monday, May 16, working with Mrs. Knust until the end of the school term.

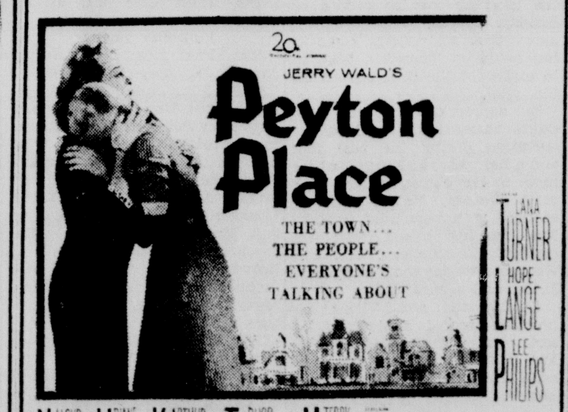

Registration for the private kindergarten for next year for Community Unit District 16 school area will be held Tuesday afternoon, May 17, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. in the fairgrounds building, New Berlin.

The private kindergarten has been successfully maintained the past four years, since its inception, and it is considered a great advantage for a child to have the opportunity to attend for at least one year before school. The administrators of the school are giving their consent and full co-operation in this project. Bus service within the unit will be available providing the buses are not overcrowded. The attendance fee is nominal.

Any child in the school district or surrounding area who is at least four years old will be eligible. A very competent teacher is in charge of the group, and the room which the class occupies in the fairgrounds building is ideal to conduct the children.

Mrs. Robert Pfeffer and Mrs. Glen Wichterman are in charge of registration, and anyone desiring further information may telephone them or inquire of them at registration.

Arenzville Juniors Entertain At Dinner, Prom Saturday, May 7

The Arenzville High School junior class entertained the seniors on a "Hawaiian Cruise" Saturday evening, May 7th. The "shipboard" dinner was held at Hamilton's Cafe in Jacksonville, where members of the faculty were also guests of the junior class.

The tables were attractively decorated in lavender and white, the colors of the senior class. The centerpiece included white carnations, the class flower, arranged amid driftwood and ferns and accented with a lavender orchid. As the guests arrived, they were presented with leis as souvenirs.

Myron Strubbe, junior class president, extended a special welcome to the senior class. Robert Clark responded for the seniors.

Myron then introduced Ed Hackman who served as toastmaster for the banquet. Ed in turn presented Eleanor Brasell and Shirley Hansmeier, who read the class prophecy, and Ronnie Kershaw and Earl Dufelmeier read the class will.

The guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Oliver McIlrath, then gave the group a "challenge" for the future. After the banquet the entire group adjourned to the gymnasium of Arenzville High School where they were joined by alumni, parents and board members for their Prom.

As the juniors and seniors entered the gymnasium they walked down a "gangplank" onto the "gangplank" onto the "island" to be introduced by Mr. Jack Burrus, serving as Master of Ceremonies. The gymnasium had been transformed into a tropical paradise by the use of palm trees, ferns, and flowers, the main point of interest being an island of palms spotlighted in the center of the room.

The dance floor was surrounded by card tables and chairs for the convenience of the guests. The color scheme used was mint green and white, the colors of the junior class and was carried throughout in the ceiling of streamers, the table covers and the appointments of the serving table. Punch and cookies were served to the guests by the junior class mothers.

Bluffs Rebekah Lodge Has Annual Banquet Tuesday

BLUFFS—Dawn Rebekah Lodge, No. 169, of Bluffs held its annual mother-daughter banquet Tuesday evening in the IOOF Hall. The annual party is in keeping with the sponsorship of the Theta Rho girls organization. A special silver offering is sent for this work.

A delicous potluck supper was enjoyed in the dining room, beautifully decorated with spring flowers by the committee: Mrs. Hubert Gregory; Mrs. William Lemme and Mrs. Ogden Sears. Forty members and guest were present.

The program prepared by Mrs. Donald Mullen and Mrs. Lyle Bates was quite appropriate. Mrs. Mullen was mistress of ceremonies. The meeting opened with the group singing of "America the Beautiful." Mrs. Gregory gave the "Welcome," and the response was given by her daughter, Linda.

Maurine Parker, read a poem, "I'd Rather Be A Mother." Mrs. Betty Neese and daughter, Connie, led the candlelight ceremony, with Mrs. Neese giving the mother's pledge and Connie the daughter's pledge.

Rita Brown played "Floating" as a piano solo. Mrs. Ollie Green was given a potted plant as the oldest mother present. The youngest mother, Mrs. Dean Perry, also received a plant, the presentations being made by Mrs. Bates.

The program closed with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie" and "Mother's Prayer," read by Mrs. Mullen.

Methodist W.S.C.S.

The Bluffs Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service met Thursday afternoon in the church with sixteen members and three guests, Mrs. Catherine Rogers, Mrs. Robert Brown and Mrs. Earl Albers, answering roll call with a Bible verse with "need."

Mrs. Beulah Ritter gave the opening devotions, with Mrs. Cynthia Newberry reading the scripture. The theme was "Jesus, The Light of the World." Mrs. Merton Pond gave a very interesting lesson. "Matches To Light the Candle."

Mrs. Harold Oakes presided at the business session. Reports of various secretaries were given. Three members attended the conference meeting in Bloomington, and seven were at the district meeting in Beardstown. Installation of officers will be held at the morning worship service on Sunday, May 22, Mrs. Floyd Hart asked that all officers come to her home on Thursday, May 19, to make out the final reports for the year.

In appropriate remarks Mrs. Oakes thanked all for their cooperation during the past four and a half years and presented the gavel to her successor, Mrs. Margaret Watson. Mrs. Watson responded with very brief remarks. The meeting closed with the spiritual life secretary, Mrs. Jane Woodson, reading the Twenty-third Psalm and a meditation.

During the social hour the hostesses served a delicous dessert course. The hostesses were Mrs. Margaret Watson, Mrs. Cornelia Leonard and Mrs. Donald Merris.

MORE GET LESS

FAIRVIEW, Mont. (AP)—Burglars who removed bricks from the school wall to get into the vault grew a little in a year. The hole was bigger than the one last year when they took $200. The take was smaller, though: only $4.

On May 9 the Opportunity Bible class of the Grace Methodist church met at the home of Miss Jeannette Scott, 120 East Superior. The meeting was opened at 2 p.m. by the president, Mrs. Victor Kruse. Mrs. John Judy gave the opening prayer.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and were approved. The treasurer's report was read and accepted. Mrs. Hall had the devotions, using literature from the fellowship meeting. She also read several hymns from the Methodist Hymnal, and closed with prayer.

Mrs. Effie Williamson had the program, describing the beauties of each state of America. Mrs. Roberts played a selection called "The Spring Song." The program was closed by all singing one verse of "America the Beautiful."

The meeting closed with the 26 members present singing "God be With You Till We Meet Again." Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Annette Scott and Mae Van Winkle. A musical program was held after refreshments were served.

40th Anniversary For Thaxtons Of Near Greenfield

GREENFIELD— Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thaxton, who reside on a farm northwest of Greenfield, observed their 40th wedding anniversary Friday.

Mrs. Thaxton, the former Emily Rives, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Rives, and Mr. Thaxton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Thaxton, were married at the home of the bride's parents, southeast of Greenfield, May 6, 1920, by Rev. W. W. Henry of the Methodist church.

The attendants were Miss Nelle Thaxton, now Mrs. Tillman Lansaw, sister of the groom, and George N. Rives, brother of the bride.

They have farmed all their life southwest of Wrights. They are the parents of four children, Charles Thaxton of Greenfield, Mrs. Virginia Boudreau, Denham Springs, La., Mrs. Janet Morrow, Athensville and Tommy at home.

The couple was honored in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thaxton. Those attending, Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Lansaw, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lansaw, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Koehm and Mr. and Mrs. George D. Morrow and Sherry.

Victor Hugo, Thomas Jefferson, Anatole France and H. G. Wells all loathed Napoleon. Jefferson said that Napoleon was "a cold-blooded, calculating, un-principled usurper without a virtue; no statesman, knowing nothing of commerce, political economy or civil government, and supplying ignorance by bold presumption."

The Act of Congress which established the Smithsonian Institution was signed by President James K. Polk on August 10, 1846.

MacMurray students modeled dresses of their own making and garments from Emporium, Leslie & Rickard, Myers Brothers, and Waddell's. Hair styles were by Marguerite, and flowers by Rieman's.

The annual event, held in Kathryn Recreation Room, was Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Fifty students from 10 area high schools, Jacksonville, Jersey Community High, Jerseyville high, Pleasant Plains, Rushville, Arenzville, Virginia, Chapin, Roodhouse, Franklin, and Beardstown were guests.

From JHS were: Edna Osborne, Donna Patterson, Denie Long, Sandra Walker, Sandy Surratt, Judy Scott, Carolyn Grimsley, Carolyn Fanning, Janet Swanson, Retha Covey.

Among the entrees, was Rebecca Sneed of Jacksonville. Vice president of the Home Economics Club is Nancy Stapleton of Jacksonville. Secretary is Myrtle Takaki of Hawaii. Janet Clark of New Berlin was co-chairman with Miss Takaki.

ROOM WITH YOUNG IDEAS

Don't be fooled into thinking that the "younger generation" doesn't know what it wants in home decor and design. Ask almost any young man between ten and twenty what style room he'd like to have and the answer will invariably be MODERN. This isn't surprising for Modern is the style with young and imaginative ideas.

Taste trends are set early these days, and it's a mistake not to allow young tastes to be developed and expressed — for from the youth of today will come the great designers of the future.

The boy's bedroom sketched above was planned by its imaginative young occupant. The color scheme of warm sand tones and brown has been accented with strong blue and burnt orange.

The bleached mahogany writing desk has been placed at right angles with the window to take full advantage of the light. Plastic cover on desk chair is scuff-and scratch-resistant. Six-drawer chest — bleached mahogany bordered with darker fruitwood — affords ample storage space. Dark brown bedspread on footless bed gives room a sitting-room look. Movement has been tastefully introduced with the patterned draperies — brown and blue on a sand colored background.

Have you delayed getting the new Modern furniture you've wanted so long because you think it's too expensive? If so, we have news for you. Good news! We offer you fine Modern furniture at sensible down-to-earth prices that you can easily afford. Do come in, see for yourself.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bandy and family, Litchfield, have returned home after a weekend spent with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bandy, and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Israel.

Mrs. Rachel Hudgins, Odenville, Ala., is visiting in the home of her son, L. E. Hudgins, rural route.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bilger, Ft. Worth, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Bilger, Clinton, Ia, surprised their mother, Mrs. Meda Bilger on Mother's Day. The group had not been together for nine years.

May Offer Adults Special Course In Upholstering

NEW BERLIN— The Adult Homemaking Advisory Council met recently and decided to offer a course in furniture upholstery in the fall.

Pre-registration for those interested can be made by contacting Miss Dorothy Antey by telephoning the high school, HUnter 8-2535, or by post card before June 10.

There must be a minimum of ten persons and a maximum of 15 for the course. If there are not ten people interested in the course by June 10, it cannot be offered. If enough are interested, registration will be from Sept. 5 to 9. At that time, each registrant will pay a fee of $5.00 for the entire course. This charge covers the expenses and part of the instructor's fee.

Classes will be held on Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. There will be ten class meetings, with the first one being held Sept. 13. Members of the class shall purchase their own upholstery materials.

Island Grove MYF

The MYF of the Island Grove Methodist church met on Wednesday evening at the home of its president, Pat Henry, with co-sponsors Mrs. Fred Preston and Mrs. David Henry also present. Following the business session, devotions were led by Philip Battleson. Bible study followed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

On Saturday, the group gathered flowers and fashioned lovely corsages which were presented to each lady attending the Sunday morning worship services on Mother's Day.

Blain Smith, father of Mrs. Virgil Long, underwent maor surgery at Memorial hospital on Friday morning.

Large Crowd At Ashland Mother, Daughter Fete

ASHLAND—A large crowd was in attendance at the Methodist church Tuesday evening at the Mother-Daughter banquet held in the church dining room at 6:30 p.m. The dinner was a potluck affair. Mrs. James Duling acted as toastmistress, and Mrs. William Jones was song leader at the table.

Mrs. A. B. Applebee of Jacksonville showed pictures and told of her recent trip to Africa, which was very much enjoyed. The girls quartette consisting of Joyce Senters, Jane Orne, Charlene Walker and Susan Edwards sang, "Almost Spring."

The tables and decorations were carried out in the African theme.

Eleven Loyal Daughters of the Church of Christ met in the home of Mrs. Eula Fitzsimmons on Tuesday night for their regular meeting. Roll call was called and answered to by a scripture verse. With The Girl Scouts

Now that camping days are approaching, we want to clear up the prizes for selling cookies, the principal prize being camperships for selling 100 boxes or over. Camperships entitle the owner to attend the camp of her choice in the Council area free of charge. Other prizes are: Girl Scout compass for selling 80 boxes and camp memory books for selling 60 boxes.

The following is the list of prize winners as reported to the office so far. If you know of any others, please report them to the Scout office as soon as possible

Camperships have been awarded to: Joyce Pullings, Troop 61; Connie Nunes, Troop 85; Diane Fortado, Troop 98; Karen Knepler, Troop 29; Linda Quigg, Troop 48; Theresa McGath, Troop 96; Peggy Sullivan and Margaret Kiley, Troop 27; Donna Parker, Troop 70; Charlon Birdsell and Rose Crowley, Troop 33; Becky Jane Herring, Troop 57; Donna K. Timmons, Troop 50; Julie Davis, Troop 16; Joette Campbell, Troop 41.

Compasses were won by Janet Bradshaw of Troop 15 and Becky Keikle of Troop 12.

Camp memory books have been awarded to Patty Sheppard and Jo Ann Benner of Troop 53; Cody Alred, Karen Piper and Tonnia Galloway of Troop 91; Toni Coons and Mary R. Scott of Troop 25; Sheryl Clark, Troop 73; Sandy Evans, Troop 96; Beverly Florence, Troop 33; Deanna Blackburn, Troop 57; Carol Mills, Troop 12; Judy Windsor, Troop 65; Kathy Whitton, Troop 32; Jocelyn McNamara, Troop 1.

Camp Training

Camp training for all adults who are going to Camp Shagbark this year will be given this coming week at the Girl Scout cabin on Lake Jacksonville: Brownie training will be held Tuesday, May 17, at 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Intermediate training will be held on Thursday, May 19, at the same hours. If you need transportation or don't know the way to the Girl Scout camp, meet at the office on North East street at 9 a.m. Wear jeans, shirt or sweater, sensible shoes, cap or head scarf. Bring knife, fork, spoon, plate, cup, jackknife and 40 cents for lunch. Mrs. Beatrice Hartman and Mrs. Darrell Roegge will conduct the training.

The Camp committee will meet Wednesday morning at 9:45 a.m. at the Scout cabin on Lake Jacksonville.

Members of the Training committee will meet at 9:30 a.m. Monday, May 16, at the Scout office.

The program committee will meet at 11:30 a.m. Monday at the Dunlap Hotel.

Last week's activities centered on camping, also. Camp training was given by Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Roegge on Tuesday at Carrollton at Camp Robin Hood and on Friday at the White Hall camp in Lion Park. Both sessions were very successful.

The Camp committee met last week on Monday and the Board of Directors met Wednesday morning at the Scout office.

Cass County Neighbors held a meting Thursday morning at the Legion Home in Virginia, which was attended by a large group of leaders. Scouting problems were presented and discused.

North Jacksonville

The school to be presented in the column this week is North Jacksonville. There is only one troop registered in this school, Brownie Scout Troop 54, with 12 girls in the 4th grade enrolled. But they make up in enthusiasm for the lack of numbers. This troop has been organized for three years, when the girls were second graders. The first leader was Mrs. John Allen and Mrs. Thelma Kleehner, the second year Mrs. William Swain and Mrs. Keehner were the leaders and this year Mrs. Elvin DeFrates, R 3, and Helen Campbell, 1124 West Walnut, are guiding the troop activities. There is no troop committee this year.

The girls sold $86.40 worth of cookies this year, a fine record for a small group. They went on a trip last Friday to visit the Coca Cola plant and during the year they have had programs dealing with the 11 program fields in Girl Scouting to prepare them to become Intermediates.

Now they are very busy making tote bags and other camping equipment because over two-thirds of the girls are going to attend Camp Shagbark. They are enthusiastic campers. They are even planning extra meetings so that they can be ready for camp. Troop meetings are held each week at the school cafeteria. During the year they have also participated in service crafts, making tray favors for shut-ins.

Troop 98 of Jefferson school last week had a very nice trip through the Swift Hatchery. Mrs. Fred Splain and Mrs. Ralph Mudd, troop leaders, accompanied the girls. This trip is a very interesting one and is recommended for other troops. Troop 98 is planning a skating party to end the year's activities. Many of the girls in the troop are going to camp.

Mrs. T. G. Roady Retires From Clerk's Office

CARROLLTON — Mrs. T. G. Roady, who is retiring from the office of Ray Bennett, Greene county clerk, was honoree at a dinner given Thursday noon by county officials and their office employees in the court house. Mrs. Roady will not be in the office after Friday and will be succeeded by Miss Martha Geers, daughter of the late Charles Geers and Mrs. Charles Geers of this city.

Mrs. Roady has spent the past seven years in the county clerk's office and prior to that time she was employed for four years in the Greene county treasurer's office. Before becoming an office employee Mrs. Roady taught in the rural schools of Greene county for 19 years teaching 15 years of that time in the school in Old Kane.

Miss Geers is a graduate of the class of 1958 of the Carrollton Community Unit high school and was employed by the General Telephone Company until the change to dial systems displaced operators in Carrollton.

Murrayville Club Meets Thursday At Pahlman Home

MURRAYVILLE—The Friendly Neighbors Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Pahlman.

The president, Mrs. Russell Osborne, opened the meeting with the pledge of allegiance. The club song was sung by the group.

The secretary and treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Horace Garfield. Roll call was answered by naming a Mother's Day gift which you received.

Mrs. Carl Saxer read a very interesting paper on "The bitter offer of Mother's Day".

Due to the absence of the social chairman the rest of the afternoon was spent socially with Mrs. Delbert Pitchford receiving the door prize.

The hostess served lovely refreshments of ice cream, cake, nut meats, mints and coffee. The next meeting will be on May 26th with Mrs. Pitchford.

Memebrs present were Mrs. Earl Hall, Mrs. Marion Langdon, Mrs. Russell Osborne, Mrs. Ina Osborne, Mrs. G. W. Whitlock, Mrs. Delbert Pitchford, Mrs. Russell P. Mason, Mrs. Carl Saxer, Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. Horace Garfield, and the hostess, Mrs. Fred Pahlman. Guests were Mrs. Joe Vedder and daughter.

Personals

Mrs. Frank Boston and Mrs. Ted Coumbs were Springfield visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Jennings of Durham, N.C. came Sunday morning for a brief visit with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Spencer. They were all dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Sherwin and family at Glasgow. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Jennings accompanied by Mrs. Spencer, left for Bentenville, Ark., to visit their mother, Mrs. Virginia Dudley.

Mrs. R. D. Mawson of Peoria visited recently in the home of Mrs. L. C. Collins and Mrs. J. L. Solomon and Thelma.

Mrs. Edgar Killebrew was an over night guest Sunday at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Clayton, at Lynnville. On Monday they visited her brother-in-law, Gus McNeely, and Mrs. Tom Mason, who are patients in the hospital in Jacksonville.

Two Pittsfield High Teachers Resign Posts

PITTSFIELD — The Board of Education of the Pittsfield Community Unit School District No. 10 has received the resignation of two high school teachers, effective at the end of the current school year.

Bernard Carpenter, teacher of Spanish and English, has received a three year fellowship to the University of Oregon and will leave Pittsfield at the end of the school term. Mrs. Carpenter has been a stenographer at the King Mill during the past year.

David Icenogle, teacher of social science has also resigned his position and will leave at the end of the current year. Neither position has been filled.

Robert Caton, teacher of seventh grade and coach at the Nebo school, has asked the Board of Education to be transferred to a similar position at the New Salem school. Mr. and Mrs. Caton are residents of Baylis, and the transfer would eliminate the drive to his position in Nebo.

Mrs. Hazel Greife, teacher of the 5th and 6th grade at Nebo, has resigned her position and Mrs. Eva Norton, a former teacher in the Nebo school for many years, has returned to her position.

Secretary Resigns

Mrs. James McKinney, who has been employed as secretary of the Methodist church for several years, has resigned her position and has taken a similar position at the Clausen Photo-Engraving Co. Mrs. Eldon Fesler has been employed as church secretary and will begin her duties next week.

European Tour

Mrs. Edna Penstone is making plans for an European tour this summer. Mrs. Penstone plans to leave St. Louis by jet plane on Tuesday, June 7, for New York and will leave there on the 8th on the Queen Elizabeth for England. There are 14 on this 63 day tour, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Shoette of Jacksonville. They will visit England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy and France. Miss Ella Dean of Pittsfield is also making this tour.

Khory League

Two teams have been organized for the Khory League from Pittsfield, with hopes of other teams being organized soon. This league is for boys 13 to 15 years of age.

These two teams are to be sponsored by the King Milling Company and the American Legion. Milton has a team and other communities are being contacted. Time and place of the games will be announced later.

Miss Gustafson Presents Virginia WSCS Program

VIRGINIA — The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church met in the church parlor, May 10. There were 35 members present and Mrs. Jessie Wilhite, president, opened the meeting at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Jesse Fox conducted the devotional period reading scriptures from Luke on the theme "Jesus is the light of the world." The prayer was given by Mrs. V. E. Parry. "Our responsibility to share," was the topic of the lesson presented by Miss Lillie Gustafson. Three hymns were sung by the group with Miss Gustafson leading and Mrs. B. W. Peebles accompanying.

"Darkness in Far Corners Lighted by Our Missionary Effort," was the subject material for articles read by Mrs. Gene Crouse and Mrs. Charles Bennett. A poem and the message from the World Federation were read by Mrs. Frank Bruno. The program closed with the benediction by Mrs. Jesse Fox.

A business meeting followed. Miss Nell Springer, recording secretary read the minutes. Ten members were present at the session of the executive committee, which met at 2 p.m. The installation of officers for the coming year, which starts in June, will take place at the morning worship service, May 22.

Appreciation was expressed for the program given Sunday evening, May 8, by Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Applebee, of Jacksonville, in the Virginia church. All churches were represented to enjoy the talk by Mrs. Applebee and the pictures shown by Dr. Applebee, taken on their recent travels through the African continent. This was the climax planned by the Mission Study class to conclude the series of lessons on Africa.

Rev. Bennett announced the date of the 4th quarterly conference and asked that all reports were called for pertaining to work accomplished during the past year by various officers. These included Mrs. Seth McClintick, Mrs. Leslie Wildt, Mrs. Howard Collins, Mrs. George Huffman, Mrs. B. W. Peebles, Mrs. Gene Crouse, Mrs. Albert Jokisch, Miss Lillie Gustafson, Mrs. Howard Tink, Mrs. Herbert Sinclair.

The Conference meeting, held April 20, in Bloomington, was attended by Mrs. Jesse Wilhite, Miss Lillie Gustafson and Mrs. Frank Bruno.

Mrs. Harry Watkins, sponsor of the Junior Choir, has announced a concert to be given by these young people, Sunday, May 15, at 2:30 p.m., in the church auditorium. Plans were completed by the Society to serve refreshments to the choir and members of their families, following the program, in the church parlor.

Vacation Bible school will be in session June 6-17. A number of women volunteered to provide cookies and a drink for the children each day. Mrs. Bennett spoke of forming a prayer group. The slogan will be "Prayer With a Purpose." Interested members placed their names on a book to be contacted to help with the group. Miss Gustafson, treasurer, then gave a detailed report on finances, which showed the society had been very successful in all projects completed for this year.

Four members having a perfect attendance record for the year were: Mrs. Howard Jokisch, Mrs. John Kerry, Miss Nell Springer and Mrs. Virgil Robertson. Mrs. Leon Dinwiddie, hostess chairman, was assisted by Mrs. J. G. Murphy, Mrs. Byron Edwards, Mrs. Richard Fanning and Mrs. Elmer Jokisch.

Refreshments in the dining room from a lace covered table was beautifully arranged. Large crystal candelabra in the center, held lighted tapers and spring flowers. Flowers used were tulips, jonquils and honeysuckle. Cup cakes with pastel frosting, nuts, mints, coffee and tea, were served.

Add strips of onion, green pepper and ham to a plain omelet and you have the filling for a western sandwich. Brown the vegetables and meat slightly before adding to the eggs. Serve the sandwich with chili sauce or catchup.

Judy Major Of Meredosia Wins Sousa Award

MEREDOSIA—The Unit 11 band and chorus, under the direction of Marshall Cloyd, presented their annual spring concert Sunday afternoon in the Meredosia-Chambersburg high school gym.

This program was enjoyed by the large audience:

Junior high band—"Precision" and "Balladair;" French horn solo, Jay Major, "Allegro from Horn Quintet;" Junior high band, "Greensleeves;" clarinet quartet, Carla Kramer, Sandra Flynn, Rita Simmers and Rebecca Cloyd, "Andante Cantabile;" high school chorus, "If Ye Love Me" and "Rock a My Soul."

Brass sextet, Ricky Major, Jon Pool, Lu Beth Young, Don Fuelling, Micky Shepard and Tom Grishan, "Memories of Stephen Foster;" tympani solo, Sondra Dugan, "Tympendium;" concert band, "Heat Lightning" and "Thendara;" clarinet solo, John Kramer, guest soloist, "La Sonnambula;" concert band, "Them Basses," "Auditorium Session," and "Toccatta for Band."

Accompanists were Mrs. Marshall Cloyd and Judy Major.

The four graduating seniors, Roxie Irving, Jike Edlen, Sondra Dugan and Judy Major, were introduced to the audience.

The first annual presentation of the John Phillip Sousa Band Award, given to the senior who had made the greatest contribution to music, was made to Judy Major. Chel Young, unit superintendent, gave the award to Miss Major.

4-H Club Meets

The Merry Doshans 4-H Club met Monday after school in the Meredosia grade school dining room, with fifteen girls present. Betty Schroeder, president, conducted the meeting.

A letter from the organization CROP described helping overseas 4-H clubs by sending money to help buy them livestock. Another letter told about the summer 4-H camp. A committee was chosen for the Share-the-Fun contest. Two new members joined, Patsy and Gail Newman.

Mary Standley talked about First Aid on a picnic; Connie Tubbs' talk was "Three Kinds of Outdoor Meals."

The next meeting is May 23.

Junior Woman's Club

The Meredosia Junior Woman's Club held its May meeting Monday evening in the home ec. room of the high school. The president, Mrs. Joe Newman, opened the meeting with the pledge to the flag, followed by the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

Nineteen members answered roll call by telling what they had brought for the Boys' Town shower. Mrs. Donald Seymour read the minutes in the absence of Mrs. Wayne Hammitt, the secretary. Mrs. Robert Duvendack, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Mrs. Newman appointed Mrs. Earl Lovekamp and Mrs. Raymond Werries to take care of the cookies to be sent to Boys' Town. Mrs. Maurice Kunzeman and Mrs. Leon Smith were appointed to take charge of the cookies to be sent to the state hospital.

The president gave a report of the district convention held in Waverly. This club has been invited to the September meeting of the senior Woman's Club the first Monday of that month. It was voted to send the club's CARE money to Korea.

Mrs. John Nortrup installed the officers who will serve for the next year: Mrs. Ray Staake, president; Mrs. John Alhorn, vice-president; Mrs. Herbert Hinners, secretary; Mrs. Leon Smith, reporter; Mrs. Marvin Werries, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Duvendack, treasurer. The new president and the retiring president were given corsages.

The social hour began with a hat exchange; Mrs. Robert Lansink and Mrs. Leland McAllister conducted a couple of games.

The meeting adjourned with the singing of "God be with Us Till We Meet Again," accompanied by Mrs. Lovekamp. Refreshments of ice cream roll, coffee and mints were served by Mrs. Marvin Werries, Mrs. Robert Fricke and Mrs. Lansink.

Concord Woman's Club Has Spring Banquet Tuesday

The Concord Community Woman's Club held its Spring Banquet Tuesday evening, May 10, at the Triple Flame Steak House, with 16 members present.

The meeting was opened by the answering of roll call, "What You Like For a Program." The minutes of the previous meeting and of the last board meeting, held May 6, were read and approved. Thank you cards, which were received from Chris Zulauf and Esther Brockhouse, were read and passed for all to see.

The new president, Mrs. Rita Morris, read a card received from Mrs. Marshall, president of the Morgan County Federation Club, inviting the members to the Spring Meeting which will be held May 16, starting at 10:30 a.m. in the Grace Methodist Church basement. The treasurer's report was read and approved. The auditing committee reported that the treasurer's books were in order.

Mrs. Helen Hess gave a report on the 20th District Annual Convention which was attended by three of the club members, acting as club delegates. She gave a review of the program, pointing out several things, among them the fact that there has been some changes made in the by-laws.

The president passed a book entitled "Our Record," which was put out by the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs. The book contained reports from the various clubs, among which was the report of the Concord club.

The subject of whether to continue the swimming program this summer, which the club helped sponsor last year, was discussed. Mrs. Carol Nickel moved that the swimming program be continued; it was seconded by Mrs. Wanda Zulauf, and the following committee was appointed: Mrs. Helen Hess, chairman, Mrs. Esther Elliott and Mrs. Myrtle Duerr.

It was voted by the club that a family outing would be held during the summer months. The program committee will decide on the time and place.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Marlene Carls of Virginia, winner of the CBS Gal Reporter Contest. She explained how she won the trip and gave a most interesting review of the trip to New York and California. Mrs. Carls was the Illinois representative. There was one representative from every state and one from the District of Columbia.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Mobile Chest X-Ray Arrives Here May 19

The State Mobile Chest X-ray unit has been operating in Morgan county since Tuesday, May 10, where it was stationed in Waverly for two days. From there, the unit moved to Franklin on May 12, and to Alexander on May 13. The unit will be in Meredosia on May 16, and in Chapin on May 17 and in Murrayville on May 18.

Beginning on May 19, the unit will be stationed in Jacksonville on the public square in front of the Kresge store where it will be of service to residents of the area who wish to visit for free chest X-rays. Any who missed the unit while it was in the various towns may catch up with it while in Jacksonville.

Many ladies of various organizations have volunteered their services to serve as registrars throughout the county. It is necessary to go to a registrar where she will fill out a card bearing your name, address, your physician's name and you then proceed to the unit where you present the card where it will be numbered and you will then have the X-ray. A personal report will be mailed to you approximately ten days following the date the X-ray is made.

The state mobile chest X-ray survey in Morgan county is sponsored by the Morgan County Tuberculosis association and the Morgan County Health Department.

Diamond Grove Mausoleum Board Meets

The annual meeting of the Diamond Grove Memorial Mausoleum board met May 10th at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Fletcher J. Blackburn.

Attending were Mrs. Roy Newbery, president; C. A. Thomason, treasurer; Louis Sims, Fred Runkel and Byron Stewart, trustees and Mrs. Blackburn.

The group conducted a general checkup on owners of crypts and any changes of address. The treasurer reported the endowment fund had reached a total of $10,500 and received a good boost with a recent gift of $4,000 from Mrs. Leah Cassell Ammons, San Antonio, Texas. All funds are in custody of Elliott State Bank and are in U.S. Government bonds, the interest of which is used for upkeep. Endowment accumulation of $20,000 is anticipated in the future.

The board, being concerned regarding rumors of the general condition of the building, verified a recent report from Nicholls-Stone and Contractors, Springfield, that the building is in excellent state of repair and far exceeds general condition of most mausoleums.

The annual clean-up day will be May 24th with crypt owners to gather at 8:30 a.m. for work. The general business meeting will be held at 11 a.m. Louis Sims was named chairman for the project of landscaping the grounds. Those willing to make cash or flower and shrub donations are asked to contact Mr. Sims.

MYERS BROTHERS

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

Want to win a bet? Just for fun, ask a friend or relative to name the president whose picture adorns our $100 bill. They'll probably think a while, then give you some name. But whatever one they come up with, they'll be wrong . . . because there is no picture of a president on the $100 bill . . . nor the $10,000 bill . . . nor even the $10 bill. Oh, sure, there's a picture on these bills . . . but not of a president. The $100 greenback has Ben Franklin on it, who was never a president. Neither was Salmon P Chase, whose face is on the $10,000 number. And Alexander Hamilton, who is on the 10 buck bill, was never chief executive either. This preoccupation with money may lead you to caution us that "the love of money is the root of all evil." Maybe so, but as Mark Twain put it, so is the lack of it.

An Arizona man was rushed to the hospital for emergency treatment after he got drowsy, yawned, and swallowed a black widow spider. Guess that would "bug" anybody.

Jefferson Pupils Have Art Display For P.T.A.

The Jefferson school Parent-Teacher association held its last meeting of the season Tuesday evening, May 10.

There was no general business meeting and the entire program for the evening was carried on in the classrooms. Each teacher and class, from grade one through six, demonstrated some form of art activity.

Art Program

Miss Ann Pearce's first grade pupils worked with cut paper, making pictures of trees and flowers. First grade students taught by Mrs. Roberta McNeely showed how to use "magic paints" while making decorative plates for their mothers.

Mrs. Alvahlee McCarthy's second grade class had the gay theme of spring with birds flying overhead. They drew pictures pertaining to that subject. Many shapes of animal forms appeared under the clever fingers of the second grade students of Miss Esther Barker.

Mrs. Doris Fitch's third graders made pretty stencil decorations on cards for their guests. Third grade pupils of Mrs. Ethell Chambers made pictures using real bark, seed, and leaves as part of the picture.

Make Cards for Guests

Fourth grade students of Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick made dainty greeting cards for their guests using water colors.

The fourth grade children taught by Mrs. Elizabeth Trotter gave individual plays concerning "Wishing Animals" for which they painted their own background scenery. They also entertained their guests with choral reading and songs.

The fifth grade students of Miss Ruby Stovall were busy painting with water colors, doing toothpick construction, or modeling clay over light bulbs for heads. The fifth and sixth grade class of Mr. Donald Robinson were busy doing advance clay modeling of figures and bowls. Miss Schoedsack, art director, assisted this group.

William O'Brien's room demonstrated three forms of printing: (1) brayer, (2) crayon impress and (3) with small press.

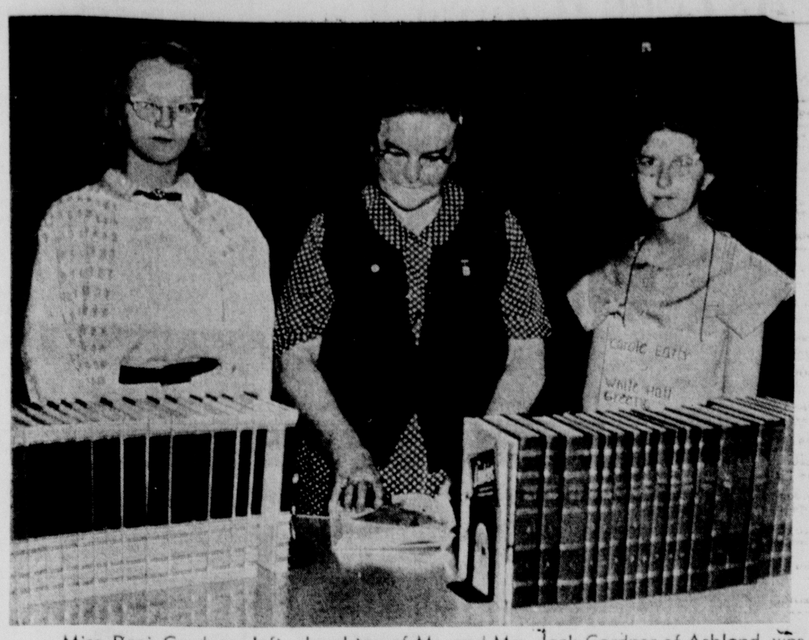

Extra Art Displays

Special note was made of the large six foot map of Jacksonville made by Miss Fitzpatrick's fourth grade students. Attention was also focused on the outstanding diorama of the various phases of living across the United States. Both of these were displayed on Channel 20, WICS-TV when the class visited the Springfield TV station in April.

Beautiful water colors were noted in Miss Stovall's fifth grade classroom. Outstanding murals were seen in Miss Barker's, Miss Pearce's, Mrs. Chamber's, and Mr. O'Brien's rooms. Also the bird construction and self portraits in Mrs. McNeely's first grade class had much appeal.

6-COUNTY SPELLING CHAMPIONS

Miss Roni Gardner, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gardner of Ashland, was declared the winner of a six-county district spelling contest Friday night. Carole Early, right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Early of White Hall, received second-place honors in the contest.

Mrs. Jane Murgatroyd, center, district manager, Field Enterprises World Book, sponsor of the annual contest, shows the girls where to find information about their trip to Washington, D. C., also one the contest prizes. Each of the girls received a set of World Books as winners of the district contest.

Mrs. Murgatroyd will charter a bus to Washington, D. C., for the first six winners in each of the counties. The group will leave June 13.

Booster Doses For Polio Due In Many Cases

Dr. James Chapman, director of the Morgan County Health department, said Saturday that the State Health Department's Technical Advisory committee on Poliomyelitis has made the following recommendation relative to booster doses of polio vaccine.

"It appears desirable that a booster dose of poliomyelitis vaccine be given prior to the polio season to individuals who received their last injection of their primary immunization series a year previously and at yearly intervals thereafter."

Dr. Chapman said this is something of a change from past recommendation and parents should consult their physician about them when their children had their last polio vaccine. All adults under 40 years of age should do the same.

"It is confusing to people that recommendations relative to when and how many polio vaccine injections should be given, change but as more knowledge is gained about immunization against polio such changes are necessary," the health director commented.

An automatic testing machine used by a U. S. missile component manufacturer can run a complete test on a complicated assembly in just one hour compared with 32 hours required to check the assembly by manual methodis.

Car Of Future Won't Use Oil, Radiator Won't Need Water

DETROIT (AP)—Your car of the future could have oil you'd never have to change, the radiator stashed away in a fender and parts made of materials only now coming into being.

If this happens the oil won't really be oil and the cooling system won't use water.

There are a bare sampling of ideas under development by just one of the hundreds of companies other than the automakers which are busily at working devising ways to make your car of the future different from the one you can buy today.

The aim, of course, is not just to make something different but to make it better.

Robert Hansen, a boyish-looking executive with a friendly grin and crew-cut red hair who heads the automotive chemicals labaratory at Dow Chemical Co. in Midland, Mich., was explaining recently the role of synthetic lubricants in motor cars and the prospects for the future.

In today's cars, synthetic lubricants have only one general application — brake fluids. Mineral oils, and the kind that come from the ground, vaporize at the high temperatures which modern brakes must withstand and congeal at frigid temperatures.

Synthetic lubricants, Hansen explains, are man-made compounds of carbon, oxygen and hydrogen which can be tailored to remain fluid over a far greater range of temperatures.

Since synthetics will neither gum up an engine nor form deposits they could make ideal replacements for the motor oils used to lubricate engines. "Technically they could last the life of the engine," Hansen said.

The drawback is that an internal combustion engine "breathes." Dust and dirt get into the system and eventually contaminate the lubricant. Even premium grade oils sometimes wear out before this happens, but, Hansen says, a synthetic would never wear out. If the dirt problem can be licked, synthetics are ready.

Hansen says they would be particularly suitable if the compression ratio of car engines is increased. The higher compression engines are more efficient but present day oils would break down.

Synthetics are considerably more expensive because they are man made. In the long run, however, they could be cheaper because of their long life.

Hansen's department also is interested in ebullient cooling, or cooling by boiling. The coolant in the engine would boil constantly at a steady temperature and in so doing would remove heat from the engine walls more quickly than conventional coolants.

Hard to believe? Heat applied to an empty pan on a stove soon will ruin the pan. Put water in the pan and bring it to a boil and the pan will remain unharmed the heat being drawn off by the water.

With ebullient cooling all parts of the engine would remain at constant temperature, making it more efficient. The water pump would be eliminated. The coolant is boiled out of the engine, converting the liquid to a vapor which goes ito the radiator. It is then condensed to fluid and returned to the engine. Heat causes it to circulate.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market advanced this week on the heaviest volume in two months.

The market wheelhorses, including many industrials far below their 1960 highs, joined with the flighty "romance" issues in a broad rally.

The rise was based both on encouraging technical factors and some good news about the economy. It was the second straight weekly rise.

Considerable investment and speculative money which had been lurking on the sidelines again became committed to common stocks, according to brokers. Turnover increased every trading session.

Volume swelled to 15,420,970 shares from 13,955,505 the week before and was the biggest since the week ended March 12 when 15,980,064 shares changed hands.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 8.41 to 616.03.

The market declined Monday and Tuesday and was sinking early Wednesday when the turn came. The Dow industrials were once more sinking toward the 600 level and some analysts believed this indicator would fall through the 1960 low of 599.10 reached March 8. This level was "tested" the previous week and the market rebounded. In chart language, this formed a "double bottom" and this week the bottom began to look sturdier than ever to market technicians. The Wednesday market recovered well before it touched the year's low. This brought in buying by many who are guided by chart formations.

In addition, there were encouraging words about the economy. President Eisenhower announced that national output of goods and services was now at a half trillion dollar rate and that employment was at a record for mid-April.

Presidential economic adviser Raymond J. Saulnier and other experts saw 1960 as a good year. The conviction was spreading among Wall Streeters that this would be a "no boom-no recession" year and that there were plenty of rewarding aspects to business and industry.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.50 to 213.00. Of the 1,426 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 744 advanced and 528 declined. New highs for the year totaled 130 and new lows 288.

Most active issue this week on the New York Stock Exchange was NAFI Corp., up 5⅛ at 44 on 258,100 shares.

The most active issue on the American Stock Exchange was Hydrometals, up 6¼ at 33¾ on 156,900 shares.

U.S. government bonds drifted lower while corporate securities marked time in slightly more active trading. Trading volume increased to $26,147,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $24,256,000 a week ago. A year ago turnover was $30,000,000.

A few choice and prime 100-126 lb wooled slaughter lambs 21.00-22.25 small lot prime 23.00 late, good and choice wooled lambs 19.50-21.00. Mostly prime 100-106 lb lambs fall shorn pelts 21.50-21.75, most choice and prime shorn slaughter lambs No. 2 to fall shorn pelts 100-108 lbs 20.00-21.00, good and choice No. 2 to fall shorn pelts 19.00-20.00. Few prime 90-100 lb spring lambs 25.25-26.00. Cull to choice slaughter ewes 4.00-7.00.

CHICAGO (AP) — After the broadest one-day advance of the year on Friday, butcher hog prices finished the week fully 50 cents higher, probably hitting the highest average cost for all barrows and gilts in about a month.

Friday's gain was on a sharply curtailed supply and an active demand. Offerings here were a small 4,000 head, off 40 per cent from the same day last week while receipts at the 12 major markets were down 20 per cent.

Until Thursday prices had eased on the largest supply for that period of any week since early February.

Offerings on the cattle market were 10 per cent more than last week and the most for any week since January but high choice and prime grade slaughter steers were scarce. These sold at steady to strong prices while lower grades were steady to 50 cents lower.

In the sheep market, slaughter lambs moved at prices 25 to 50 cents higher for the week as the supply consisted largely of old crop shorn offerings.

GRAIN TRADING BRISK IN EVENING UP OF COMMITMENTS

CHICAGO (AP) — Commercial influences in the grain futures market this week were rather scarce but prices skipped around fairly briskly in spots on factors described as technical trade considerations.

Foremost among them was evening up of commitments in May contracts on which trading will end next Thursday. The government report early in the week which estimated the winter wheat yield at 992 million bushels was about as expected although some brokers said it was a little less. They had looked for a figure slightly above a billion.

At 992 million, though, the yield would be the fourth largest of record, 7 per cent above last year and 19 per cent above the 10-year average.

During the week, the first marketing of new crop wheat was reported at San Antonio, Tex. While the amount was inconsequential, traders said it indicated the harvest had started well ahead of normal and could boost significantly during the next few weeks the supply in commercial channels.

Liberal offers to deliver corn and soybeans on May contracts in the pit were weakening factors from time to time. Long interests in the market appeared to have taken the initiative toward liquidation of their holdings. Monday, the old crop soybean months were at or near their lows for the season as a result of that pressure but they had recovered about a cent by week's end.

At the end of the week, wheat was ⅝-1 cent a bushel lower than a week ago, May $2.06⅝-½; corn ⅜ lower to ⅞ higher, May $1.17⅜-½; oats ¾ lower to ¾ higher, May 75½; rye 2⅛ higher to 1⅛ lower, May $1.25⅜-½; soybeans ¼-1½ lower, May $2.12⅜-½.

Nikita Arrives For Summit

"Nobody can deny that in certain countries, especially in recent times, influential circles, trying to get back to the cold war and prevent improvement of the international atmosphere, have noticeably increased their activitise," he said.

"Let us hope that their efforts will not be successful and that the discussion of questions such as general and complete disarmament, the liquidation of the remnants of the Second World War, and the conclusion of a German peace treaty, as well as (improvement of) East-West relations will be profitable to the cause of universal peace."

This barb was Khrushchev's only reference to the latest flare-up in Soviet-American relations. Otherwise, he concentrated on what he said were his hopes for the conference and world peace, promising that the Soviet Union will work for the sucess of the summit meeting.

Khrushchev was the first of the visiting chiefs of government to reach Paris. President Eisenhower arrives Sunday morning and Macmillan about two hours later.

There was speculation that Khrushchev's early arrival meant he was anxious to set the mood for the summit meeting. He confers Sunday with President de Gaulle.

Khrushchev quickly arranged to see Macmillan also Sunday. A British spokesman said the Soviet leader asked for the meeting shortly after arriving in Paris and that Macmillan agreed. They are expected to get together after a conference of the Western Big Three chiefs Sunday afternoon.

Up to a late hour, Khrushchev had not sought a meeting with Eisenhower.

There was speculation, too, on the seemingly unlikely possibility that Eisenhower might meet the Soviet Premier in advance. This could give them an opportunity to thrash out their quarrel over the spy-plane incident and clear the decks for work on the major issues before the Big Four leaders.

After Khrushchev's speech it seemed that the summit meeting at least would get under way and that the danger of its being wrecked in advance had passed.

Western diplomats have no doubt, however, that the Communist chief still will have a good deal to say about the intelligence plane the Russians announced they shot down over their territory May 1 and about Eisenhower's defense of aerial espionage as necessary because of Soviet secrecy.

Khrushchev gave no hint that he had genuinely softened his belligerent indignation. Except for fleeting moments during the airport arrival ceremonies, his face was stern.

Only once did he break out in a broad grin, and this was the result of one of his own peremptory gestures. He had received a bouquet of roses from a child. He patted the child on the head and then, without looking around, plunged the bouquet into the arms of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, his resplendently uniformed defense minister. Malinovsky, standing woodenly at attention, was startled. He looked as if he had been handed an unwanted infant, and the spectacle apparently amused the Soviet leader.

Khrushchev, who, like millions of tourists, has proclaimed that he loves Paris in the spring, took advantage of a mostly sunny day to go for an afternoon ride in the country.

In Paris, the usual last-minute round of preliminary meetings attending international conferences got under way.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville met at the Quai d'Orsay, the French Foreign Ministry. West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano also was present.

De Gaulle met for an hour and 50 minutes with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a weekend visitor. Adenauer plans to return to Bonn Sunday night. He will stay away from Paris during the summit meeting to avoid giving the East German Communists an excuse to demand equal status as observers.

However, a German government spokesman in Bonn indicated Von Brentano will shutt le between Bonn and Paris, probably to keep Adenauer posted on talks involving the future of West Berlin and Khrushchev's demands concerning peace treaties for the two Germanys, which would involve recognition for the Communist East Germans.

Khrushchev has threatened that unless the West eventually accepts his idea of peace treaties and an international free-city status for West Berlin, the Communists will go ahead on their own. Only a time limit would be needed to turn the threat into an ultimatum.

Thus, the German questions can be the key to success or failure of the summit conference. There is little inclination among Westerners in Paris to predict even a small degree of success on any of the major issues: Germany, Berlin, disarmament, nuclear weapons tests, or East-West relations. The atmosphere, in fact, is generally gloomy.

The gloom is the result of the spy-plane incident, from which Khrushchev has drawn a large amount of propaganda. There is little question but that the spy story will be a dominating influence at the conference. And there are few who do not believe it has been a serious setback for the United States.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Lloyd put it this way: "It is something that has happened. We must face the situation as it is."

Nixon Predicts Possible Cut In Taxes Next Year

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday that tax reform legislation—including some reduction of high bracket income tax rates—may be possible next year.

In carefully phrased replies to reporters' questions, the prospective GOP presidential nominee said he does not intend at any time in the election campaign to state that "we can positively have a tax reduction."

Tax measures definitely should not be debated in the political heat of an election year, Nixon said, and the whole question will depend on the international situation. But he acknowledged he had "been doing some thinking in this area" and went on:

"If we had met adequately our responsibilities for national security, and had a substantial budget surplus, a new Congress should be able to consider, in a temperate and responsible way, a tax reform measure."

Another surplus of about four billion dollars—comparable to the one in prospect for the fiscal year starting July 1—would be sufficient to permit Congress to start work on a tax bill, Nixon said.

He said any tax bill should include provisions aimed at stimulating business incentives, productive investment and economic growth.

Among these, he said, should be an adjustment of some excise tax rates which he termed "counterproductive," a liberalization of depreciation rules affecting industry, and a reduction of high bracket income taxes.

The individual income tax rates, Nixon went on, are not now designed to get the most out of the economy and have helped encourage an "expense account economy."

Nixon made an off-the-record speech Friday night to about 100 head of major corporations, meeting here as members of the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council. The council is holding its spring session with Secrtary Frederick H. Mueller and other government officials.

So far as was known, Nixon did not refer to taxes in his talk to the business executives.

U.S. Protests Cuban Attack On U.S. Sub

harangue denounced the United States again instead of showing what U.S. officials feel is the temperance required in order to ease tensions between Cuba and her big neighbor to the north.

The department expressed regret that Castro should continue to follow such a course.

As an example of the distortion U.S. authorities say Castro is using to hit at Uncle Sam, they said the Castro claim that the U.S. destroyer Norfolk cruised within 2½ miles of a Cuban island is clearly impossible. They said the Norfolk, a cruiser and not a destroyer, is too big a ship to escape going aground at the location Castro mentioned.

three U.S. planes were sighted May 8; and the destroyer Norfolk crossed Cuba's three-mile limit near Cayo Blanco 75 miles northeast of Havana May 11.

"In no case did they have permission to navigate in our waters, and, moreover, they did it with lights out, violating all internationally approved rules and regulations," Castro said.

U.S. Navy officers in Washington said the May 6 submarine was probably the Sea Poacher. They said the skipper noted something that looked like red flares but at the time had no idea his ship was being fired on. Officers displayed logs to support their claim that the sub was not inside Cuban territorial waters and was running on the surface with proper lights.

U.S. sources in Havana gave their version of the Norfolk incident. The light cruiser—not a destroyer—was heading through normal sea lanes toward the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, on the eastern tip of Cuba, when it picked up a small craft on radar, they said. The small vessel approached. The Norfolk challenged by searchlight, and identities was exchanged by blinker.

The sources insisted the Norfolk was sailing under normal lights and proceeded to Guantanamo without further incident after reporting the sighting through channels to the U.S. Embassy.

States recorded as particularly strong for Johnson: North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Symington had his home state of Missouri, 39 votes, ready to go down the line for him. He also was described as sharing importantly in the delegate strength of half a dozen other states and perhaps more.

Expect Ike To Push Open Skies Inspection Plan

His orange-nosed jet scheduled a one-hour refueling stop at Harmon Air Force Base in Newfoundland during the 8¾-hour flight.

Despite the official silence, there appeared to be no sign Eisenhower intends to relax his determination in the face of probable new protests from Khrushchev about American aerial spying.

Authoriatative officials said Eisenhower hopes to convert the international furor over the American spy plane downed in the Soviet Union into a positive asset at the conference table.

If challenged, they said, Eisenhower is ready to cite the spy incident as an argument in favor of his plan for open-skies inspection of defense potentials.

The President is reported hoping to avoid an open propaganda battle with Khrushchev over the issue which admittedly threatens to overshadow the avowed purpose of the Big Four top-level parley.

But officials acknowledged that the fate of the serious talks initially contemplated is up to Khrushchev. Eisenhower will reluctantly reply in kind if Khrushchev seeks to turn the meeting into a giant propaganda circus, aides said.

A slight toning down of anti-American remarks from Moscow in the past two days has slightly raised hopes that Khrushchev may choose to play down the incident and stick instead to serious talks about disarmament, Berlin and Germany.

Some diplomatic authorities believe Khrushchev's denunciations of spying are intended to give him a negotiating advantage toward willing more favorable terms for an interim settlement of the Berlin problem.

Officials said the international row over spying in the past week has not, however, weakened Eisenhower's detemination to avoid any Berlin deal which imperils the future of the West Berliners or hopes for eventually uniting Germany.

Authorities concede also that the embarrassing spy incident has not improved prospects that Khrushchev will accept any open-skies inspection. In the past, Khrushchev has bitterly denounced any such system as a thinly disguised Western effort to spy on the Soviet Union.

The plane incident also appears to have weakened previous hopes that Khrushchev would join at the Paris sessions in clearing away the remaining obstacles to an East-West safeguarded ban on nuclear testing.

Eisenhower is known to be equipped with a big array of ammunition to fire back at Khrushchev in any propaganda duel. This material is reported to include heretofore secret cases of Soviet agents who sought to ferret out American official and industrial secrets.

The President, however, is reported planning to keep these locked in his briefcase until and unless provoked by Khrushchev into demonstrating that spying is not a one-way street.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — When the Detroit club launched its first eastern swing with huge Steve Bilko hitless in 25 consecutive times at bat, one of the old Tigers said, "If de doesn't untrack himself we can always go to the Dodgers for another first baseman.

This stressed a point generally overlooked by baseball writers. It is that Los Angeles is the only club dealing in players in wholesale lots.

Remember when Branch Rickey used to explain that the Cardinals were kept solvent by selling players to other major league clubs. Rickey introduced mass production out of necessity in the early 1920's, brought it with him when he switched to Brooklyn in 1943. His theory was — and is — "the more you look at, the more good ones you are likely to find."

Other clubs retracted, but when Rickey moved to Pittsburgh, Walter F. O'Malley and Company not only stuck to his plan in Flatbush and then Los Angeles, but embellished it. The result is that there were no fewer than 81 performers training with the parent club at Vero Beach the past spring. There were 43 pitchers, 11 catchers, 16 infielders and 13 outfielders. A total of 350 athletes conditioned at the old Naval Air Training Base there, for the Dodgers have to feed a dozen minor league outfits, three in Triple A, one each in AA, A and B, two in C and four in D.

WHEN DETROIT WANTED a shortstop a year ago, Buzzy Bavasi, vice-president in charge of everything with the Dodgers, told Rick Ferrell, then running the works for the Tigers, "There are a half dozen out there you can have. Pick out one, look at him throughout the training season, and if you like him pay us $30,000. If no like, send him back."

Ferrell selected Maury Wills, the switch hitter who didn't catch the eye of Bill Norman, then the Detroit manager. Back came Wills. Sent to Spokane, he was called up by the Dodgers in mid-season to shortstop them to the world championship.

To obtain a shortstop this season, the Tigers traded with the Phillies to land Chico Fernandez, sold by the Dodgers to Philadelphia in April, 1957, for $75,000 and four combatants, one of whom was Elmer Valo, now with the Yankees. The New York club went to the Dodgers for Fred Kipp, the left-handed pitcher.

BALTIMORE WAS DESPERATE for a first baseman this spring, so Bavasi gave the Orioles a choice. They took Jim Gentile on 30-day look for $25,000. The Cubs required a third baseman and grabbed Don Zimmer.

Officials of other clubs trace the Dodgers' admitted abundance of talent to the fact that the upsurge of attendance in the gigantic Los Angeles Stadium gave the O'Malley front office a lot of money to spend. The argument doesn't stand, for when did you last hear of Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox, the Orioles, Cardinals, Cubs, Phillies and Braves hesitating when there was an attractive bonus baby lying around loose?

The winning team total was 297 which qualified the JHS squad to a trip to Champaign next weekend for the state finals. Howard Curtis and Wells also brought JHS additional honors by placing one-two in the individual low scoring.

Curtis was one over par 66 with rounds of 34-33 for a sterling 67. Wells followed with a 366 for a total 72.

Quincy had been heavily favored to win tthe district which had 48 boys participating from nine schools. But the Blue Devils had to settle for third place and the Quincy squad seemed a little bit disheartened as it had gone through the season undefeated.

The four low individual scorers received medals as did the winning and second place teams. Jacksonville also added a district plaque to its trophy collection.

Nils Olson of the second place Springfield Senators accomplished on unusual feat on the front nine with a birdie on the eighth and an eagle on the last hole but he still wound up with a five over par 38.

The winning 297 total was produced by Curtis' 67, Wells' 72, Gross' 75 and Thayers' 83.

Bud Taylor, who fired an 86 on rounds of 42-44, will serve as an alternate for the Crimsons next weekend at the finals.

Rookie Homers Twice In 5-2 Philadelphia Win

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two home runs by rookie Tony Curry powered the Philadelphia Phils to a 5-2 victory over Cincinnati Saturday and snapped the Reds' winning streak at nine.

Curry's hitting nullified a spectacular relief pitching stint by Cincinnati's Joe Nuxhall in which 9 of 12 outs he recorded were strikeouts.

Curry's home runs accounted for three of the Phil runs. His first one in the opening inning ended a string of scoreless innings which had stretched through three consecutive 1-0 defeats.

Bally Ache Sold For $1,250,000

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bally Ache, purchased for $2,500 two years ago, was sold for $1,250,000 Saturday after having finished second in the Kentucky Derby a week ago.

Leonard Frutchtman, a Toledo, Ohio, steel executive, sold the bay colt to a syndicate headed by Joseph L. Arnold of Lexington, Ky., just before the 3-year-old son of Ballydam-Celestial Blue took the track for the Preakness Prep at Pimlico.

Arnold said that Bally Ache would continue running as long as he was sound in hopes of surpassing the world record earnings of Round Table. The latter picked up $1,749,869 before calling it a career a year ago.

Bally Ache already has won $540,277 and missed winning five $100,000 races as a 2-year-old last season by a total margin of a length and a half.

The new owner said Bally Ache would start in the $150,000-added Preakness here next Saturday but that plans after that were indefinite.

Fruchtman said that he sold his horse because "he was taking too much of my time, sometimes as much as four days a week." The 39-year-old steelman added: "I've got to get back to my job and I want to spend more time with my family."

The million and a quarter sale price is one of the highest ever paid for a thoroughbred. Nashua was sold for $1,251,200 by the estate of the late William Woodward in an auction featured by sealed bids.

Bally Ache was second in the Garden State, world's richest race, as a 2-year-old and this spring won both the Florida Derby and the Flamingo.

Arnold said H. J. (Jimmy) Pitt would continue to train Bally Ache.

Sachs Does What He Said He Would Do In Winning Pole Position

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Eddie Sachs, fastest talker in auto racing, announced he was going to drive the first official 147-mile-an-hour lap on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Saturday—and then did it.

The Center Valley, Pa., tavern owner, won the pole position for the 44th 500-mile race May 30, and an incidental $1,200, by breaking two records set only 90 minutes earlier by Jim Rathmann of Miami.

Sachs wheeled his new Dean Special around the track for a 10-mile qualifying average of 146.592 miles an hour and a best lap of 147.251.

Sixteen cars qualified altogether at a record average of 144.683 for the first session, leaving 17 starting spots to be filled in additional trials Sunday and next weekend.

A crowd estimated upwards of 75,000 watched Jim Rathmann turn in the first record-cracking run at 146.371, with a best lap of 146.915. His brother Dick, another racing veteran from Rozelle, Ill., set the old 10-mile mark of 145.974 two years ago.

Johnny Thomson, Boyertorn, Pa., made the one-lap record of 146.532 last year. Thomson's engine popped a valve Saturday and he didn't get started.

Jim Rathmann has been runner-up three times in the 500, including last year, but never has won. Sachs has failed to finish in three starts.

California race car builder A. J. Watson put three cars in the front row of the Memorial Day race. He built Jim Rathmann's car himself and also the car in which Rodger Ward of Indianapolis, last year's winner, had the third best speed Saturday at 145.560.

Sachs' car was built from Watson's plans.

There were no wrecks and only three minor spins.

Friday Baseball

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The season's barely a month old, but it looks like a couple of kids, Mike McCormick of San Francisco and Jim O'Toole of Cincinnati, may be ready to challenge Warren Spahn as the National League's top left-handed pitcher of the year.

McCormick, 21, took over the earned run lead among starting pitchers at 1.50 with his third shutout and fifth victory without defeat Friday night, beating Los Angeles 3-0 with a six-hitter. It was the third consecutive shutout job by the first-place Giants, who now have won seven in a row and haven't allowed a run in 29 innings.

O'Toole, 23, won his third in a row with his second straight shutout, a seven-hit, 1-0 performance against Philadelphia that ran the Reds winning string to nine straight.

Pittsburgh's second place Pirates, the only other club to win nine in a row in the majors this season, stayed within two games of San Francisco with an eight-run seventh-inning for an 8-2 victory at Milwaukee. The Chicago Cubs, winning their first under manager Lou Boudreau, beat St. Louis 4-1. It was the seventh loss in a row for the Cardinals, who are 0-11 on the road.

McCormick, now 31-26 for his brief career, and O'Toole 8-11 are one-two in ERA among starting southpaws in the NL. O'Toole, who has lost twice, has a 2.02 mark. Only Pittsburgh's Bob Friend 1.58 and San Francisco's Sam Jones 1.91, both righthanders, seperate the two youngsters in the rankings of starting pitchers. Spahn, 39, the NL's winningest left-hander of all time, has a 3.18 ERA and a 2-0 record this season with the Braves.

McCormick struck out seven and didn't walk a man while putting away his second 1-0 decision over the Dodgers and Don Drysdale 3 - 4. The Giants, riding their longest streak since winning eight in the 1954 pennant season handed Drysdale his third straight defeat with a fourth-inning run. It scored on Willie Mays' double and Orlando Cepeda's single—his first hit in 15 at bats.

The other two runs were off reliever Larry Sherry with two out in the eighth on bases-loaded infield singles by pinch-hitter Willie McCovey still nursing a sore toe and Ed Bressoud.

O'Toole walked three and struck out four against the Phillies, who tied the major league record with their third straight 1-0 defeat and now have failed to score in 29 innings. The Reds scored on Billy Martin's single and a two-out triple by Vada Pinson in the fifth against Ruben Gomez 0-2. The Phils, plunking into the cellar, threatened only in the fifth, when Cal Neeman singled and Joe Koppe doubled with none out. O'Toole then retired Gomez and fanned Tony Taylor and Al Dark.

Neeman and Taylor joined the Phils just before the game following a trade that sent pitcher Don Cardwell and first baseman Ed Bouchee to the Cubs.

After leaving 10 men on base in six innings and trailing 2-0, Pittsburgh got rolling in tthe seventh on a double by Dick Groat, who was 6-for-6. Loser Carl Willey 2-2 and relievers, Bob Rush and Joey Jay were tagged for seven hits in the explosion powered by Dick Stuart's first home run and Bill Mazeroski's sixth. Friend 4-1 won it with a five-hitter, retiring the last 17 men in order after a fourth inning home run by Hank Aaron. It was the Bucs' fourth in a row over Milwaukee.

Frank Thomas and Ernie Banks hammered their sixth home runs for the Cubs while Glen Hobbie 3 - 3 dropped the Cards with a five-hitter. Ron Kline 1-2 was the loser.

American League

The Chicago White Sox still have the Indian sign on the Cleveland Indians.

They made it two-out-of-two over the Tribe this season with a 4-2 decision Friday night in the opener of a three-game series at Cleveland—where they ambushed the pursuing Indians with a four-game sweep last August, and then officially clinched the American League pennant on a one-game visit a month later.

The White Sox, who had lost two in a row at Boston, gained a one-game lead over the rain-idled Red Sox and New York. The Yankees vaulted Cleveland for a virtual second place tie with a 7-3 victory at Washington. Detroit defeated Kansas City 4-3 in 14 innings.

Southpaw Billy Pierce (3-1) cut Cleveland's winning spurt at three games with an eight-hitter, giving up solo home runs by Jimmy Piersall and Woodie Held. The White Sox, blanked on one hit for four innings, beat rookie Wynn Hawkins (3-2) with a three-run fifth capped by Minnie Minoso's two-run single.

Bill Skowron drove in two runs with an eighth-inning double that broke a 3-3 tie for the Yankees against left-handed rookie Jim Kaat (1-2).

Right-hander Bob Turley won his first, blanking the Senators without a hit in three innings of relief after Whitey Ford had given up a tying, two-run homer by Jim Lemon in the sixth. It was Lemon's seventh, giving him a tie with Held for the AL lead. Mickey Mantle hit his second for the Yankees in a three-run first inning.

Mantle, a switch-hitter batting right-handed against Kaat, put his shot over the 31-foot high barrier in right field at Griffith Stadium —a sector seldom violated by right-handed hitters.

An unearned run did it for the Tigers after lefty Hank Aquirre (1-1) had held the A's hitless for 5 2-3 innings of relief. The Tigers beat reliever Don Larsen (0-3) when catcher Harry Chiti dropped a throw to the plate after Eddie Yost had hit a bases-loaded, one-out grounder to shortstop Ken Hamlin. It was the third straight victory for the Tigers, all by one run and second in extra innings, since losing 10 in a row.

SETS LAP RECORD

SILVERSTONE, England (AP) —Innes Ireland of Britain drove a new Lotus racing car to victory Saturday in the 150-mile main event of the International Trophy Race meeting.

Ireland set a lap record of 111.86 miles an hour and averaged 108.82 for the 50 laps around the Silverstone Circuit where an American driver, Harry Schell, was killed in a crash Friday while practicing for the race.

World Champion Jack Brabham of Australia was a close second to Ireland in the race for grand prix cars. He drove a Cooper. Graham Hill of Britain was third in a BRM.

Cubs Hang 12th Straight Road Loss On Cards, 4-0

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs pinned St. Louis with its 12th straight loss Saturday by blanking the Cardinals 4-0.

Rookie Dick Ellsworth scattered six hits in turning his second start into his second victory with late-inning help from Seth Morehead.

The Cardinals, who have yet to win on a foreign field this season, used four pitchers as the Cubs got 10 hits to balance new Manager Lou Boudreau's record at 2-2 via their second straight triumph.

Jerry Kindall, Ellsworth's teammate at Houston before the youthful pair were recalled by the Cubs recently, drove in three runs. Replacing traded Tony Taylor at second, Kindall hit a sacrifice fly for his first 1960 RBI, then singled for two more.

Beverly Fleitz Withdraws From Wightman Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz of Los Alamitos, Calif., America's No. 1 woman tennis player, has withdrawn from the U.S. Wightman Cup team and has indicated her retirement from competition this year.

She will be replaced by 18-year-old Karen Hantze of San Diego, the national girls' champion and sixth-ranked among the women players, Mrs. William du Pont Jr, chairman of the Wightman Cup committee said Saturday.

The American team is scheduled to defend the Wightman Cup against Great Britain at Wimbledon, England, June 10-11.

Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., partner of Mrs. Fleitz on the top-ranked doubles team, also does not plan to play tournament tennis this year, Mrs. DuPont said. She was a member of the 1959 cup team. In her place Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode, now a resident of Panama, was named to the team.

PASSES UP ROAD WORK

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP)—Floyd Patterson passed up his road work Saturday because of the rain but boxed four rounds in preparation for his June 20 title fight with Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson.

The former champ boxed two rounds with Julio Mederos, 210-pound Cuban, and two rounds with Raymond Patterson, his 185-pound brother. After the workout he weighed 192 pounds. He said he expected to scale 188 or 189 pounds for the fight.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) —Strict enforcement of the new Illinois motorboat law will begin May 21, State Conservation Director Glen D. Palmer announced Saturday.

Motorboat owners using their craft on any body of water in Illinois must have assigned numbers properly affixed to the boats, or have proof that application has been made for a license, Palmer said.

Florida has a permanent population of about five million.

Wolves Favored To Win Tennis Title In Big 10

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Despite personnel losses, Michigan is favored to capture its second successive title and fifth in the last six years in the 51st Big Ten tennis Thursday through Saturday.

The meet will be played at Northwestern University which, along with Michigan State, is rated the best chance of dethroning the Wolverines.

Michigan State's Spartans have four lettermen back from last year's fifth place team, plus sophomore ace Elmer Brian, who has wrested the No. 1 spot from senior Bill Hotchkiss.

Northwestern, an eighth spot finisher last year, has two sharp newcomers, Denny Konicki and Chuck Lockhart, teaming with veterans Gay Messick, Steve Hiben, Shin Torii and Steve Bard.

Illinois has lost three starters from last year's second place team. Indiana has perked with addition of sophomores Don Thorne and Stu Cohen. Wisconsin hopes to improve last year's ninth place finish with four lettermen and a highly-rated soph, Martin Rubinowitz. Minnesota has one returning regular from last year's fourth place squad, senior Ray Radosewich.

Entries For U.S. Open Reach New High

NEW YORK (AP) — For the straight year entries for the U.S. Open Golf Championship, to be played at Denver's Cherry Hills Club June 16-18, have risen to record proportions.

The U.S. Golf Assn. Saturday announced a final figure of 2,472 for the entry list, surpassing last year's mark of 2,335 for the first open in which double qualifying was required. In 1958, when there was only one qualifying test to reduce the final field to 150, there were 2,132 entries.

All but 48 of the players are required to play in 36-hole local qualifying rounds at 56 locations May 23 or 24. These will whittle the list down to 442, who then will join the 48 exempt players in sectional qualifying rounds at 13 locations June 6 or 7.

There are 21 others, headed by defending champion Billy Casper, who are exempt from both local and sectional qualifying. They include the last five winners of the open, amateur champion Jack Nicklaus and the top finishers in last year's championship. Thus the sectional rounds will produce 129 qualifiers to bring the final field to 150.

Tigers Nudge Athletics, 7-6

AD TIGERS NUDGE

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers banged out of a batting slump Saturday with five home runs that accounted for all of their runs in a 7-6 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

It was the fourth straight triumph for the Tigers, who started the season with five wins and then nose-dived into a 10-game losing streak. All four recent victories have been by a one-run margin.

Norm Cash, who took the first base job away from slumping Steve Bilko, provided the winning margin Saturday with a booming home run into the third deck in right field. It came with two out in the seventh inning against reliever Ken Johnson, who was charged with the defeat.

The victory went to Dave Sisler, who hurled four innings of one-hit relief ball.

I.C. DEFEATS MILLIKIN GOLFERS

DECATUR—Millikin bowed to Illinois College as the Blueboys avenged an earlier defeat, 8-7. The victory climaxed a winning campaign for Joe Brooks' squad as they won 12 and lost four including their fourth straight Prairie College Conference championship.

Jack Fairfield was low man for the winners with a 76. Kaisner was low for the Big Blue with a one over par 72.

I.C. results:

Bob Bradley 77; Jack Fairfield 76; Jim O'Brien 78; Frank Harris 81 and Jim Skufca 82.

Turner Lightweights Place Third At State

NIANTIC—Turner's lightweights captured third place honors but Coach Paul Keller's heavyweights didn't fare so well as they failed to collect a single point here Saturday in the state IESA track and field championships.

Homer won the lightweight title and Cerro Gordo and Tolono tied for top honors in the heavyweight class.

For Turner's lightweights, Tom Stanford broke his own school record by winning the shot put with a heave of 33 feet, 11 inches. Stanford's old mark was 33 feet, three inches.

The 440 relay team composed of Stanford, Hunt, Woodruff and Whitaker also broke a school mark with a 54.1 for a blue ribbon. The old time had been 54.3 seconds.

The affair, which attracted over 100 schools and around 450 boys, had some unusual scoring in the lightweight class.

Reynolds paced Homer to the team crown by scoring all of its 15 points and he also set three new state records in the 100 yard dash, the 50 yard dash and the broad jump which he won with a jump of 18 feet, 3-4 inches.

Houston also scored all of Holy Cross of Champaign's tallies by winning the discus with a toss of 110' and he also took the 220 yard dash

Doug Henricks scored nine of Mt. Sterling's 10 points with a first in the low hurdles and a second in the 220. Mt. Sterling was fourth.

Turner marked its fourth straight appearance in the state finals and it had placed either first, second, third or fourth in the lightweight or heavyweight classes during those times.

Blueboys Fifth In Conference Track Meet

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—Principia won first place in the 5-team Prairie College Conference track and field championships here Saturday.

Four new loop records were set on a fast track.

—Jimmy Green, Simpson, Ron Ladley and Gene Wells did an outstanding job for Coach Bill Merris' Blueboys who wound up fifth.

Green won the 100 and 220 yard dashes while Simpson took the 440 in the fine time of 50.6 and he also tied for second in the 100 yard dash with a 10.2.

Green's time in the 220 was an excellent 20.2 seconds.

Ladley was second in the shot put and placed fifth in both the broad jump and the discus. Wells' fifth came in the two-mile run.

Quadrangular Won By Rockford

ROCK ISLAND—Rockford defeated Wheaton, MacMurray and Augustana here Saturday in a quadrangular golf meet. Medalist honors went to a pair of Augustana golfers who carded 75s.

Tommy Farrell shot a 77 for the Highlanders followed by Bob Leistner's 79. Other Clan scores were Snider 80, Underwood 81, Talbert 89 and Furland 90.

In tennis, MacMurray notched its fifth win in six starts by turning back S.I.U. of Alton, 4-3. S. K. Zimmerman of Pekin won his sixth straight match and he will represent MacMurray in the NAIA meet.

The golf loss brought MacMurray's record to 6-8-1 for the season.

Littler Pulls Into 1st Place Tie In Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) —Gene Littler shot a par 70 Saturday to pull into a tie for first place with slumping Kel Nagle in the $30,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

Nagle, the big Australian, started the third round leading by two strokes over Littler, from Singing Hills, Calif., but took a 72 to wind up with 209 for 54 holes and a deadlock for the top with Littler.

One stroke back was Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., who came out of a tie for fifth place with a 1-under-par 69 for 210.

Littler brought excitement when he rounded the first nine with a 2-under-par 33 and on the 10th hole had increased his lead over Nagle to three strokes. The Australian had a 36 on the first nine and bogeyed 10.

Littler and Nagle, tied for first with 209, and Boros next with 210 were off by themselves. Next were three players—Ted Kroll of Sarasota, Fla., Don January of Dallas and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, all at 213.

Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, one of the tournament favorites, had his worst round—a 5-over-par 75 and fell virtually out of contention. The other top favorite, Arnold Palmer, Masters champion from Ligonier, Pa., had a 73 and fell down to 214.

A 20 mile-an-hour wind swept the 7,041-yard Colonial Country Club course and again caused scores to soar.

Cornell Rowers Upset Harvard

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—Cornell's varsity heavyweights, who were promoted overnight from the junior varsity ranks, upset Harvard's defending champs and Navy's husky crew for the Eastern College Sprint Rowing Championship Saturday.

The Big Red eight had only one oarsman from the old varsity but they swept through the water like they were the No. 1 shell all year.

Stroked by Harry Moseley of Bay Village, Ohio, Cornell led all the way in winning by 1¼ lengths over Harvard. The Crimson, beaten for the first time in two years in the morning heat, nosed out Navy's high-strokers for second by five-tenths of a second.

Syracuse was fourth, Princeton fifth and Penn last in the six-crew final.

Harvard's lightweights salvaged some glory for the Crimson by sweeping all three of its titles—the varsity, junior varsity and freshman races. All of the races in the combined lightweight and heavyweight championships were over 2,000 meters (mile, 427 yards).

The slick Harvard 155-pound varsity racked up its third straight Eastern sprint title and its 26th race in a row by whipping Navy in the final by 1¼ lengths in 7:02.6. Cornell was third, Columbia fourth, Princeton fifth and Dartmouth sixth.

Missouri Valley Okays Expansion

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Missouri Valley Conference officials approved in principle Saturday a division plan for expansion.

The official statement said no action was taken on any new membership, although several schools are under consideration.

"An NCAA request regarding discontinuance of Missouri Valley teams' participation in the National Invitational Tournament (NIT) was tabled," the statement said.

"The next meeting of the conference was set for Aug. 29-30 in Kansas City, at which time further action on the expansion plan is anticipated."

Dr. A. Witt Blair, of North Texas State, was elected vice president.

Two valley members—St Louis and Bradley—have competed in the NIT championships. With the Valley titlist going into NCAA playoffs, the valley runner-up has had an apparently automatic bid to NIT, with its rival national basketball championship.

The conference approved a three-game eligibility for the 1960 Valley football title. With Houston leaving the conference after spring sports, Cincinnati, Wichita, Tulsa and North Texas State remain in the grid title race on the round-robin basis already scheduled next fall.

St. Louis and Bradley, nationally-ranked in basketball, do not compete in football. Drake plays the game again, but not for the title.

A conference spokesman said it wants more members—"schools that will strengthen it both in football and in basketball."

In the division plan of expansion approved today, he said, the league would be split in two divisions for round robin play, with playoffs for the title. This is done now in baseball, on an east-west split.

But whether the split under the new policy will be east-west or north-south, and whether it will apply to football and basketball both, he added, would depend on what schools are added and what they play.

Pascual Hurls Nats To Shutout Win Over Yanks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Camilo Pascual struck out 11, allowed only four hits and won his first shutout of the season Saturday when Washington whipped New York, 4-0. Pascual led the major leagues in shutouts last year with six.

Pascual fanned Mickey Mantle three times and Tony Kubek twice as he hung the season's first shutout on the Yankees. He regained the league strikeout leadership from Cleveland's Gary Bell, with 53 to Bell's 44. It was the fourth game in which Pascual has struck out 10 or more batters.

Julio Becquer and Faye Throneberry, inserted in the starting lineup Friday night to beef up the Washington batting attack, delivered big hits in the third inning when the Senators scored all their runs against loser John Gabler.

Pittsburgh Beats Milwaukee, 6-4, In 11 Innings

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Roberto Clemente's two-out, two-run triple in the 11th gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 6-4 victory over Milwaukee Saturday and made it two victories in a row for the Bucs in their series at Milwaukee County Stadium.

The Braves had wiped out a 4-0 deficit with four home runs off Vernon Law, who was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the 10th. Elroy Face, who pitched the last two innings, was credited with his second victory against three defeats.

A crowd of 16,865 saw the Pirates score their fifth victory over the Braves since the Milwaukeeans beat Pittsburgh here on opening day.

Lew Burdette gave up the first four Pirate runs in the eight innings he worked. Reliever Don McMahon held the 4-4 tie through the 9th and 10th innings. But in the 11th, Don Hoak doubled, Bob Skinner was passed and both scored when Clemente tripled off the left field fence.

Baltimore Snaps Boston Streak

BOSTON (AP)— Baltimore fell on a suddenly inept Boston team Saturday for a 5-2 ninth inning victory which snapped a four-game Red Sox winning streak.

Held to five singles for eight scoreless innings, the young Orioles jumped on starter Bill Monbouquette for doubles by pinch-hitter Albie Pearson and Jackie Brandt, then poured it on against three reliefers.

Brandt's two-bagger accounted for one run and a Rod Hansen single for two more. The other tallies resulted from an error and wild pitch.

Before the Baltimore ninth was over, 10 men went to the plate. There were four hits, three walks, two errors and the wild pitch.

CURTIS TEAM CONFIDENT

LONDON (AP) — America's Curtis Cup team arrived in Britain Saturday, confident it can recapture the trophy from the golfing girls of the British Isles.

Mrs. Henri Prunaret of Natick, Mass., captain of the American team, said: "We have a fine, young team this year. They are the best in America and among the youngest. I think this is going to be our year."

Britain will defend the Curtis Cup over the Lindrick course in the north of England Friday and Saturday.

Hagen Runs Fine 880 At District

MACOMB—Larry Hagen ran the best 880 yards of his career in the fastest heat at the Macomb District Friday afternoon. Although he was sixth his time was 2:06.3 seconds which establishes a new JHS record.

The time bettered Jack Ricks' old mark set in 1959 of 2:06.5 seconds. All five places at the district came from the heat Hagen competed in and the fifth place man was timed in 2:06.1. The winner of the second heat failed to qualify with his 2:09.

Ken Norton and Mal Portee were the only Crimsons qualifying for the state finals. Portee won the broad jump and took second in the 100 yard dash. Norton set a Macomb district record bettering Dick Leatherwood's 20.4 time in the 180 yard low hurdles. Norton was clocked in 20.2 which tied Bobby Watts' record for this event. Norton also had a second in the discus.

Bill Gibson ran third for Coach Al Rosenberger's Crimsons in a very fast mile. The winning time was 4:41. Gibson ran his best time of the year with a 4:47.

The JHS 880 relay team ran its best time of year for third place with a 1:36.5 clocking. The mile relay team placed fourth in 3:44 with its fastest time of the season also.

Richard Sweeney ran first in heat of 440 in 54.2 but he failed to place in finals.

Bill Stanford had a fifth in the 100 yard dash and John Bourn also garnered a fifth in the pole vault to round out the scoring for Jacksonville. The Crimsons were second with 28½ points to Quincy's 47 tallies.

Outdoor Boxing Show Postponed Until Monday

Jordan was scheduled to meet Candy McFarland of Philadelphia in the 10-round main go. Robinson was to face Pedro Gonzales of Rankin, Pa., in the semifinal 10-rounder.

The program was rescheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. (EST) Monday.

Postponement was announced about an hour before the beginning of the preliminaries in Baltimore's Municipal Stadium.

The dual feature had been billed as tune-ups for both Jordan and Robinson.

Proposal To Ban All Post-Season Athletics Expected To Be Rejected

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago (AP) — A proposal to ban all post-season athletics is expected to be rejected by possibly a unanimous vote by the Big Ten next week.

This may be the only cheery note in what otherwise could become a boiling conference business session at East Lansing, Mich., Thursday through Saturday.

Such touchy matters as these are involved:

1. The question of Indiana, recently placed on a four-year probation by NCAA for too enthusiastic recruiting.

2. Rose Bowl appearance on an individual school basis.

3. The mapping of 1965-1966 football schedules, marking the first step to a controversal round robin slate by 1969.

The post-season ban on all sports grew out of the Big Ten's March meeting after a 5-5 vote killed continuance of a Rose Bowl contract. It now has been reviewed at an institutional level and not a single school has announced it favors such a ban.

The proposal—devised to get consistency in the thinking of faculties who voted against the Rose Bowl—unquestionably is doomed.

Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson will report to the joint meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors the findings of an investigation into Indiana's recruiting. His probe is believed to have concentrated on whether or not football coach Phil Dickens, or any member of his staff, is guilty of violations, as alleged by the NCAA in barring Indiana from any of its championships and televised football appearances for four years.

If there is guilt established, Indiana would have to fire the guilty party or show cause why it should not be expelled from the conference for not doing so. This is a basic Big Ten policy.

At the time the NCAA council penalized Indiana, April 27, the school's president, Herman B. Wells gave his coaching staffs a vote of confidence, indicating they were blameless.

Ironically, Indiana holds the pivotal vote on the Rose Bowl issue. When the 5-5 stalemate last March certified the death of the Big Ten's participation in the Pasadena football classic on a contractual level, a vote was taken to strike from the books a clause permitting individual acceptance of a Rose Bowl invitation.

Indiana, which had been for the Rose Bowl contract, switched its vote on the individual issue, making it 6-4 to eliminate the clause and throwing the matter back for review at each school.

The switch, it is believed, was made because Indiana was against one school being able to pocket all the Rose Bowl proceeds instead of sharing them with the conference.

However, it never has been decided how such Rose Bowl receipts would be handled.

If Indiana can be convinced that they would be shared—and that seems to be the conference's aim—the Hoosiers possibly might again change their vote—making a 5-5 tie that would keep the clause in.

Notre Dame Varsity Beats Old Timers In Annual Contest, 27-15

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Rookie Quarterback Ed Rutkowski and a substitute 1959 halfback Ray Ratkowski, combined Saturday to fire up Notre Dame's varsity for a 27-15 victory over the Old Timers in the Irish's annual spring football game.

Ratkowski of Glendale, N.Y., a senior in the fall, second twice in a three-touchdown third period that assured the varsity of its 24th triumph in the 30-year history of the spring practice climax.

He returned a punt 82 yards for one touchdown and scored on a 32-yard pass play from Ratkowski, 6-1, 195-pound prospect from Kingston, Pa.

In the second quarter, a 65-yard runback of a pass interception by Ratkowski was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Rutkowski looked best in a trio of sophomore-to-be quarterbacks unleased before the 12,742 fans by head coach Joe Kuharich, seeking to improve on his 5-5 record of last year when he took over the Irish coaching reins. The others were Daryle Lamonica of Clovis, Calif., and Norb Rascher of Cleveland, Rutkowski proved to be an able passer as well as a runner after prepping as a split-T quarterback. In the third he scored on a 20-yard rollout and rookie end Jim Sherlock of Chicago booted the first of his two extra points.

The varsity scored first in the opening period with a 57-yard thrust in 4 plays capped by junior quarterback Cly Schulz' keep-it run from the 9. Bill Hennegan kicked the point.

The old timers, who last won in 1958, were made up of a former group of Irish players and included 14 pros or ex-pros. They tied the score 7-7 in the opening quarter on Paul Hornung's 20-yard pass to Monty Stickles. Stickles added the point.

The old timers were held in check until the last 11 seconds of the game. Then George Izo Flippeda 7-yard scoring pass to Pat Heenan. Stickles ran for the extra points. Captain and Guard Myron Pottios, halfbacks Red Mack and George Sefcik and fullback Gerry Gray are recuperating from knee operations and were withheld from the game.

Mac Murray Errors Lead To Double Loss To McKendree, 9-3, 10-0

LEBANON — MacMurray College committed a total of 10 errors in two-seven inning contests to give McKendree a twin-bill sweep here Saturday. The first game was 9-3 and the second contest was 10-0.

The winners scored four earned runs in each contest while outhitting the Highlanders, 8-5 and 7-2. MacMurray's awo hits in the second game were both singles.

Max Allen's four RBI's in the first game on a grand slam highlighted McKendree's seven - run outburst in the second inning. Price also homered for Swaine Marten's losers, who are now 5-3 for the season.

Dave Cassady started for MacMurray in the first game while Marv Hohenberger worked four innings of the second game. Both losers were relieved by Roy Hahnfeld.

The wins boosted McKendree's record to 15 wins against six losses.

Monday finds MacMurray traveling to Monmouth. They also play at Quincy Wednesday before concluding their season against Concordia Springfield next Saturday at Nichols Park in a doubleheader.

Plan Park Dedication Memorial Day; Name Contest Ends May 25

The new Lake Jacksonville Community Park will be the scene of a gala celebration on Memorial Day, May 30, complete with formal speakers, civic leaders from service clubs and free entertainment for those in attendance.

Dedication ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m., at the park site, formerly the Oak Grove area, on the south shores of Lake Jacksonville, 6 miles south of the city.

The Jacksonville high school band will present a concert immediately following the didication ceremonies. A long list of games and contests will be featured throughout the afternoon for the children. Refreshments will be available at several locations.

Memorial Day ceremonies should provide a full afternoon of entertainment and activities for the entire family—free of highway travel and possible traffic accidents. Everyone in the Jacksonville area is cordially invited to attend. Picnic tables are scattered throughout the park.

Name Contest

The park will receive a brand-new name at the dedication ceremonies. Jacksonville Rotary Club will award a $25 savings bond to the person suggesting the winning name. Members of the Jacksonville City Council will select the new name at a special session and announce the winner at the celebration.

Contest rules are quite simple—a special blank with instructions appears in this issue of the Journal Courier. The contest will run until April 25. There is no age limit and multiple entries are "OK," according to contest officials.

Anyone in Jacksonville and surrounding communities may enter the contest.

Raymond S. Watson Named Jaycee State Winner At Peoria

Raymond S. Watson, a chemical engineer from Jacksonville, Illinois, was named winner of the coveted Distinguished Service Award for the State of Illinois at a noon luncheon Saturday at the Pere Marquette hotel. Warren D. (Ben) Jones of Chicago, President of the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce, made the presentation at the three-day Jaycee state convention which concludes today.

Watson was selected from a field of twenty-two contestants throughout Illinois for the Jaycee honor and was sponsored by the Jacksonville Jaycee chapter.

Native Texan

A native Texan, Watson was transferred to Illinois by Anderson, Clayton and Company, vegetable oil processors, in 1952 and is presently employed as process superintendent of the Jacksonville plant.

Raymond S. Watson

He was selected for both the local and state award, not for one special service but for contributions to all phases of community life. He holds a degree in chemical engineering from Texas A&M College and served as a first lieutenant with the army in World War II in the European theater.

In Hospital

Watson was unable to attend the Peoria presentation because of major surgery performed last Monday. The citation read, in part, "Raymond Watson's service to the Jacksonville Community is a continuing record of hard work and energetic leadership in many different phases of civic life. He has willingly accepted heavy responsibilities. His serious and dependable performance in every job he has undertaken has made a tremendous contribution to the life of Jacksonville and Morgan county."

The Watsons, wife Elaine and three daughters, Karen, Kathy and Konnie, live at 5 Crampton Road in Jacksonville.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church and has taught a high school Sunday School class for the past six years. He was recently elected chairman of the church board of trustees upon completion of his term as chairman of the board of deacons.

son

He served on the board of directors YMCA, and was chairman of the building committee. During 1959, he was active in Washington school PTA, Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, co-chairman of the Heart Association, vice-president of Jacksonville Council of Churches, United Fund board of directors and a member of Kiwanis Club.

He was also chairman of the board of trustees, Passavant Memorial Aerea Hospital in 1959. During his term, construction of the school of nursing wing and additional patient facilities started.

Contest Judges

Five distinguished judges made the contest selection: Dr. L. Vernon Caine, president of Illinois College, Jacksonville; Judge Creel Douglass, circuit judge in the seventh judicial circuit, Springfield; Harry Fitzhugh, Franklin, Illinois, president of the Illinois High School Athletic Association; Rev. Andrew E. Kurth, Executive Secretary of the Synod of the State of Illinois, Springfield; and Paul R. Stephens, Rushville, Most Worshipful Grand Master, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of the State of Illinois.

Twenty Two Entries

Twenty-two Jaycee chapters throughout Illinois sponsored entries in the state contest:

THREE INJURED NEAR ROODHOUSE

Three Roodhouse young people were hospitalized as a result of a one car crash, two views above, two miles north of Roodhouse on Route 67-A Saturday afternoon shortly after 4:30 o'clock.

Listed as "critical" at Passavant hospital are: Constance Fox, 16, and James D. Garner, 18, both of Roodhouse. Richard Ferguson, 17, also of Roodhouse, was admitted as a patient suffering multiple lacerations and shock. Ferguson's condition was not considered critical.

Authorities said the auto was headed south at the time of the accident and apparently ran out of control. The auto left skid marks on the highway, vaulted the ditch, knocked a fence down, struck a concrete structure and came to rest after rolling several times, 583 feet into a field. A small fire was extinguished when the first spectators arrived at the scene.

The car is registered in Garner's name but authorities were unable to question the occupants to confirm who was driving at the time of the accident. Ferguson and Miss Fox were thrown from the auto; Garner was pulled from the wreckage after officers arrived. The three were rushed to Passavant hospital by the Wolfe and Mackey ambulances from Roodhouse.

Census May Show Jacksonville Up To 24,000-25,000 Class

The U. S. Bureau of Census is taking it slow and easy in coming up with 1960 population figures for Jacksonville.

Announcement of the official count is expected to be made sometime this week by the district director, Sidney A. Johnson, at Quincy.

"It is possible that some of the advance census report forms have not been picked up by the census takers, the district supervisor said. He urged persons still holding such forms to mail them to the census office.

Jacksonville's population has been generally "guessed" at between 24,000 and 25,000 by those who like to estimate figures in advance. They may be too high or too low—the official count will settle conjecture.

But there is little doubt but that Jacksonville and South Jacksonville will both show a strong gain.

Jacksonville's official population in 1950 was 20,387. Those who have studied the cities continued growth, including annexation of territory in the west section of the city several years ago, confidently predict a jump of several thousand.

The combined population of Jacksonville and South Jacksonville has for several years been conservately estimated at 25,000. Highway signboards have been changed from time to time, one board now listing the city's inhabitants at 24,300.

Census officials and employees have instructions not to "jump the gun" in announcement of figures. There have been a few "leaks," however, in various communities where the personnel confided to someone, and the information soon became community property.

Jacksonville's well-populated fringe area will not be reflected in the official figures, but will be a part of the Morgan county count, which will be announced later.

Safety Lane Opens Monday; Mechanics On Duty All Week

Sgt. Ernest Smith and Capt. Wilbur Stafford, co-chairmen of the Free Auto Safety Check Lane to be held May 16 through May 21, announced that the safety lane will be under the supervision of trained mechanics.

The mechanics will be on duty all week at the Safety Lane, courtesy of the Jacksonville Auto Dealers Association, through the cooperation of Dick Stratman who made the arrangements.

A number of the checks at the safety lane will be mechanical since a Class B Weaver Safety Check Lane has been installed outside on the pavement.

Checked mechanically will be wheel alignment, brakes and headlight adjustment. Other items checked at the safety lane will be horn, rear view mirror, clean glass, rear lights and steering.

The tires will be checked by trained tire men furnished by the local tire dealers through arrangements made by Danny Wagner and Floyd Hess.

Doughnuts will be served through courtesy of Mel-O-Cream and 7-Up, Coca Cola and Pepsi Cola will be served throughout the week with each company furnishing beverage for two of the six days that the Safety Lane will be in operation.

About every tenth car through the safety lane will receive two free passes to either the Illinois or Times theaters, courtesy of the management of the respective theaters.

The Safety Lane will operate from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. on West Morgan beside the High School gym.

Junior Women To Install Officers At Dinner Meeting

By Dorothy Sauer
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone Pioneer 2-3439)

WINCHESTER—The annual installation of officers will be the program for the May meeting of the Junior Woman's Club in Winchester on Thursday evening, May 19. The meeting will commence with a 6:30 o'clock dinner at the Fletcher Cafe. Those who do not have standing reservations are to leave their name either with Mrs. James Moore or Mrs. Donald Moore by Monday, May 16. Reservations are to be cancelled no later than Tuesday, May 17.

The installation ceremony will be in charge of Mrs. Leland Littig of Bluffs who is the Junior Club's District Director. Mrs. Robert Mellor, outgoing president, will preside over the business session prior to the installation.

The regular board meeting for all officers will be held on Monday evening, May 16, at the home of Mrs. George Peak, Jr.

PTA Meets

The last meeting for the summer months of the Winchester Grade School PTA was held on Thursday evening, May 12, in the gymnasium of the school with Pete Spangler, president, presiding. The pledge to the flag and the PTA prayer were recited.

Minutes of the last PTA meeting and of the executive board meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Allen McCullough, Jr. The treasurer, Robert Reid, reported a balance on hand of $737.74.

Mrs. Herman Flynn reported on the progress of the playground equipment for the school. The members voted to use most of the money on hand, with the exception of what would be needed until Penny Carnival time this coming fall, and purchase the playground equipment decided upon so that it will be here and ready for use at the opening of school in the fall. A report was made by the committee in charge of investigating indecent literature now on the bookstands. Further investigation will be made into this with the committee contacting various civic and church organizations in the town for assistance.

Mrs. Paul Vannier of Bluffs, District Director of the PTA, conducted the very impressive installation ceremony of new officers for the coming year. Those installed include Pete Spangler as president; Mrs. Herman Flynn as vice president; Mrs. Allen McCullough, Jr. as secretary and Mrs. Tracy Johnson as treasurer.

Mr. Spangler appointed the following committee chairmen for the coming year: program, Mrs. Pete Spangler; finance, Mrs. Lennis Williams; membership, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rolf; magazine, Mrs. Ray Cherry; health, Mrs. Denton Coonrod; parliamentarian, Scott Longenbaugh; legislation, Mrs. Paul Gillham; band, Mrs. Paul Steckel; music, Mrs. George Lashmett; recreation, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lashmet; publicity, Mrs. Russell Norman; attendance count, Mrs. Leroy Goodin; hospitality, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lewis; carnival, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Herring and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wisdom; school board relations chairman, Mrs. A. E. Sauer.

Mrs. Dale Bradshaw assisted by Mrs. Floyd Rolf was in charge of a Memorial Service for the late Mrs. Virgie Vestel, teacher in the school.

Mrs. Pete Spangler reported on the PTA convention held in Peoria in April which was attended by herself, Mrs. Oscar Grindheim and Mrs. Dale Bradshaw.

The Fifth Grade Band, under the direction of Melvin Dalhaus, played several selections. Four solos were heard, also: Linda Spangler, piano solo; Barbara Cherry, flute solo; Carol Wisdom, cornet solo; Charles Schofield, accordion solo. The first three were accompanied by Gloria Jean Grindheim.

A buzz session in charge of Mrs. George Lashmett completed the evening's program. The members were divided into three groups, namely, group one, led by Pete Spangler, discussing "How to Improve PTA"; group two, led by Wilbur Moore, discussing "How to Improve the Programs"; and group three, led by Mrs. Lennis Williams, on "Do We Have Good, Fair or Poor Cooperation Between the Teacher and the Child."

Slightly Hysterical

Western Europe's unofficial reaction to the Soviet downing of a U.S. intelligence plane is hardly more rational, for the most part, than was its response to Caryl Chessman's execution.

It was quite legitimate for the Europeans to wonder whether we might not, for a time at least, have stopped these flights to avoid the prospect of just such an incident occurring around the time of the summit.

The answer to this puzzlement is not automatic. We do not know how urgent our highest authorities may have regarded the continuance of these flights, despite the risk of discovery.

Few if any Europeans recognized this aspect, though a handful did discuss the whole affair soberly.

Most cut loose with another wild anti-American barrage that did far more to define European weaknesses than America's blunders.

Coupled with the totally unjustified explosion over Chessman, this response suggests that emotional balance has deserted many Europeans in these tense times.

There is little effort to put the facts together in orderly array. There is little attempt to understand that these daring intelligence flights could provide the kind of information that could keep London and Paris and Oslo and assorted other capitals free to shout at us.

To the Daily Mirror in London, the flight was "sheer insanity." Really? Not to try to probe Soviet secrets might very properly be described that way—but hardly what we did. The Daily Mirror lives in an unreal world, protected from tyranny by the nation it rants against.

Oslo seemed deeply disturbed by our official line that Washington had not "authorized" the flight. Do London and Moscow acknowledge paternity when their spies are caught?

Surely the Norwegians can grasp the unlikelihood that this and similar fights were not known and authorized by Washington.

There is nothing but naive foolishness in the query raised by an Oslo newspaper whether some down-the-line officer might touch off nuclear war without "contacting his superiors." The authors of that question do not read enough.

Is this the Europe which once led the free world and now evidently resents our leading it? Perhaps the real wonder is how we managed to get this far with only two world wars.

Triumph Of The Triton

(From The St. Louis Globe Democrat)

The $100,000,000 twin-propeller atomic submarine, the Triton, designed to operate as the eyes and ears of Uncle Sam's Navy, has accomplished the first of the missions for which she was built.

The world's largest submarine, at 6000 tons double the size of our first A-submarine, the famed Nautilus, proved that she is a world-roaming radar station for detecting enemy aircraft thousands of miles from American shores.

In completing her 36,000-mile trip around the world, she exceeded the under-water record of the atomic-submarine Sargo, which recently spent a month exploring the waters beneath the Arctic ice cap and visiting the North Pole. The Triton on its Magellan-like voyage was submerged for 84 days.

The success of the Triton's history-making trip reflects the increasing importance of submarines. With her high speed, between 30 and 35 miles an hour on the surface, and her 112,000-mile cruising limit without refueling, the Triton will be used as a distant early warning station and, equally important, to provide aircraft warnings for surface ships of the fleet. The Triton's speed will enable her to keep up with carrier task forces on the surface.

Packed with tremendous radar and sonar equipment, the Triton at sea becomes an important unit in the new kind of electronic defense man is developing on land and in the air.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—A batch of proposals to provide some kind of medical care for the 16 million people over 65—or, at least, for some of them—has been dumped on Congress.

If any old-age health bill ever gets through Congress this year it probably will not be exactly the same as any of those now talked about. But there have been four major proposals:

One by the Eisenhower administration, and the others by Rep. Aime J. Forand (D-RI), Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich), and Sen. Jacob Javits (R-NY). The Eisenhower and Javits bills have this much in common: They'd be voluntary.

They'd be paid in part by the individuals who chose to buy into the program, in part by the federal government, in part by the states. This would take time to set up, with each state deciding when and if. Some states might not participate.

The Forand and McNamara bills would be compulsory to the extent that they'd be paid for out of Social Security funds, with a slight boost—one-quarter of one per cent on the first $4,800 of income—in the tax now being paid equally by employes and employers.

The Eisenhower proposal:

It would, theoretically, be open to 12½ million people. Those with incomes of $2,500 a year (if single) or $3,800 (if married) would be excluded. But—and it's a big but:

The cost: $24 a year from each person taking part, (whether or not he got sick), plus the first $250 of his year's medical bill (or the first $400 for a couple), plus 20 per cent of all costs over $250 or $400. The federal government and the states, sharing about equally, would pay the rest.

The benefits: Hospitalization for 180 days; or 365 days in a nursing home; or 365 days of home health services; payment to doctors; dental services; and up to $350 for drugs.

You'd have to have a major or prolonged illness to come out ahead on this one.

The Javits bill:

Open to all 16 million people over 65 and, if some had husbands or wives under 65, it would be open to them, too.

The cost: No charge to those with under $500 income; 50 cents a month or $6 a year for those between $500 and $1,000; a sliding charge upwards for those with incomes up to $3,600; and $13 a month, or $165 a year, for those with income over $3,600.

The Javits people figure the average medical bill of a person over 65 is $150 a year. So, under this program, the government would assist states up to that $150 average.

The benefits: Each state would decide what benefits to provide, so long as one-third of all the costs were for doctors' fees for treatment at home or in the office.

The Forand bill:

About 13½ million people would be eligible. It would be limited to those already getting a Social Security pension or eligible to receive it. It would be run by the federal government, not the states since the Social Security tax is a federal one.

The people already on Social Security pension would not, of course, be taxed although they'd be the ones getting the benefits. But the under-65 people, who'd be paying the tax, would become eligible as they reached 65.

Benefits: Hospitalization for 60 days, with all costs paid; 120 days in a nursing home, or two days of each unused hospital day. There would be full pay for surgery but not for medical doctors. There'd be no home health services.

The McNamara bill:

The cost: The payment for this program would be the same as under the Forand bill — a boost in Social Security tax — and the program would be run by the government.

Benefits: It would pay no doctors' bills but would provide 90 days' hospitalization a year, with all costs paid; 180 days in a nursing home, or two days there for each unused hospital day.

It would provide 240 home health services a year, such as home-maker services, medical social work. The laboratory and X-ray services would be paid for as provided not only for in-hospital patients but for out-patients, too. All drugs used in the hospital would be paid for.

The estimated total costs of these programs are sometimes sharply disputed, but sponsors use these figures: Eisenhower's —$1.-200,000,000; Javits Plan — the same; Forand bill — $1,100,000,000 McNamara bill—$1,100,000,000 the first year and 1½ billion yearly thereafter.

Kalamazoo Helps Out, Even Bringing Meals to Homes

BY MARIE DAERR

"Favorite Pie Day," on which members bring homemade pies to share with their friends, is a big hit at the 60-Plus Drop-In Center, Kalamazoo, Mich.

So are hobby shows, which produce examples of everything from photography to pillow cases, from Siamese cats to Swedish embroidery, from collections of dried weeds to crocheting.

The Michigan city is celebrating the first anniversary of a cooperative project which has paid off in companionship and contentment for some 400 older people.

Open 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, the center is located in People's Church. The church donates the rooms and utilities.

Kalamazoo's city commission has budgeted money for the center. And on the project's board are three representatives of the center itself, two each from the church and the committee on aging and one from the recreation department.

At the center, older people try their hand at copper enameling, painting figurines, Swedish embroidery.

"Doing for others" is part of the program. Members do free mending and darning for young mothers who are church members. They make scrap books for state hospital patients.

A visitors committee calls on any members who are homebound. A newsletter goes out each month to these people.

Free tickets to concerts and plays come from various interested groups. Home economics students donate desserts turned out in cake-decorating class.

Still another project is Kalamazoo community service. "Meals on Wheels," a new nonprofit service that brings well-balanced, nutritious, low-cost meals to aged, handicapped or ailing people who can't get out to restaurants or markets.

The service provides a hot meal of meat, fish or poultry, potatoes, vegetables, salad and dessert, plus juice, a pint of milk and roll for a snack, and a sandwich and fruit for supper.

Full cost for the daily unit is two dollars, but adjustments are made for those who can't pay this. Customers are referred by Visiting Nurses Assn., doctors, hospitals and welfare agencies.

The meals are prepared at the YWCA. Thirty volunteers help make the service possible by assisting with deliveries, keeping records, collections, planning menus, answering the telephone and assembling the food.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The word "religion" comes from a Latin word, meaning "to bind."

It is the great tragedy of religion and of history that what ought to have been a great binding force, drawing men together, has been to an incredible extent a dividing and separating force, productive of prejudices and jealousies, bitter and uncompromising controversies, feuds and wars.

Every form of distrust, hatred, and violence has been associated with religion, and the wars of religion have been among the longest and bloodiest.

This fact of history has led some men to deplore religion and to mark it as a curse, rather than a blessing, to mankind.

In itself, that is a shallow and unwarrantable conclusion. It ignores the fact that the tragic and disastrous situations have been due not to religion, but to the way in which religion has been perverted by the worst that is in man.

It is human depravity and error, not religion, that is responsible for the evils that adversaries of religion have attributed to religion itself.

Moreover, the antireligious attitude ignores the extent to which in almost all religions, and especially in the Judea-Christian religion, religion has produced the finest character, the truest zeal for human welfare, and the profoundest devotion to truth and righteousness.

The positive greatness of religion should not be disregarded or underestimated.

Nevertheless the conflicts of religion are not to be regarded lightly.

The sad fact is that in what ought to have been an enlightened Twentieth Century the worst perversions of religion as a dividing, rather than a uniting, force still persist.

We have not had the open wars of religion of former centuries. Where violence has occurred it has been by adherents of so-called "pagan" religions, not between churches, denominations, sects, and groups in the Judea-Christian area.

But the lack of extreme violence should not blind us to the bitterness of the conflicts within the Jewish and Christian areas.

The anti-Jewish prejudice and action of certain professed Christians is a present-day fact all too evident in bombs and a resurgence of swastikas.

The sharpness of the sectarian spirit and incident controversies is appalling when contrasted with the spirit of Christian love.

The divisions within Christendom, and even within religion in general, are not in themselves to be condemned or deplored.

It is the spirit in which the divisions have been maintained, the use of dogma, creed, and authority to promote and maintain dividedness, rather than brotherly love, that is to be deplored and condemned.

The freedom within Protestantism that has made Christian denominations and sects possible is, as I see it, a glory of Protestantism.

What is inglorious is the extent to which Protestantism has been untrue to itself and the deplorable uses to which freedom has been put.

The spirit of sectarianism is not the spirit of either love or freedom.

Russia Has 40-Year Record Of Spying on Uncle Sam

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—All the excitement over Russia's capture of its first American spy is being weighed here against the far-greater 40-year record of Soviet espionage in the United States.

If Nikita Khrushchev wants to bring this up at the forthcoming summit conference, there is a good rebuttal. It is only necessary to read the list of nearly 100 Communist spies caught in this country, Red-handed.

Russian Espionage Against the United States began in 1919 when Ludwig Martens became the first official Soviet representative in the U.S.

He was deported for spying in 1921 along with one of his clerks, Arthur Alexandrovich Adams, who got back in the U. S. later and headed up prewar spy rings here.

Soviet espionage against the United States did not stop even when the two countries were allies in World War II. It got worse.

This was documented best by Victor A. Kravchenko, an engineer in the U.S.S.R. lend-lease mission in Washington. In 1944 he got fed up with the Russian way of life, sought asylum in the United States and wrote a book, "I Chose Freedom." It is a complete indictment of how the entire Russian Embassy staff is used to spy on America.

At least a score of Russian diplomats, military attaches and U.N. officials have been caught spying in America.

When the FBI gets the goods on them, the State Department is notified. The offending Russian is declared persona non grata and allowed to leave the country.

Only a few have been brought to trial, and they have been hustled home as soon as released by U.S. authorities.

ever come close to receiving a death sentence for espionage in the U.S. is Jack Soble, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, executed in 1953, were Americans spying for Russia.

A charge of transmitting national defense information to Russia was dropped when Soble pleaded guilty to a second count of conspiring to obtain vital U.S. information. He was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment in 1957.

The Highest-Ranking Soviet Spy caught in this country is Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, picked up on a routine immigration check in 1957. For nine years he operated a spy ring from the cover of a Brooklyn photo studio.

He was tried, found guilty and sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment. During his trial the Soviet Union did not lift a finger to defend him.

The only Russian agent who has mit to capture. But this script wasn't followed. The fat's in the fire.

Far From Causing Consternation, however, this incident—tough as it is on Powers and his family—may give many Americans some cause for relief.

It is considered evidence that American intelligence agencies are actively seeking information from inside Russia. A too-general impression in this country has been that American espionage efforts have been a washout.

There is public knowledge now that they're at least trying.

Communist spying against the United States has not diminished since the Russians began to talk of ending the cold war and starting a new era of totally disarmed peace.

Soviet Spying Has Increased. It keeps a big force of FBI and counterespionage agents busy full time.

In spite of Khrushchev's indignation-inspired propaganda over the Powers incident, there's another side of the story.

Those points bring out the differences between the American and Communist ways of handling espionage cases.

The United States Has Admitted that pilot Francis G. Powers was on an intelligence-gathering mission when his plane was shot down over Russia. Instead of disowning him, the U.S. government will try to save him if he is brought to trial.

The wave of criticism against State Department, Central Intelligence Agency, Air Force and even the President is based on a charge of bungling in this case.

It Does Involve Some Bad Breaks. The plane should have destroyed itself on being hit by the Russian missile—blowing itself to bits beyond identification.

In the best traditions of spy thrillers, Powers would have destroyed himself, rather than sub-

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can Mr. Lucky beat the rap?

The artful dodger of both the law and the wrongdoers on the Saturday night adventure show faces his biggest challenge: staying on the air. Despite good ratings, CBS announced it was not renewing "Mr. Lucky" for a second season.

Why? No reason was given. But insiders hear that the choice time slot (9 p.m.) was given to a new show owned by a talent agency in return for persuading a comic to do a weekly series. Such are the ways of networks.

Mr. Lucky himself, deep-voiced John Vivyan, feels that he and his pleasure boat can avoid a watery grave.

"It's just a question of whether we'll wind up on NBC or ABC," said the actor, who was filming the next to last of the current series. "ABC is especially eager to have it. Don Sharpe of our company is in New York right now and will be setting a deal."

Vivyan was as mystified as anyone about the orphaning of the series, but admitted that CBS was never too hot for it, despite the ratings. In midseason the network brought pressure to drop the plot angle that Lucky was running an offshore gambling salon.

"Blake Edwards (the show's creator) was sore about it because he thought it was too much interference," Vivyan said. "But in some respects, the change was good. With gambling as the main angle, it meant Lucky was always involved with gangsters. That was limiting."

Vivyan is just as happy about the switch from CBS.

"I could only make appearances on other network shows," he said. "The only ones open to me were Ed Sullivan and Jack Benny. I couldn't do Red Skelton, because the guest is always the butt of the jokes.

"I want to get on shows like Dinah Shore's and do some singing' and dancin' and pick up that extra loot."

Manners Make Friends

When you are invited to something as informal as a picnic it is thoughtful to ask if you can't bring something. If the hostess says, "No, thank you," don't insist. But your offer WILL be appreciated.

Older Men Shrug Off Age With Look-Ahead Hobbies

I wrote a column recently on today's older women who refuse to be old ladies but merrily lead busy, happy lives instead of rockin' and knittin' and talking about the old days.

Well, I've been noticing that something has happened to old men, too. You don't see many old men any more, sitting around swapping stories about the old days, content to sit in the sun and through half-closed eyes watch the world go by.

Men aren't letting themselves grow old these days. Look at the jaunty clothes older men now wear, their bright sports shirts, their close-cropped hair.

Do you hear them complaining about their rheumatism or beginning their sentences with:

"In my day . . ."?

Not much you don't. Most of them don't retire until retirement is forced on them. And if they have to quit one job most likely they scratch around until they find another.

Instead of puttering in a garden or mending their grandchildren's toys or playing checkers with an old crony, they're out playing golf, taking trips, working in politics, even taking dancing lessons and having themselves a fine time.

An 80-year-old widower in our town has a different date for each symphony concert and he can be seen any summer day getting in his daily swim.

So the men deserve some credit, too, for insisting on being "older men" and not "old men." Maybe on the whole they aren't licking old age quite as well as the women but they are making a good fight.

If you want to please one of them don't ask how he is feeling or condescendingly tell him how well he is looking.

Ask him about his golf game, how the fishing is or compliment him on that loud sports shirt he is wearing.

He'll thank you not to treat him like an old man — because he isn't one.

A Glance Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

The Peerless and Lucky Boy bakeries are closed due to a strike called by Illinois AFL Bakery & Confectionery Workers.

The office of Jacksonville Motors on North West street was broken into Saturday night, and $315 in cash stolen.

B. F. Bowden, 50, a towboat deckhand, died at Schmitt Memorial hospital in Beardstown Monday. He had severe facial and head injuries, but his crewmates on the Towboat Baton Rouge maintained they had no idea how he was hurt.

BROADWAY DILEMMA

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite its shortage of playhouses for new shows, Broadway is confronted with the even more serious problem of quick closing of so many new shows that do find stages.

The Martin Beck recently had its new tenant, "Semi-Detached," closing in less than a week. But it was quickly replaced by the new hit musical, "Bye Bye Birdie."

The rate of mortality has been high with 25 new shows opening and closing between last October and April. The explanation, for the most part, is that audiences today seem to be more show-wise in their entertainment shopping. They prefer to wait for their hits, rather than take second choices.

AS WE FORGIVE OUR DEBTORS

ELLERSON, Va. (AP) — James Bryant, of Ellerson, Va., bequeathed to six persons any and all money they owed him at the time of his death—the total some $40,000. Friends believe the 71-year-old farmer had the Lord's Prayer in mind when he made his will seven days before his death April 4.

HOLLYWOOD PROSPERITY

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Movie makers are edging out tourists as big spenders in resort centers.

Tourism is Mexico's second largest source of dollar income, (behind cotton) but American film companies producing in Cuernavaca and other centers are said to be bringing in more.

Two companies filming in the Cuernavaca area ("The Magnificent Seven" and "Pepe") brought seven million pesos in just a few weeks this year.

WEDLOCK LONG DISTANCE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Attorney General Albertis Harrison says marriage by long distance telephone apparently is legal even when the bride and groom are separated by the Atlantic Ocean.

His opinion was given to Del. Garnett Moore of Pulaski who asked in behalf of an airman whose marriage to a French girl by telephone was ruled illegal by the Air Force. Harrison found no statuatory requirement that the bride and groom be in the presence of each other.

Onion Soup Enlivens This Ham and Potato Casserole

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food And Markets Editor

Tuck a few good extra recipes away in the family cookbook. Then, when you need one, it will be as welcome as an unexpected letter from a friend. These two, for example:

Ham and Potato Casserole
(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

One cup commercial sour cream, 1 package onion soup mix, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, 6 cold, cooked medium potatoes, thinly sliced; 3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced; 1 cup diced cooked ham, 1 cup soft buttered bread crumbs.

Blend sour cream with onion soup mix (just as it comes from the package); whip with a rotary beater. Stir in milk, salt and pepper. In greased 1½-quart casserole, arrange in layers 1/3 of potatoes, 1 sliced egg, 1/3 of sour cream mixture, and ham. Repeat potato, egg and sour cream mixture layers. Top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes or until bubbly

Sour Cream Cucumber Sauce
(Yield: ¾ cup)

Chop the center of 1 cucumber fine and measure ½ cup. Mix with cup sour cream, ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon salt or salt to taste, ½ teaspoon ground dill, ½ teaspoon garlic powder, 1/16 teaspoon ground white pepper and ½ teaspoon fresh lemon juice. Chill.

Monday's Dinner: Tomato juice, ham and potato casserole, corn on cob, buttered broccoli, enriched bread, butter or margarine, lemon sherbet, cookies, coffee, tea, milk.

U. I. Tests Show Crushers Reduce Hay Curing Time

URBANA — Hay crushing machines slashed field curing time in half in three tests by University of Illinois agricultural engineers last spring and summer.

Hay in the first test averaged about 75 percent moisture when it was cut at 9 a.m. By 2 p.m. the next day, untreated hay was still wet, testing 29.7 percent moisture. Hay crushed with smooth roll, corrugated roll and combination smooth and corrugated roll crushing machines contained only about 16 percent moisture.

In the next two tests, crushed hay was ready for baling the same day it was cut. At 9 a.m. hay in the field averaged around 68 percent moisture. At 5 p.m. uncrushed hay tested over 25 percent. Crushed hay tested less than 20 percent and was ready to bale.

In all three tests, crushed hay was ready for baling at least a day earlier than uncrushed hay.

K. A. Kendall, U. of I. dairy scientist, explains that fast curing isn't the only advantage of crushing hay. It can save up to 10 percent more hay by preventing loss of leaves and small stems caused by extra drying and handling after rains.

Crushing also saves carotene for vitamin A, since hay is exposed to sun and rain for a shorter time. In addition, rapid curing saves protein that otherwise could be lost in shattered leaves.

Hay crushers crack stems lengthwise and reduce them to the equivalent of several smaller ones. The process opens up the moist inner parts of the stems, bringing them into more direct contact with the air. As a result, the stems dry almost as fast as the leaves.

BIG PLANT FOOD GAIN

Fertilizer use has been the biggest change in farming. Farmers applied eight times as much nitrogen in 1958-59 as they did 10 years ago. Use of soluble phosphate has increased about 2½ times. Potash application has tripled.

THREE REASONS FOR LIMING

Clinton Hoover, U. of Nebraska agronomist, lists these three reasons for using limestone.

1. Lime helps make available greater amounts of Phosphate, potash magnesium and other elements from the soil.
2. Lime increases the efficiency of the fertilizers applied to non-legume crops.
3. Lime increases legume yields and promotes stronger thicker legume growth.

FROM THE CORN CRIB

A fellow who owned a ranch out west was thrown from a horse, which resulted in a trip to the hospital. A few days later one friend asked another, "Did old Bill finally get all right?"

"Well, no," replied the 2nd. "He ain't all right, but he's back like he used to be."

BUSINESS SITUATION

National income is expected to remain near the present relatively high level during 1960. However, there is no sector in the economy that shows prospects of initiating or supporting boom conditions. Prices of individual farm products will be affected more by the supply situation of the particular commodity than by any change in the domestic demand.

Exports of farm products in 1959 and to date in 1960 were much above recent levels, largely because of a severe drouth in Europe last summer and a high level of business activity in the industrial nations of the world. A high level of business activity is expected to continue in 1960 in England, Continental Europe, and Japan, but agricultural output probably will increase in both importing and some exporting countries. The export demand for farm products is likely to decline.

Housing Boom Unlikely

Residential construction is likely to hold up well, partly as the result of government efforts to make financing easier. Inasmuch as there is no real deficit of residential housing, no boom in housing is likely. In fact, expenditures for housing will tend to decline unless given a shot-in-the-arm through changes in the terms of FHA loans.

The expected boom in 1960 was dependent to a considerable extent on an increase of expenditures by business concerns on new plant and equipment. Early plans called for a rise of 14 per cent in plant and equipment expenditures in 1960. If attained, this increase will be a sustaining force in 1960.

The prosperity of 1959 was partially built on an expansion of inventories and a substantial rise in debt. Inventories are now at a relatively high level, and no production for the purpose of building up inventories to still higher levels is expected for 1960. In fact, liquidation of inventories is likely to occur in the latter half of the year. This would tend to reduce factory output and employment.

Consumer debt may rise further, but there is little prospect of any substantial easing of credit conditions unless a recession is feared. Debt repayment now requires a substantial fraction of consumers' incomes. With the threat of inflation eased, there is less inducement to "buy now" in anticipation of higher prices.

Foreign Competition

Inflation by way of rising wage rates forcing increases in selling prices is definitely checked. Competition from foreign producers in both the export market and here forces U. S. manufacturers to watch costs. Labor efficiency appears to be increasing.

Last but not least important, both our industrial and agricultural capacity are so large at present that no substantial rise in prices is probable.

Cities And Industries Take Over Farm Land

City growth, new highways and industrial development are taking about one million acres of land a year from agricultural use. But even at this rate it will take several decades before agricultural output is affected significantly, a University of Illinois agricultural economist reported this week.

Harold G. Halcrow stated that the time may come when the United States will have a shortage of good productive farm land. But, more likely, he expects that scientific advancements will enable farmers to keep production in pace with the growing population.

There is an urgent need, however, for better planning of land use, Halcrow emphasized. The migration of nonfarm families into the open country is largely unplanned. The result is many problems for both new and longer established residents. The need for schools, highways and other facilities present tax and revenue problems for the developing community.

Halcrow also pointed out that not enough planning is being done for using land for recreational purposes. People in growing cities place a high priority on recreation. Use of some land adjacent to population centers for this purpose should receive high priority in our planning, he concluded.

Halcrow spoke before the Illinois State-Wide Planning Conference meeting on the University of Illinois campus this week.

Manganese Lack Found In Some Illinois Soils

Manganese deficiency symptoms in soybeans and oats are becoming more common in central Illinois, according to S. W. Melsted of the U. I. agronomy department.

The plant needs manganese in order to develop chlorophyll, which gives the green color. If there isn't enough manganese, plants cannot make this chlorophyll and yellow areas develop between the leaf veins.

Melsted points out that yellowing appears first in young leaves. If the manganese supply is at the borderline of what plants need, the symptom may appear only in cool weather, since the plants are more sensitive to manganese levels under such conditions.

Poorly aerated, wet, neutral to alkaline soils are apt to be low in manganese, Melsted continues. Leaf analysis and plant symptoms are the only practical ways to tell whether a soil is deficient, since there is no soil test for the element.

The most successful way to correct a deficiency in Illinois is spraying the plants with manganese sulphate. A suitable rate is 10 pounds in 25 gallons of water per acre. The total cost is around $3.

Last year deficiency areas were observed in west cenrtal Illinois in Mason, Logan, Hancock and Adams counties; in eastern and central Illinois in Iroquois, Kankakee, Will, Ford, Livingston and Woodford counties; and in northern Illinois in Whiteside, Lee, Boone and McHenry counties.

Farmers preparing for spring painting should remember that paint is the primary source of lead poisoning in cattle. Poisoned cattle will show apparent blindness and sometimes paralysis. Severely poisoned cattle may show weakness, trembling and diarrhea.

Home owners and amateur gardeners troubled by anemic lawns may discover the core of the problem by having the soil tested.

Soil survey work has been carried out in 86 Illinois counties during the past 50 years.

Mineral Display At New Berlin Next Weekend

The Earth Science clubs of west central Illinois will set up a gem and rock display to be exhibited Saturday and Sunday, May 21-22, at the Sangamon County Junior Fair building in New Berlin.

Admission is free and there will be a door prize each day. The exhibit may be seen from 1 to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Rocks and minerals, shells and Indian artifacts found in this area will be shown. There will also be a display of gems cut from native minerals and a demonstration of gem cutting and polishing.

The hobby of rock and mineral collecting has gone rapidly in recent years. In some cases, every member of the family is a hobbyist.

"I believe in rock collecting, with its cutting and polishing, has as great a possibility for family recreation as any activity I have become acquainted with," says Arthur W. Haas, Brown county farm adviser. "It seems to me that there is something for everyone, regardless of their education or age. I have told some that anyone from six to sixty-six could be a 'rock hound' and then I found some over the age that are interested and active. On two separate trips I have seen three generations active in looking for specimens."

MAIL IS LATE

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — The Chicagoan who ordered an automobile horn from the Typhoon Signal Co. 46 years ago may be interested in knowing why his penny postcard failed to reach its mark.

Plowland & Meadow

By the Journal Courier Farm Editor

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

Generally in a pasture we aim at a balance of clovers and grasses, thinking that a 50-50 mixture is about right. However, today on the Station our best sheep pastures have a ground cover made up of at least 80 percent legumes and only 20 percent grass. An actively growing legume pasture is the kind that will really bounce nursing lambs along toward that important early market.

More Than Good Pasture

But, however good a pasture may be, lamb gains can sometimes be disappointing. They can be very disappointing if internal parasites become a problem. We have observed that lamb gains are excellent until about the middle of May and then they often slow down. In so far as we can tell, the legume pastures are just as good then as earlier. But the thing Doctor Mansfield, Station veterinarian, has detected at about this time of year is that internal parasite egg counts jump; in fact, they often skyrocket from nothing to several thousand.

Early Weaning

What can you do about the internal parasites? Perhaps you have drenched and treated. Perhaps this has done the job. If it hasn't, try weaning those lambs. Get them away from the ewes, the source of infection. You might move the lambs into drylot on feed or put them on a clean clover pasture with feed. Either system will work. But it is important to wean now, before the lambs become infected. For the past three years we have practiced early weaning with excellent results.

To determine how early you can wean, Frank Hinds, sheep researcher, this year is weaning lambs at 40 days and 60 days of age. Frank reports that the early-weaned lambs are apparently doing as well as the older lambs.

Grasses Maturing

It hasn't been too long since we had snow on the ground. But we can hardly believe it as we drive around the Station and see the tremendous growth in the pastures, George McKibben, Station agronomist, commented that even though we thought we were stocking early enough and heavily enough, apparently we weren't. George says that on fescue or orchard grass we must anticipate the growth and get livestock on the pasture, ready to eat the grass as it comes out. At any rate, we should be in a position to throw large numbers of livestock on pasture right now in order to use the grass when it is most nutritious.

Switching to confinement systems has created management problems that many swine growers did not expect. Disease control, manure handling, tail biting, scheduling of farrowings, and building design have caused most of the new trouble.

P-A-G hybrids are worth up to $50 more per bag of seed

Every year, hundreds of side-by-side comparative yield tests are made to prove P-A-G hybrid performance. 15,776 of these on-the-farm tests show that P-A-G out-yielded the average of other hybrids by more than 9 bushels of #2 shelled corn per acre. Figuring a planting rate of 6 acres per bushel of seed, that's an extra $50 profit from each bushel of seed planted.

Genuine Pfister Hybrids can return greater profits from your corn acreage. This spring, plant all P-A-G . . . order soon to reserve your supply.

More drawings next Sunday so keep watching for yours and for those of your friends.

String Design

We do not know how Debbie Zeller, age 7, RR 5, made this interesting design, but you can drop a wadded up bit of yarn or string on a paper, draw around it then use these lines as the start of a drawing that may be something like this or maybe quite different. Try it and surprise yourself.

Debbie may come in any time now for her JUNIOR JOURNALIST PENCIL and JUNIOR PRESS CARD to which all are entitled who have anything they have drawn or written printed on the Junior page.

BIRTHDAY PARADE

Debra Lee Stansfield

A party honored the ninth Birthday of Debra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stansfield of No. 9 Ogden Road, on Thursday, May 5.

She received many nice presents.

Games were played and refreshments of Birthday cake, banana splits and Kool ade were served.

Patti Baldwin was a neighbor guest. Also present were sisters and brother Diana, Dixie and Darryl and the guest of honor Debra Stansfield.

Mike Fry was unable to be present but sent a gift.

Christina Ann Ruyle

There were three candles on Christina's Birthday cake May 13. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Ruyle and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harris of Chapin.

Ronald Daniels

Ronald writes: "My Birthday is May 18. I am the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Daniels of Winchester.

"I have three brothers. I am in the 2nd grade and my teacher's name is Mrs. Hubbert.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

To march in the Birthday Parade just send your name, address, age and Birthdate—with a snapshot if you have one—to the Jacksonville Junior Journal Courier two weeks before your Birthday. Photos may be called for as soon as they have appeared in the paper.

If you have a party, write and tell us about that later.

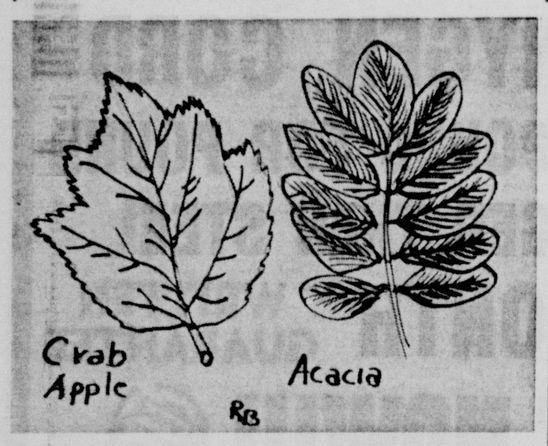

Susan Ann Osborne

Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Osborne, Jr. of 1500 S. Clay, was 3 years old Tuesday, May 10. She shared her "Happy Birthday Cake" with a small group of friends and relatives. We are glad to learn she enjoys the weekly Birthday Parade, and that among her Birthday surprises is that of seeing her picture here.

Wonder World — Pink Spring Blossoms

By Rip Barnsdall

CRAB APPLE

Crab apples are found either in small tree or shrub form. Flowering crab apple trees are often planted as ornamental trees because of their profuse blossoming in spring.

Many birds eat the fruit. Other animals, such as skunks, also relish the fruit.

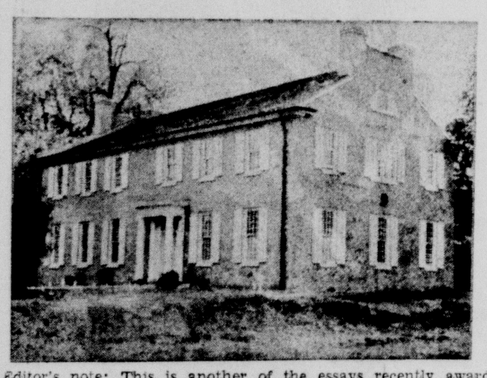

Crab apple trees are about 15-25 feet high. The bark is a light brownish-gray. The trunk of the tree is short, with spreading branches.

ACACIA

Most of the acacias are thorny. The locust, also known as false acacia, is one of the more valuable timber trees.

Illinois College

Editor's note: This is another of the essays recently awarded prizes by the Morgan County Historical Society. Maxine Schulz, student at Salem Lutheran school, won first prize in the 7th grade group. Other prize winning essays will appear on the Junior page on coming Sundays.

The First Hundred Years

Illinois College was founded in 1829, in Jacksonville, Illinois, by the Reverend John M. Ellis, a Presbyterian minister, and a group of seven young students from Yale, known as the "Yale Band."

The state of Illinois was only seven years old at the time, and in certain parts of the state, Indian tribes had not yet been driven out. The population of the state was only about 40,000.

At that time there were few schools, and Ellis felt the need for education. Schools then could be attended at the rate of $2, $2.50 or $3 per quarter. The subjects included spelling, arithmetic, reading and writing. Sometimes a teacher would go so far as to teach English grammar.

First in State

Illinois College was the first college in the state. Classes were opened for the first time on Jan. 4, 1830, at Beecher Hall, the first college building in the state. Edward Beecher gave up a pastoral job to become president of the college.

Not long after, the cholera epidemic came, and killed many of the settlers. In the summer of 1833, many towns of the Mississippi Valley were hit, and in July it broke out in Jacksonville.

Jacksonville had a population of about 1,800, and innumerable people were stricken. Almost one-half of the population left the city, and over 100 people died.

Reverend Ellis was away when the epidemic came, and his wife and two children were stricken. His wife and one child were buried in the same grave. When he returned and found this out, he was so shocked that he fell to the floor.

First Graduates

The first class was graduated from Illinois College in 1835. In it were Richard Yates and Jonathan E. Spillman.

Illinois College took a part in the anti-slavery movement. Jonathan Turner, a professor at the college, took a very active part in the "Underground Railway" in Jacksonville. He and certain students and abolitionists of the town helped several slaves to freedom.

In 1844 President Beecher resigned and the board of the college elected Julian M. Surtevant to the office of president of the college. He gave up his classes in mathematics and physics for the job.

He resigned as president in 1876, although he stayed on as professor and took charge of Sunday afternoon chapel exercises. He continued this for almost ten years.

LET'S GO BIRDING—

Butterflies Of The Bird World

By Emma Mae Leonhard

When the month of May arrives, spring events in both the social and the natural world crowd is upon us. No one should be lonely.

Baseball, tennis and golf are the popular outdoor sports. The banks of lakes and rivers are padded with footsteps of fishermen, young and old, looking for good fishing holes.

April showers have brought May flowers and leaf-robed trees again. Gardeners are digging and planting and exchanging advice across the fence.

The month of May, particularly the second and third weeks, also brings us a deluge of bird song and activity. To every bird watcher, the great migration wave of birds is always exciting and challenging; to the layman it is full of song coming from hidden sources everywhere. The warblers are here.

These warblers are the butterflies of the bird world. They are tiny birds smaller than sparrows but larger than our well known house wren.

In general, they are birds of beautiful plumage, their attractiveness consisting mostly in the tasteful pattern of colors rather than in brilliancy. Yellow is the most characteristic hue; but this yellow glow is usually relieved or calmed by markings or areas of black, olive-green, white, or gray; sometimes with red and occasionally with grayish blue.

These fascinating and tantalizing bird sprites are essentially insectivorous and extremely active. Many of them seek the tops of the tallest oaks or elms, flitting incessantly in the terminal foliage; some peep from the low, dense shrubbery, playing hide-and-seek with us.

We may see a leaf or a delicate twig suddenly jiggle or sway; we watch breathlessly and may finally see a butterfly-like bird flit to another bit of foliage. If we are patient, we may catch the pattern of the bird in time to identify it.

At least 31 kinds of warblers have been seen in our area within the last few years. It takes much patience and time to learn to recognize each kind. However, it isn't necessary to identify each kind to enjoy warblers. At first, they will look more or less alike and may sound alike to you in their great chorus.

We hope that you will enjoy these butterflies of the bird world this week. They should be here, but most of them will not stay with us long.

CQ RADIO HAMS—

Three Simple Modulation Ideas

By Joseph A. Smith

Three other simple methods of A.M. modulation are often used with smaller Ham rigs; they are Screen Grid, Clamper-Tube, and Heising modulation. These, while being less efficient than plate modulation, are more simple, less costly, and more compact.

Still another easy, inexpensive, and almost foolproof method is the A.R.R.L. "Simplest Modulator" which, effectively, is a cathode modulator that is plugged in series with the cathode of the final amplifier.

The Handbook will also introduce you to controlled carrier, frequency modulation and phase modulation, single side band, and other forms of modulation. Remember your percentage of modulation must never exceed 100%; excessive modulation causes "Splatter," "Buckshot" effects, and objectionable excessive sidebands.

Very briefly, here is how one simple Heising modulator works. As can be seen from the simple diagram above, it consists of four tubes, an interstage audio transformer, and an audio choke. Audio is supplied from either a carbon or crystal mike into V2 (dual triode) or V1 (dual triode) respectively; these class "A" audio voltage amplifiers build up the signal and pass it on to a tetrode driver-amplifier tube V3.

The signal voltage is further amplified and then passed on through an audio inter-stage transformer wherein this voltage is again stepped up. Coming out of the secondary of the transformer it is applied to V4 the power amplifier audio tube, further amplified, and its output is then super-imposed on the R.F. carrier.

Such a little modulator can fully modulate a 6146 final amplifier (both plate and screen) at up to 50 watts imput. One such modulator is in use as a spare at W9ZDN.

Receivers

The simplist amateur receiver that the amateur can use is the Regenerative Receiver. While they are relatively simple and less expensive, they are not selective enough for today's crowded amateur bands.

As we've stated before, they are basically an Armstrong type oscillator working into one or more audio amplifiers. Regeneration (oscillation) can be controlled by a variable capacitor or by controlling the plate or screen grid voltage. The latter method controls the amount of plate current flowing through the feedback winding, and, as a consequence, oscillation in the regenerative detector.

Generally the regeneration control is advanced until the detector just starts to oscillate (the detector's most sensitive position), the tuned grid tank is then tuned until a whistle is heard (your desired station) at its lowest pitch.

Lastly, the regeneration control is backed off a bit until the detector stops oscillating. The disadvantage of this type of receiver is that they are inherently unstable, are easily overloaded by a strong incoming signal, and are not sufficiently selective.

None the less, they will do until you can afford something better. Several commercial kits are available today.

With the advent of the SUPER-HETRODYNE receiver there was achieved greater stability, improved signal to noise ratio, greatly improved sensitivity (for hearing that rare DX), and selectivity (ability to separate several close together signals).

How To Build A Rocket

By Joseph Smith

Part 2

Recently we spoke of our power source for our rocket ships—the Van De Graaff "Cosmotron" (brand name of Geniac Kit) Static electricity high voltage generator. If it is completed by this time, we can continue by building our rocket ships.

Incidentally, if you want to see actual pictures of this project consult the 1958 edition of "Electronic Experimenter's Handbook." This subject will be found on pages 110 through 112.

Let's assume that you have previously completed the simple minlature "Cosmotron" generator for the following rocket-ships. If you built the larger one, the rocket ships and associated gear would of course be larger in size.

What materials do you need for the rocket ships and associated gear? Well, you will need a piece of No. 12 busbar (support bar and reaction motor) from 4 to 6 inches in length, two pieces of dowel or balsa wood each approximately 1/4 inch in diameter and 1½ inches long, and a small bearing to support the entire assembly on the metal sphere of the "Cosmotron." This might be found around the house or at the hobby shop for very little cost.

First take the No. 12 busbar and form a smooth right-angle bend at each end of the wire using about ¼ an inch for each bend; both must be of equal length.

After the bends are formed, use a flat ignition file to shape the two tips to a needle like point. Now solder a small rivet to its exact center, with the rivet at right angles to the two bends in the wire.

Next round up your pocket knife and whittle out two torpedo shaped rocket ships from the two pieces of balsa wood. A small file and sandpaper will finish them up neatly. A small groove is cut in one side of each rocket for a forced fit to the bent ends of the support rod. It might be well to glue them in as well.

At the top of most spheres you will find a small hole. You then find a small bit that will just fit into this hole and cut its head off with a pair of wire cutters. The point of the nail is sharpened and smoothed with a small-fine file. If the nail slides through the hole, two or three layers of scotch tape will hold it.

Rockets And Space—

Bio-acoustics scientists believe that the noisiest part of a space flight for the men in the rocket will be during launch and flight through the heavier part of earth's air.

This noise will be very loud compared to noises we are used to but they will last for a relatively short time. With proper sound proofing there should be very little harm done to the crew during this time.

To test these beliefs, plans are being made to mount microphones flush with the hulls of missiles. These microphones will radio back the sounds of the rocket to the ground. Microphones will also be placed inside the missiles to pick up sounds.

The noise and vibration of reentry are still to be set definitely by bio-acoustics scientists. Among the questions to be answered are: If a space ship drops straight toward earth, how much noise will develop inside it? If it skips or glides down, how much buffeting will it meet? And how much of this buffeting can a man stand?

The first step in answering these questions is to find the amount of tolerance. This will be done by means of three machines in the Vibration Section of the Bio-Acoustics Branch of the Wright Air Development Center's Aero-Medical Laboratory.

These three machines are the Verticle Accelerator, shown in the picture at the top of this column, and two vibration tables. The tables are all ready in use and the Verticle Accelerator will be used by men as soon as its safety margins are found.

One of the vibration tables has a vibration range from 10 to 50 cycles per second with an amplitude (extent of movement in any direction) of ¼ inch. The other table has a range of 20 to 200 cycles per second with an amplitude of ¼ inch.

A pilot's seat and control stick are mounted on the one-quarter inch amplitude table. An electronic brain moves the table through a programed series of vibration cycles, up to 14 per second. The test subject tries to keep the platform on an even keel while undergoing the vibrations.

The vertical accelerator is a 30-foot-high machine with a vibration amplitude of 18 feet. The vibration ranges from .1 to 10 cycles per second during accelerations of up to 3 g (three times the pull of earth's gravity).

Almost any high amplitude buffeting can be copied by programing the movement of the accelerator. This machine will be used to determine man's ability to work while being buffeted. It also should be useful in designing seats, harnesses and/or clothing to give protection against buffeting.

Now being tried as a research tool is a plaster cast, molded to the torso (body not counting arms, legs, and head) of a man. This keeps a man's body rigid so that the effects of vibrations on it are reduced very noticeably.

From these studies a decision may be reached on the desirability of using harnesses, protective clothing or gimballed seats to protect the crews of space ships. The swivelled seat is a device designed to swing freely so that it changes directions as the g forces change direction. The crewman would be seated in this apparatus so that he always took the g forces from front to back—the best way to take them.

The Master Mind

By Mary Pence Claywell

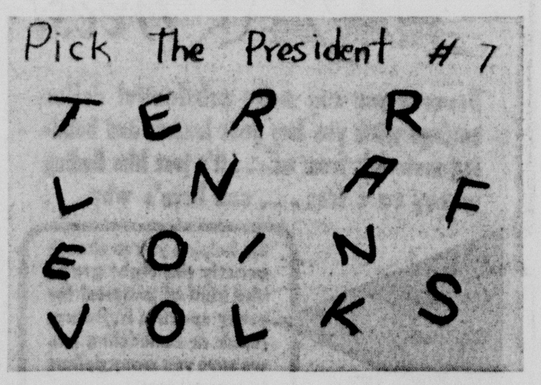

Great ships ride the water's face,
Rockets zoom through outer space;
The blue becomes the fast jets' berth
That rattle windows here on earth!
Great submarines arouse the deep
Where sea life dwells and dragons sleep,
While men behold and strive to find
The "secrets" of The Master Mind!

But up above, serene and high. . .
The stars still twinkle in the sky;
The sun comes up. . . the moon appears,
The seasons change, the fleeting years
Find every age still far behind
The "secrets" of the Master Mind;
And God's Domain is still His Own,
The earth alone is clay man's home,
For "dust to dust" is God's own way;
Heaven for souls . . . earth for clay . . .

The trees in the garden
The red bud, the dogwood
With the lilac's perfume.

The brilliant red tulips
Were never so gay.
They choose their bright color
And had their own way.

The modest blue violet
Bloomed in the night,
The white ones soon followed—
A glorious sight.

TRIED, TRIED AGAIN

Giant Plow, Plus 500 Horse Power, Resurrects Buried Farm In Mason County

DURING THE BIG FLOOD of 1943 the Sangamon river broke through a levee in Salt Creek township, at the southernmost part of Mason county.

The raging waters carried a lot of topsoil from farmlands in the upper watershed, particularly from McLean and Logan counties. The soluble parts of the soil went into the Illinois river, the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico.

That field is now the scene of unusual activity. A giant plow that cost $6,000 to build, a plow that needs three crawler tractors with a combined horse power rating of 500 to pull it, is slicing off sections two feet wide and up to four feet deep, to bring the original topsoil back where it belongs. The job is tedious and expensive: the outfit can turn over only six acres per day, at a cost of around $80 an acre.

It leaves the ground so torn up that it much resembles an abandoned section of a successful strip mining operation. Leveling operations will be slow and costly—maybe another $20 an acre.

The first photo will give an idea of the operation. The tractors are running on sand, but the plowed ground shows black Sangamon bottom soil. The soil scientists call this particular type "Saw Hill." It is chuckful of humus, has vast water holding capacities, but is hard to work. It gets extremely cloddy if worked too wet.

The field wasn't farmed for several years after the 1943 deluge. In recent years it has been planted in corn by the tenant, Ernest Schmidt, but yields have been disappointing. Last year it made 35 bushels of nubby corn when adjacent fields made 86 of good, sound corn.

The second photo shows the plow as it slices deep to bring up the once-topsoil. It has been used in similar cases along the Missouri river and proved its worth, since it can change almost worthless land into extremely valuable land.

In picture No. 3 Joe Faggetti, farm adviser of Mason county, stands in the furrow made by plow. Here the furrow is about 36 inches deep. Before him is shown the layer of almost sterile sand; back of him is the fertile Saw Hill, which in 1942 was the field's topsoil.

The leveling job will be quite a proposition, as you can see from the fourth photograph. The men in charge began the job Friday by using a crawler tractor to pull a pair of heavy I beams, arranged like an old road drag. After a trip or two, they expect to finish the job with a heavy-duty disc.

If the weather is clear the crew will work today, and will stay at it until they are done. Tenant Schmidt expects to plant the field to corn.

These photographs were made by Faggetti and his assistant, Stanley Eden, formerly of Jo Daviess county. Faggetti was assistant farm adviser in Morgan county before going to Mason county three and a half years ago.

How Much Government In Agriculture? Nub Of 1960 Farm Issues

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The role of government in the determination of the farm production pattern and of farm product prices appears most likely to be the crux of the farm issue in this year's elections.

A Democratic Advisory Committee on farm policy will urge the party's convention in Los Angeles in July to adopt a farm plank promising to put the government back into the position of guiding farm production. That's where it was under Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

This, of course, is just opposite the role which the Eisenhower administration has sought — and with a degree of success—to assign government. This administration says government should get out of the business of controlling farm production and of fixing prices. Government efforts in behalf of farmers, it argues, should be confined largely to research, market development and instruction.

90% Advocated

The Democratic advisory group—which met here earlier last week—would restore the controversial 90 per cent parity price supports for basis crops in effect from the early days of World War II into the early years of the present administration. It also would reestablish rigid production and marketing quotas of the same era to halt the production of surpluses.

Most of the supports now are at 75 per cent of parity or less and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson wants to lower some of them even more.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, as the likely GOP presidential nominee, has indicated he is not in full agreement with present policies as evolved by Eisenhower and Benson.

Nixon could take a position between the Democrats with their high supports and controls and the Eisenhower administration with its opposition to high supports and controls.

Politically Wise

The Democrats favoring a return to the old farm programs may have some difficulty, however, in convincing all party leaders that would be a politically wise course.

Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa, chairman of the Democratic Farm Advisory Committee, conceded to newsmen that some Democrats in Congress oppose controls and higher supports. But he said they have been away from home too long to know how farmers feel about the matter. Farmers may have favored retreat from controls a few years ago, he said, but the rising pile of farm surpluses and public criticism have changed this.

An advertisement inserted in the June issue of Successful Farming by the Eaton Co. of Cleveland, manufacturers of truck axles, features two Morgan county residents: Lawrence E. Smith of Franklin and Amos Barks of Jacksonville.

Smith, well known farmer and livestock man, is pictured with one of his prized Hereford cows. Other photographs taken by I. Howard Spivak of New York City, nationally known illustrator, show Smith's Ford truck at various jobs on the farm.

Farm Bureau To Aid 'Best Foods' Drive

A campaign which will seek voluntary cash donations from Morgan county farmers to promote the sale and use of agricultural products—particularly meat, eggs and milk—will be launched this week by the marketing committee of the Farm Bureau.

Last year's campaign for the same purpose was extremely successful in Morgan county. The goal of $1,065 was surpassed. Eighty percent of the total raised by voluntary subscriptions was sent to the Illinois Agricultural association, which joined in the merchandising efforts of food firms and cooperatives.

"The surplus of crops can be reduced to zero simply by a small change in the American diet," says John Chambers, Farm Bureau organization director. "This can come about without more total food consumption per person—just a higher quality diet containing more meat, milk and eggs.

"Or, if the change is away from those healthful, high energy foods, our present surplus of grains would be multiplied so many times that agriculture would be in a hopeless position, regardless of price supports or acreage controls."

Last year the Women's division of the Farm Bureau made the highly successful solicitation. The Farm Bureau board felt, as some of the members say, "that we have no desire to work a good horse to death. Hence, the solicitation, this year, will be done entirely by mail. We can only hope that the response will be as good."

THERE'S A CATCH

Family Dinners In Alexander Area May 8th

ALEXANDER — Many family gatherings were held in the area Mother's Day and others visited families at a distance.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman McQueen and sons honored their families May 8 with dinner at the McQueen home south of Alexander. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McQueen, Mr. and Mrs. Dean McQueen and three daughters of New Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Thompson and Mrs. Delia Long.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harris and daughters, Carlinville, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Roberts and grandfather, Luther Dowell. The occasion was Mrs. Harris' birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allan and Janice, Alton, spent the weekend with relatives here. On Sunday the Allans, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kumle and Clara drove to Sullivan to visit their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Clara Coe.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Keenan spent Mother's day with their daughter, Mrs. Virginia Evans, Roodhouse. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. David Evans and Barry, St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Patterson and Carl K. Evans, who resides with his mother.

Mrs. Rosella Tobin and mother, Mrs. Maude Carmen, Springfield were visitors Monday evening at the J. A. Zeller home and called at the Ridder residence to pay respects to the family of the late Louise Ridder.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schalk of Chicago and Andy Basham visited friends in Alexander the past weekend.

David Bergschneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bergschneider, 3rd grader at Alexander school, underwent an emergency appendectomy Monday evening. The youth has a 40 subscriber paper route and carried his route on Monday before being stricken. The young businessman's duties have been taken over temporarily by John Keenan.

12 Hours Of Fun For BrownCounty Juniors-Seniors

MT. STERLING—The theme of the annual Junior Senior prom for Brown County High School, on May 6th, was Southern Aires. The banquet was served at the Virginian at Rushville. The menu provided consisted of southern fried chicken entre and accompanying side dishes.

A short program following the meal and dancing later was to the music of Junior Mussolino and his orchestra.

The king and queen were announced late in the evening and a coronation ceremony honored Miss Judy Underwood, daughter of the Dale Underwoods and Edward Seckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seckman.

At 1:30 Saturday morning the students returned to Mt. Sterling for a four hour show at the Brown Theatre, sponsored by the Boosters Club. At 5 o'clock the entire group went to the Legion Hall where mothers of junior class students, prepared and served a delicious breakfast.

Install Waverly F.F.A. Officers

WAVERLY—A meeting of the Waverly Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was held May 9th in the agriculture room at the school.

The main item of business was the installation of officers for 1960 and 1961. Installed were: president, Jim Summers; vice president, Gary Mayberry; secretary, Steve Rhea; treasurer, Eddie Mies; reporter, Kenny Randolph and sentinel, Ronald J. Brown.

The boys that received this award were Green Hand, Larry Summers, and Chapter Farmer, James Summers.

The F.F.A. voted to send Steve Rhea to the conservation school to be held at the State Fair grounds at Springfield during the month of July.

Plans were made to attend the State Fair with an F.F.A. farm shop mechanics exhibit to be held for a four hour period during one day of the fair.

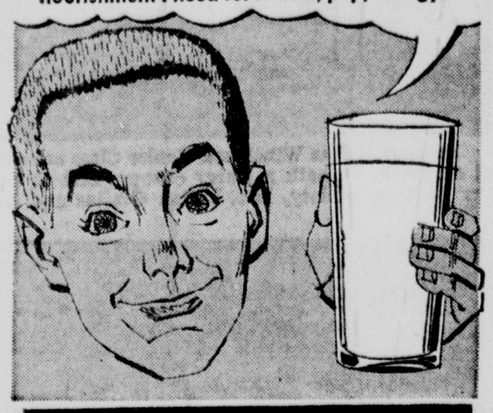

Plans were also made to attend the F.F.A. convention to be held on June 7, 8, 9, at Springfield. Terry Haynes, past president will be competing with four other boys for the title of Star State Farmer of Illinois during the convention.

Chicken livers, browned in butter, make one of the most delicious garnishes for poached or shirred eggs. Or cut the livers in strips and cook in butter with onion strips, then use as the filling for an omelet.

Did this happen to you?
• Discolored Interior Walls? • Water-spots and Streaks? • Chipping and Flaking Paint?

The SOLUTION: To repair this damage, wait until sidewalls dry out, scrape off all loose or scaling paint and prime the bare areas with Cook's New Gripbond Exterior Wood Undercoat. Then apply a finish coat of Cook's House Paint, Suede, or A-Kryl-X. To prevent recurrence, ventilate siding with louvers at the ratio of 1 sq. in. louver space for every 2 ft. of inside floor area.

IF NOT, CONSIDER YOURSELF LUCKY BUT DON'T BE SURPRISED IF THESE "WINTER GHOSTS" HAUNT YOU THIS SUMMER!

WHY they happen:
Damage from ice dams, caused by freeze-thaw cycles, forces water up under shingles and flashing . . . to flow down between the studs, or on the backside of the outside sheathing. Here it stays until summer heat causes the water to try to equalize itself in the form of moisture vapor, exerting tremendous pressure on the backside of the paint film.

WHAT to look for:
General cracking and peeling usually to bare wood. Blisters—all sizes which may or may not still contain liquid water. Cedar oil stain from both roof and siding shingles.

To Be June Brides

Carol Edwards

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Edwards, 1074 North Main street, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carol, to Private First Class Edward Lee Stucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stucker, Franklin route one.

The wedding will be solemnized at two o'clock Sunday, June fifth, at First Baptist church with the pastor, Reverend Olson, officiating.

Maurita Joy Schone

ARENZVILLE—Mr. and Mrs. John Schone of Arenzville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Maurita Joy, to Ellis Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Wade, Sr., of Hillview.

The bride-elect graduated in 1957 from Arenzville High School and in 1959 from Hardin Brown Business College. She is employed at Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. Wade graduated from Winchester High School in 1956. He attended Illinois State Normal University and is now employed at Shumakers TV and Appliances, Jacksonville.

The wedding will be solemnized at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, June twelfth, at Trinity Lutheran Church, Arenzville.

Carolyn Marsh

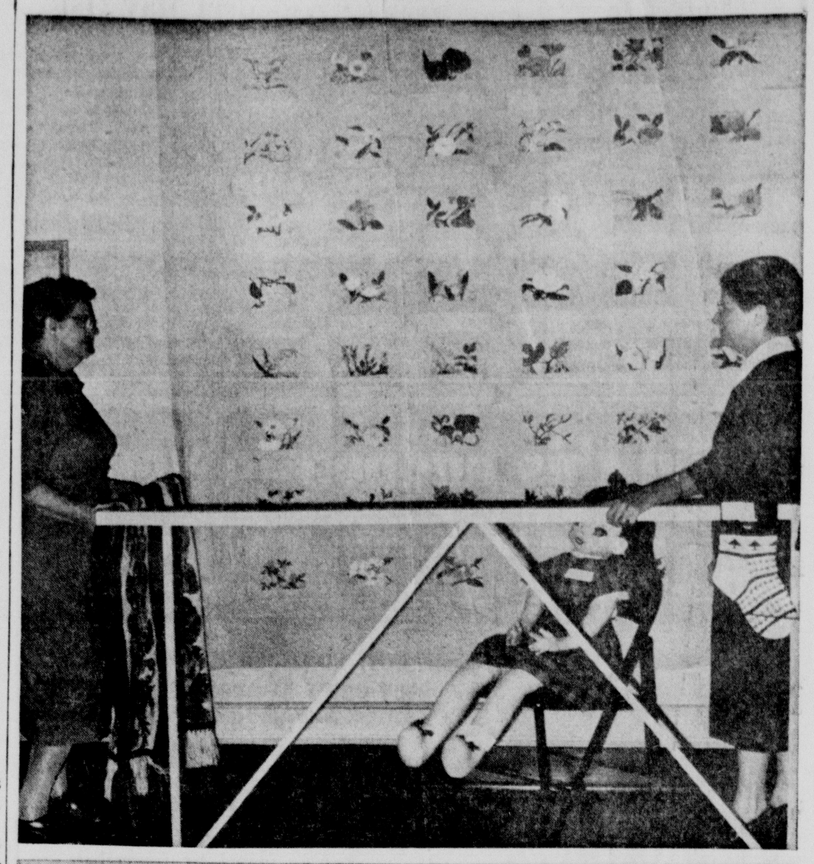

WAVERLY—Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Marsh announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn, to Larry Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown of Marion, Illinois.

Miss Marsh is a graduate of Waverly High School and a sophomore at Illinois College where she is a member of Chi Beta, the Choir and a cheerleader.

School Employees Art

Capacity Crowd At Passavant Luncheon

A capacity crowd attended the annual Gift Day Luncheon of Passavant Memorial Hospital Aid Society held May 11 at Jacksonville Country Club. Two hundred members and guests enjoyed a delicious buffet and atmosphere of a Greenwich Village Cafe complete with checked table covers and candlelight. Potted palms and geraniums were used for background decoration.

A clever skit, Flight of Fantasy, written by Mrs. Martin Cohen and Mrs. Wadsworth Applebee, depicted a flight to New York City corresponding to the Celebrity Show Tour being offered now by the Aid Society for a four day trip to New York and three broadway shows.

Proper attire and the latest in fashions were modeled by Mrs. A. B. Applebee, Mrs. John Spencer, Mrs. Byron S. Galley, Mrs. Harris Rowe.

Mrs. Paul Garrison of Winchester, Mrs. Emmett K. Evans, Mrs. Richard Arnold and Mrs. T. Joseph Doyle. Mrs. Gail Gilbert provided piano accompaniment and Mrs. Ray Campbell of Winchester presided at the organ.

From Haigh Shop

Costumes worn by the models were from The Haigh Shop, Hotel Dunlap.

Luncheon arrangements were made by the program committee, Mrs. Allen G. McCullough, chairman and Mrs. Harry Hammitt, co-chairman.

The social committee was in charge of decorations, Mrs. Herman Freund, chairman, Mrs. Fred Carter, co-chairman.

Decorations for the Gift Shop were arranged by Mrs. Harlan L. Williamson and Mrs. Dean Floreth. A novel setting of a Flea Market provided clever atmosphere. Tables were provided for donations and background settings included draped burlap, fish nets and bobbers and a flowercart loaded full with pink geraniums. Members of the Gift Shop committee wore French berets and smocks.

The project cleared over four hundred dollars.

The lovely door prize for the day, provided by The Haigh Shop, was awarded to Mrs. Albin Wolfe.

Alpha Iota Has Mother And Daughter Fete

A lovely May theme was carried out in the decorations for the annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Jacksonville Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Iota sorority held recently at the Waverly Methodist church. Pastel-colored Maypoles and May-basket nutcups decked the tables.

Following the meal, "A Tribute to Mothers" was offered by Frances Gutmann. Mrs. Paul Freitag gave the response.

They were accompanied by Mrs. John Gibson.

Mrs. Maude Dyson, former school teacher, was the speaker for the evening. She gave a most interesting talk on her hobby of collecting buttons. Mrs. Dyson explained how buttons could carry such a wonderful history.

Door prizes of potted plants were given to the following: Mrs. Gaylord Swisher, Mrs. Maude Dyson, Mrs. John Gibson, Mrs. Margaret Harmon, Mrs. Iva Short and Miss Jerilyn Ross. Each mother was presented a lovely cup and saucer.

Attending were: Miss Mary Bentena, Mrs. A. Bentena, Mrs. William Imhoff, Mrs. Barbara Lutz, Mrs. Lloyd Black, Mrs. Homer Lutz, Miss Edna Walsh, Mrs. Margaret Harmon, Mrs. Iva Short.

Miss Lois Komnick, Mrs. Carrie Komnick, Mrs. Eldena Walls, Mrs. Grace Duncan, Miss Pat Swisher, Mrs. Gaylord Swisher, Miss Donna Burrus, Mrs. Rena Lantz, Mrs. Lois Hovey, Mrs. Frances Leadill.

Mrs. Margaret Johnson, Mrs. Gaston Foote, Mrs. Bertha Johnson, Miss Frances Gutmann, Mrs. Frank Gutmann, Mrs. Paula Hudson, Mrs. Joyce Nutgrass, Mrs. Opal Shutt.

Miss Dixie Little, Mrs. Virgil Little, Miss Martha Richardson, Mrs. Mildred Richardson, Miss Helen Brown, Mrs. Roy Brown.

Miss Jerilyn Ross and Mrs. Maude Dyson.

The committee in charge consisted of Miss Mary Bentena, chairman, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Martha Richardson and Miss Betty Hembrough.

The larger that beads become, the lighter they get. So don't let those great, big bibs frighten you. They're practically weightless.

Omicron Names New President Of Local Chapter

The Omicron chapter of Jacksonville, Alpha Delta Kappa, an International sorority for teachers was held May 4, in the City Room of Hamilton's cafe at 6:30 p.m.

MARGARET FITZPATRICK

President Majel Segrist called the meeting to order with Loretta Seymour offering prayer. Twenty-four members answered roll call. The president gave a very interesting report of the A.D.K. state convention held April 30, 1960 in Belleville, Ill. During this meeting a very impressive memorial ceremony was conducted and the name of the late Marie Lansing was placed on the membership roll of the Omega Illinois Chapter.

The following A.D.K. Omicron members were presented by the sergeant-at-arms, Charlene Strubbe, for installation: Margaret Fitzpatrick, president; Janelle Ogle, vice president; Catherine Wright, secretary; Eva Daniels, treasurer; Thelma Willard, chaplain; Irene S. Dowland, corresponding secretary; Charlene Strubbe, sergeant-at-arms; Tamar Burch, keeper of the archives.

Plans were made for the annual picnic in Nichols Park Wednesday evening, June 1, 1960 with Thelma Willard, chairman of the committee.

Waverly Club Luncheon At Virginia May 17

WAVERLY — The annual May Luncheon for the Waverly Woman's club will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday, May 17, at Virginia Country Club.

The Hi-Lows, a group of Ashland students, will furnish the musical portion of the program. They include Fred Newell, Richard Bendorf, Helen Edwards, Karen Newell, Judy Fulton and Charles Ryman.

There will also be a style show, courtesy of Leslie and Rickard of Jacksonville with accompaniment by Judy Fulton at the piano.

Members of the social committee of the club will serve as hostesses. Anyone desiring transportation should contact Mrs. Robert Glick or Mrs. W. E. Leahy. Members are reminded to send in reservations.

Student Nurses In Passavant Aid Skit

School Employees Art On Display At Strawn

Over 75 employees of School District 117 responded to an invitation from the art staff to show creative hobby and art work. Each school and area is well represented. Besides 60 pictures there are 40 additional media of expression.

Bus Route Map

Walter McEvers, custodian and bus driver at Lynnville, displays an unusual picture made with enamel paint.

Delbert Mueller, high school science and math teacher, has a display showing how he converted a shotgun into a pistol. Charles Tavender 6th grade teacher at Washington, has submitted a handsome head carved from a block of salt.

Mosaic table tops are displayed by Fred Omer, elementary music coordinator. Jacqueline Hanback, Turner school art teacher also has a table on display.

A set of cartoons by Robert Blazier, assistant principal at Turner, lends a light humor to the exhibit. An interesting variety of work is shown by Mrs. Adelia Suhre from Turner school. A beautiful rose quilt is the work of Mrs Margaret Gruny, purchasing and accounting agent for the District and also a blue quilt by Marion May, home ec teacher at Turner.

Isabel Weller, social worker, has contributed novel hats. Mabel Watt, Franklin school, has a refinished antique piece of furniture and Mrs. Harriet Milburn displays fancy cakes.

BLAZE OF SUNLIGHT

XXXVI

After supper she went home early over Pam's protests. Tomorrow was Mark's birthday.

She had thought of it this morning when she woke, not having dreamed of him nor, as far as she knew, having dreamed at all, yet waking tired. Neurotic, as Steve had said in effect. I'm not working that hard, she'd thought; and then: It's Saturday and tomorrow is Mark's birthday.

Mark had always insisted upon two birthday parties as he was born at three minutes after midnight. So the evening before, he and Rose had their own celebration and then the evening of the day proper—with other people, and later with the children, who made an occasion of it.

She remembered many birthdays: the surprises which weren't always like the first cake she'd baked for him. It had fallen flat upon its heavy little face and he had taken her in his arms and said, "It's terrible and I love it. I love you."

Once he had said, "We should have been born in the same year, on the same day."

"Why? I like your being older."

"Oh, because I feel we should have shared the exact moment. It seems strange to think that I was in the world for a few years before you were; stranger still that after you made your entry I didn't know that somewhere in the town next door there was a hideous shrieking infant."

Lying back in the metal chair with the arched dark sky, now strung with silver, above her, she began quietly to cry. She did not now very often and this was not painful.

Loneliness came and sat beside her and said, with compassion: I shall never leave you. But, I can become your friend.

She thought after a while: Nothing can hurt me any more.

She had reached a safe place in the tunnel. She could be hurt for her children, she could—and doubtless would—suffer with them, but not for herself. This was the point of no return; she need never retrace her steps to the tunnel entrance.

She thought back over the past months. In the Admitting Office she had learned to suffer with and for people. And before that through Pam, Ann Bailey and Karen. She was still learning: Lou and Mark's father—she had persuaded herself that she would take the last days of her vacation and fly down—and when the time came, she would suffer through Gwen.

She was sleepy when she went to bed, turned off her lamp and looked at the clock. It was midnight. She thought: In three minutes Mark's birthday. I'm a young woman, I can live 20 years, even 30 or more. How shall I manage?

There would be much with which she must contend; most of her problems would concern the children; others; practicalities like a house, its upkeep, repairs, taxes and mounting costs. And there would be some outside her immediate family.

Physical things must concern her, too; unforeseen illnesses, the complete conquering of her own needs and the inevitable onset and course of the menopausal syndrome. She had talked with Steve about this, and with his help could meet it.

This was the present which contains the future. But the future was not frightening, except in the aspects of its endurance—she simply knew there would be conflicts, some apparent before they occurred, others not.

She was almost asleep when she heard something in the quiet room, the windows open to unstirring air. She heard the sound of coins dropping on wood. Unmistakable, that light metallic sound. She had heard it almost every night for 20 years.

She asked, "Mark?" . . . but now she was asleep.

She woke on Sunday just before dawn. She woke, wide, all of a piece, and thought: I can't go back to sleep. She passed her dressing table on her way to shower, looked at the flowers in the gray light, and said, "Happy birthday, darling."

* * *

When she came back into the room, she passed Mark's dresser and looked down at the coins which lay there: a dime, two quarters, pennies. She didn't remember putting them there last night. She must have brought her handbag upstairs and turned out the coin purse.

Then she remembered . . . the dream . . . just as she slid into sleep. For a little while she stood quietly, her hand on the polished wood.

None was missing.

She thought: I must have left some upstairs on the dresser, Friday perhaps, and forgotten them.

In the kitchen, she put on the coffee and sat down at the table by an east window, and smiled. Anyway, it had been a lovely dream.

The sky was now the color of the dove's breast, where it flushes faintly pink; in a little while it would be streaked with mauve and gold and then the sun would rise, the relentless but wonderful summer sun.

It has always risen and always will, she thought further, and then, as she looked for and saw the resurgent gold, sometime, someday, after the long dark tunnel the blaze of sunlight. . . .

PLAY IS WORTH AMBITIOUS BID

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written For NEA

In the open pair championship at the Jackson Nationals, Clarisse Holt Bonnell of New Orleans found herself at a stratosphere contract of six clubs.

Unquestionably, Clarisse and her partner, Charles Gabriel, of Fort Worth, had cooperated to get a trifle too high, but Clarisse saw no reason to give up. After all, the only quick loser was the club ace and if she could just find a place to get rid of one little heart she could wrap up the contract.

The best chance for this would be to drop the king of diamonds. So, after winning the spade lead with the ace, Clarisse cashed her ace of diamonds; ruffed a spade to get to dummy; ruffed a diamond; ruffed her last spade; then led and ruffed a third diamond.

If the king had been kind enough to drop, Clarisse would have no worries, but the king did not fall. Nevertheless, Clarisse noted that she had an extra chance. She led her king of hearts; continued with a heart to dummy's ace; ruffed dummy's queen of diamonds and then finally played a trump.

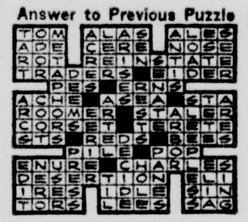

East won with the ace and found himself in a losing position. He was down to three cards and they were all spades. He had to play one of them.

At New Berlin Display

NEW BERLIN—Bill Zachary, New Berlin, and Show Chairman for the West Central Illinois Gem and Rock Show, is shown holding a Geode, a beautiful stone containing quartz and calcite crystals which he found in Brown county near Mt. Sterling last summer while on a field trip. To his right is his polishing stone. The exhibit, which will largely fill the expansive fairgrounds building, New Berlin, will be held on Saturday and Sunday, May 21 and 22, opening each day at 1 p.m. and closing at 9 p.m. on Saturday evening, and at 6 p.m. on Sunday evening.

Displays of gems and gem cuttings, shells, rock and minerals, and Indian artificats will be shown, including the geode which Bill is holding. Admission is free of charge, and door prizes will be given each day. The large exhibit will prove of much interest to the public, and everyone interested in "rockhounding," or other phases of this type of hobby, is urged to attend the varied display.

Any one wishing to join the local club, The Lincoln Orbit-Earth Science Society, is invited to contact Bill Zachary at New Berlin. Bill is vice-president of the group of about thirty-five which meets monthly in Springfield, and are interested in finding fossils and semi-precious stones and the cutting and polishing of some of them. The group makes field trips often, usually on Sunday. This summer, some two and three-day trips to neighboring states are planned.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

The ways of laying a TV villain low are many. Even in Westerns, where traditionally the he o's Frontier Colt is the instrument of justice for badmen, variations on the old theme are cropping up. Baddies are being "done in" by an increasing variety of arms, including Gatling guns, sawed-off carbines, derringers and even small cannon.

The latest "innovation" in TV firearms is wielded by Don Durant, who stars as CBS-TV's "Johnny Ringo." Called a "Le Mat Special," the gun is much like the ordinary time-honored "six-shooter" . . . at least for the first 6 shots. But then the hapless "heavies" who expect to clobber Ringo after counting off the usual 6 loads from his handgun have a nasty surprise coming. One more pull of the trigger fires a 7th load . . . this time a shotgun shell.

TV villains are coming up against strange and awesome weapons these days . . . but none stranger nor more awesome than that carried by "Johnny Ringo." The "weapon" our TV servicemen "carry" isn't strange or awesome, but it is effective against TV set troubles. It's called "experience" And only experienced TV repairmen can provide fast, dependable TV service that you can rely on. Remember, good service doesn't cost . . . it pays. Call us next time. Rockets Warmup For Regional With 8-1 Win Over Greenfield

Coach Bob Winstead of Routt and Coach Ken Azbell of Greenfield se. t their charges through a five and one-half inning regional warmup affair Friday afternoon at Nichols Ball Park with the Rockets coming out on top, 8-1.

The contest was stopped at 5:50 p.m. by agreement and neither coach went with his front line hurlers because both teams swing into regional action Tuesday.

Routt faces Mt. Pulaski Tuesday in the JHS Regional while the Tigers are participating in the Carlinville playoffs.

Joe Cors, a lefty, turned in a strong three-hitter for Routt in his six innings before the game was halted. Cors walked three and fanned four.

D. Hazelwood started for Greenfield and the sophomore flinger was treated rather roughly in his two and one-third innings of work, being charged with eight hits and seven runs.

After Greenfield had taken a 1-0 first inning lead, Routt came back in the bottom half to score three runs, two of which were the result of the catcher's wild pickoff throw at first base.

Routt clinched victory number nine in 13 starts with five runs in the third inning. The Rockets collected four straight solid base knocks before Watts and Brennan came through for two more to give the winners five runs and the 8-1 cushion. The long pokes were doubles by Bill Tobin and Bob Brennan.

Crimsons Second At Macomb Track District

MACOMB — Jacksonville High qualified two boys, Mal Portee and Ken Norton, for the state track finals and placed second to Quincy here Friday night in the IHSA district track and field championships.

Portee won the broad jump with a leap of 21' 1¾" and placed second in the 100 yard dash.

Norton set a new Macomb District record with his victory in the 180 yard low hurdles. Norton covered the distance in 20.2 which also ties Bobby Watts' time in this event. The JHS junior also took a second in the discus.

Sports Briefs

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP)—Central Michigan bombed two pitchers for 16 hits and walloped Western Illinois 11-1 in an IIAC baseball game Friday.

Central jumped on Western starter Walt Grayson for eight runs in the third and fourth innings and added three more in the seventh on a 400-foot home run by catcher Glen Haight.

Central now is 3-4 in conference play. Western is 5-5.

CHICAGO (AP)— Evanston won the New Trier district prep golf title Friday with defending state champion Highland Park placing second and failing to qualify for the state meet in Champaign next week.

Evanston's team had a combined 311 strokes on the Winnetka Golf Course to 314 for Highland Park. Fred Fischl of New Trier won medalist honors with 36-37—72.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Michigan's Big Ten defending tennis champions won their sixth straight dual meet of the season Friday by defeating Minnesota 8-1.

Northwestern defeated Purdue 9-0 in the second duel meet.

Minnesota's only victory in its Michigan match was by John Desmond. He defeated Ken Mike 1-6, 8-6, 6-3.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)— The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League Friday announced the signing of Fred Cone, ex-Green Bay Packer and a specialist in place kicking.

Cone will be listed as a fullback but will be used primarily for placements, a spokesman for the new pro club said. Cone led the league in 1955 in field goals, completing 16 in 24 attempts.

RACE DRIVER KILLED FRIDAY IN PRACTICE RUN

LONDON (AP) — Harry Schell, a handsome auto race driver with an American and French background, was killed when his car crashed in the rain at 100-miles-an-hour in a practice run on Friday the 13th.

Schell, born in Paris of American parents and a veteran of the championship driving circuit, was the 13th top driver killed in the last three years.

The 39-year-old ace was practicing at the Silverstone Circuit for Saturday's International Trophy race. The rear wheels of his Cooper slid off the track into the mud as he took a curve at 100 miles an hour in a heavy rain. The car bounced off the safety barrier into a brick wall. Schell was thrown out. He was dead when they picked him up.

Asbury Unit Of Home Bureau Has Meeting May 12

The Asbury unit of Home Bureau met May 12 at the home of Mrs. Everett Reynolds, with Mrs. Paul Flynn assisting the hostess. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and were approved.

Fifteen members and three guests were invited to the kitchen where the major lesson, Foods High in Value and Low in Cost, was presented.

Mrs. Ray Bourn, assisted by Mrs. Carter, prepared a frozen lemon custard in a crust made of graham crackers and peanut butter. While this was freezing she made beef heart in a sweet sour sauce over rice. Cabbage, apple and turnip salad and cooked broccoli were also prepared.

The hostesses added hot rolls, potato chips, pickles, coffee and mints. All present gave the women a hand for a very nice dinner.

The meeting continued with Mrs. C. G. Lonergan giving the lesson on fashion and you.

A membership tea will be held May 20 at the home of Mrs. Don Houston. The next meeting will be a district meeting at the Baptist Church recreation room with the South Jacksonville unit as hostesses.

Guests attending the meeting were Mrs. Jack Spradlin, Mrs. Robert Hembrough and Mrs. T. J. Walling.

Springtime salad: Add salt, sugar and lemon juice to sour cream and use as a dressing for thinly sliced tomatoes and cucumbers. Pare the cucumbers or not—as you please.

Big Ten Briefs

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota took over the lead in the Big Ten baseball race Friday with an 8-4 victory over Wisconsin.

The Gophers' big blow was a three-run homer by first baseman Tom Moe in the sixth inning. Clyde Nelson, now 2-1 in the loop, picked up the victory although needing help in the ninth from Ken Anderson.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Purdue collected 12 hits off two pitchers, including three home runs, to wallop Illinois 10-3 in a Big Ten baseball game Friday.

Illinois matched Purdue's output in homers but all came with bases empty, Clyde Washington and Gerald Zubak swatted two-run homers for the Boilermakers and Bernie Allen added a singleton.

Jack Helmkamp started for Purdue and got the decision although relieved in the seventh, with Neal Ziech finishing.

SHELVES ACTING CAREER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Billy Wells, who starred at halfback for Michigan State in the 1954 Rose Bowl game, shelved his acting career Friday and signed to play for the Los Angeles Chargers of the American Football League.

The 27-year-old Winnetka, Ill., athlete, signed a one-year contract.

Wells played four years with the Washington Redskins, Pittsburgh Steelers and Philadelphia Eagles in the National League.

Cubs Trade Taylor, Neeman To Phillies For Cardwell, Bouchee

CHICAGO (AP)— The last-place Chicago Cubs traded Tony Taylor and Cal Neeman to the Philadelphia Phils for Don Cardwell and Ed Bouchee Friday as new Cub Manager Lou Boudreau almost entirely revamped his infield.

Only shortstop Ernie Banks, the National League's most valuable player for two successive years, remains in the infield Boudreau inherited from Charley Grimm 10 days ago.

Replacing Taylor at second base will be rookie Jerry Kindall, recalled from Houston Thursday. At third, Frank Thomas — erstwhile first sacker and outfielder—supplants the benched Don Zimmer.

Cardwell, 24, is 1-2 this season and last year was 9-10 for the last-finishing Phils. "He's still a youngster with a great future," said Boudreau. "Naturally, he'll be a starter for us."

Bouchee, 27, has a four-season major league average of .281 and now is batting .274.

Taylor, 24, a native of Cuba, had been a Cub regular since 1958. He is hitting .260.

"It was difficult to give up Tony," said Boudreau. "He is a good second baseman, has speed and can hit. But we had to give up something good to get a first baseman and a starting pitcher."

Neeman, 31, had been with the Cubs since he was drafted from the New York Yankee organization late in 1956. His three-season average with the Cubs, prior to this season, was .244. However, this season, he ranked behind Del Rice and Sammy Taylor.

This was the year's second Cub-Phil deal. In January, the Cubs got Richie Ashburn from the Phils for Al Dark, John Buzhardt and Jim Woods.

CHAPMAN CAR SCRATCHED

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The car entered by H. A. Chapman of Tucson, Ariz., was scratched Friday from the Memorial Day 500-Mile Race.

Art Sims, chief mechanic on the Chapman crew, said no attempt would be made to repair the car for this year's race. It was wrecked Wednesday by rookie driver Chuck Hulse of Downey, Calif.

Hull Man Takes Part In Army Field Exercise

8TH INF. DIV., Germany (AHTNC) — Army PFC Larry G. Smith, 19, son of Charles W. Smith, Hull, Ill., recently participated with other personnel from the 8th Infantry Division's 12th Engineer Battalion in a field training exercise in Germany.

The exercise, designed to determine the unit's combat efficiency, stressed air transportability training and squad-level tactics.

Smith, a bulldozer operator with the battalion's Headquarters Company in Dexheim, entered the Army in September 1958 and completed basic combat training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

SHORT RIBS By FRANK O'NEAL

Nashville Songbirds Rival Tin Pan Alley In Quantity

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—These hills are alive with the sound of music.

Well, some folks call it music. The rest think the cataract of fiddle squeakings, guitar twangings, hillbilly bleatings and less identifiable noises thundering out of these environs is the saddest music this side of the River Styx.

But tastes aside, the fact remains that staid old Nashville, once the gateway to the West, has become the gateway to the nation's eardrums. Block for block and person for person, it probably produces more music than any metropolis its size anywhere in the world.

The statistics alone are dazzling to the eye and a threat to municipal mental health. Out of a population of 180,000, Nashville numbers:

Ninety-five BMI (Broadcast Music Inc.) publishing houses and 16 ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers) houses.

One hundred seventy-nine full-time BMI songwriters, 100 more part time, and perhaps 30 fulltime and 20 part time ASCAP writers.

Untold thousands of amateur writers who glut the main post office with their feverish output and haunt the corridors of the publishers begging for a chance. One firm, Cedarwood, spends $250 a week in postage mailing back rejected manuscripts.

Seven hundred and fifty musicians holding cards in the American Federation of Musicians local, plus another 350 who hold forth professionally on the jug, the sweet potato, the washboard and similar instruments not requiring a union card.

Upwards of 1,600 "country artists," a catchall phrase for cowboy singers, yodelers, square dance callers, hoedown fiddlers, hymn chanters, folk singers, hayseed comics, choirs, quartets and highly specialized soloists who may do nothing more than wail the background "wah-wah" at a recording session.

Fifteen recording studios, two of which operate on a 'round the clock basis, seven days a week. Last year more than half the country's records, both singles and albums, came out of Nashville. Decca does 85 per cent of its pops recording here; RCA Victor and Columbia about 50 per cent of their entire output.

A dozen artist bureaus or booking agents who send hillbilly talent into the hinterland, as far away as Canada and California, in air conditioned, dust streaked Cadillacs for personal appearances at theaters, clubs, barn dances and what not. Last year the Jim Denny Bureau filled 2,175 booking dates, at fees ranging from $300 to $5,000 a night, depending on whether the artist was a five-string banjo picker or a big name recording star.

Nashville is the only city in the country, if not the entire western world, where Elvis Presley can venture forth in broad daylight and not get his white silk shirt torn from his back by squealing admirers. A few teen-agers may lapse into a catatonic stupor, but the majority of onlookers manage a superb grip on their emotions.

They can recall when Elvis was just another sideman on Grand Ole Opry, belabori a big bull and they treat him as they do the hundreds of other ballad mongers who go clumping through the hotel lobbies in their hand-tooled cowboy boots.

Any day of the week you can see Eddy Arnold, Marty Robbins, Jim Reeves, Carl Smith, Roy Acuff, Ernest Tubb, Don Gibson and lesser lights of the high income bracket strolling the streets or hurrying to a record session like mere mortals on the way to work. If it weren't for their $50 stetsons, their $500 rhinestone studded western duds and their $350 mother-of-pearl encrusted guitars, you could hardly tell them from the rest of the citizenry.

For in Nashville everyone—or so it seems—is either a singer or songwriter or both, a municipal psychosis that stuns a visitor as soon as he steps off the train.

Everywhere you go you hear about the secretary who just sold "Sentenced To Die;" about the housewife, who co-authored "Slow-Poke;" about the truck driver who spent his last $100 recording "Pinball Machine" and took the copies around to the disc jockeys himself; about the lawyer who keeps popping into a publisher every Monday with his "weekend wonders."

You hear how Marty Robbins made it so big with "El Paso," he's sworn off working for the rest of the year so as not to overburden his tax lawyers; how Jimmy Driftwood was a $2,700-a-year school teacher in Snowball, Ark., when "Battle of New Orleans" exploded across the charts; how the Traeid Society is constantly coming to the rescue of the bumpkins who daily debark at the local bus station with nothing more than a battered guitar and the fond hope of becoming another Conway Twitty or Stonewall Jackson.

One answer is Grand Ole Opry, a Saturday night sawdust spectacular that draws 8,000 avid fans into the creaking old Ryman Auditorium for 4½ hours of the best in country music. Now in its record 21st consecutive year on network radio, the Opry is to the hillbilly artist what Hollywood is to the starlet—the culmination of all hopes and dreams, the chance to click where it counts.

Around the World in 84 Days—

Greene, Scott RNA Convention To Be Held June 8

The Royal Neighbors of America in Hillview held their regular meeting Monday evening, May 9th, with Oracle, Lela Hubbard presiding.

Plans for the Greene and Scott County Convention, Royal Neighbors of America, to be held in Hillview June 8th, were discussed. Arrangements were made for the banquet to be served at 6:30 o'clock, preceding the evening session which will begin at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Ruth Koontz and Mrs. Hazel Barnett have charge of the entertainment and have issued an invitation to the public for the evening program.

The address of welcome will be given by the County Oracle, Zella Ward, and the response will be given by the Supreme Director, Mrs. Annie Cooley. The Roodhouse Camp has planned to put on the "School of Instruction" in the afternoon, and the Winchester Camp will participate in a "Drill" in the evening.

Mrs. Maude Norris and Mrs. Nora Hunnicutt have charge of the decorating of the tables and the school gymnasium, where the convention is to be held.

It was decided to have a social hour succeeding the next regular meeting May 23rd. The members will play bingo and refreshments will be served.

Day Unit Meets At Coraor Home

The Jacksonville Day Unit of Home Bureau met May 9 at the home of Mrs. Margaret Coraor, 919 North Main street. The unit will be host to the Sinclair and Alexander units June 13 at 2 p.m. at the Farm Bureau hall.

May 24 members may make a tour of the Kroger store in Jacksonville. A tour of the IGA store in Winchester will be held May 25. June 24 Mrs. Carroll will give a demonstration on small electrical appliances.

The selected subject, Fashion and You, was given by Mrs. Frank Newberry. She traced fashions from the 19th century to the present time. Mrs. A. S. Bosier gave a demostration, Foods High in Value and Low in Cost. She prepared sweet, sour heart; cabbage and turnip salad and lemon cream pie. The foods were served during the social hour.

TOBACCO SHOP RESTORED

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The latest addition to the Old Salem Restoration is a pre-Revolutionary War tobacco shop.

The shop was founded in 1771 by Johann Matthew Miksch, a German immigrant. The recent dedication of the 187-year-old building, fore-runner of today's 1½ million tobacco shops in the United States, was another step in the program to restore the early Moravian village of Old Salem.

The restoration is being undertaken by Old Salem, Inc., a non-profit educational organization established by local citizens in 1950. Chief speaker at the tobacco shop dedication was James P. Richards, president of the Tobacco Institute, Inc.

NINE LUCKY DOGS

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Nine beagle puppies, all from good canine families, won a 10-weeks study course on the campus of Hollins College for girls.

Dr. Allen D. Calvin, associate professor of psychology, will teach them a course in discipline on a grant from the U.S. Public Health Service. They will live in air conditioned pine paneled quarters and eat special diet.
